

MISS DAYMAN IS HONOURED

Teacher at Wellmans School For Six Years

On Friday evening, June 25th, a large number of ratepayers and their families of S. S. No. 8, Rawdon, assembled at the school to pay tribute to Miss G. L. Dayman who has served as teacher for the past six years. The gathering was called to order by Mr. John Heagle, who acted as chairman. Several selections of community songs were sung, after which several of the men were called upon to give speeches. A song was then given by Jim Watson entitled "A Dollar or two". Two choruses were given by the school. Miss Dayman was then called forward and presented with a silver butter dish from her fifth class and the following address was read by Miss Alma Johnston and the presentation made by Miss Lela Linn:

Harold, Ontario, June 25th, 1937

Dear Miss Dayman,—
We, the fifth class pupils of S.S. No. 8, Rawdon, have learned with regret that you are leaving the school. Before you leave us, we would like to present you with this gift. In presenting this gift we assure you on behalf of our fifth class that as a patient teacher, a wise counsellor and a most excellent instructor you will ever be remembered by your fifth class with feelings of highest regard and esteem. We look back over the period during which we have received instruction from you with sincere pleasure. You have always been willing to assist us in our studies. We wish you much happiness for the future and hope you will always keep us in your memory.

Signed on behalf of the fifth class—
Lela Linn, Alma Johnston and Don Nix.

A leather aeropack was then presented by Miss Dorothy Hinds and the following address was read by Mrs. Lindsay Pollock:

SCHOOL BOARD MET MONDAY

Resignation of G. L. Thain Accepted—H. S. Time Table to be Changed

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Board of Education was held in the High School on Monday night with Vice-Chairman Walter Wright presiding and Messrs J. S. Morton, Ewart Bailey, Chas. Linn, W. Patterson, J. B. Belshaw, E. G. Bailey, Dr. H. H. Alger and Dr. C. F. Wait in attendance.

Mr. G. L. Thain, who has resigned from the staff of the local High School to accept a position in Madoc, briefly addressed the members of the Board, thanking them for their co-operation and assistance during the past year.

Principal J. L. Good reported the members of the staff who were taking the summer course in music and Domestic Science had made the necessary application and were making plans to attend. He drew the attention of the Property Committee to the number of seats in the different rooms that had become marred through the cutting of initials upon them, and suggested that they be re-surfaced before being varnished.

Another matter discussed by Principal Good had to do with the re-arrangement of the school time table. The new courses set by the Department of Education called for 8 periods of 40 minutes during each day, four in the forenoon and four in the afternoon. It was his opinion, stated Mr. Good, that it would work to the advantage of the staff to have school close at 11.45 for the noon recess and open at 1.15.

As members of the Board could see no disadvantage in the proposed change, the suggestion of Mr. Good was adopted on motion of C. F. Linn and W. Patterson.

Principal C. A. Wells of the Public School, stated the caretaker had promised to look after the school garden during the vacation. He was unable to report on the results of the examinations since they were not yet completed, but he expected they would compare favourably with other years. A request for keys to fit a desk in the fourth room will be looked after by the Property Committee.

J. B. Belshaw, reporting for the Property Committee, stated a section of the roof on the Public School had been given a coating of roofing compound, which had proven satisfactory.

LOCALS LOSE FIRST GAME

Final Score Was 8 to 4 in Seven-Inning Game

In an exhibition game of baseball played on the High School diamond on Friday night, a team picked from the Stirling Town League was defeated by Deloro by a score of 8 to 4 in seven innings. This was the first game of the season for the locals against an outside team and a goodly number of fans were on hand to witness a struggle that was anybody's game until the final inning when the locals weakened and allowed the visitors to score five runs. While defeated, the local players showed the benefit of experience gained in the town league and before the season is over should provide worthy opposition for district teams. Their fielding on the whole was good, but several members of the team showed a decided weakness against curve ball pitching. Butler, on the mound for Stirling, was pitching his first game and his performance stamped him as a valuable man to have around. Ten opponents fell victim to his slants via the strike-out route, while he walked two. Conley, behind the plate, handled his offerings well. Callery was the pitcher for Deloro and also had ten strikeouts to his credit, striking out the side in order in the second inning, but he issued six free passes to first base.

In the first inning Deloro counted one run on a walk and an error. In the second Butler struck out the first batter to face him, while the next two were thrown out at first. They were also blanked in the third, fourth and fifth, but scored two in the sixth and five in the seventh when the locals faltered. Stirling failed to count until the fourth inning when a walk and two hits produced two runs to give them the lead. In the sixth they added two more on two singles and a two-bagger by Shier, but were blanked in the final inning.

The lineups:
Deloro — P. Gray, ss; W. Simmonds, 3b; D. Smith, lf; S. Callery, p; G. McCall, c; C. O'Neill, 1b; J. Loveless, 2b; R. McColl, cf; R. Regan, rf. Stirling — Shier, ss; Conley, c; Bailey, lf; Williams, 2b; Ward, 1b; Ryckman, 3b; Dainard, cf; Robinson, rt; Butler, p. Fox replaced Ward in fifth; Fraser replaced Ryckman in the 2nd and Reid replaced Dainard in the 6th innings.

ACCEPTS NEW SCHOOL

Miss Dorothy Morton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Morton, Stirling, who has been a member of the teaching staff of the Deseronto High School for the past three years, has resigned to accept a position on the staff of the Rummymede Collegiate, Toronto. She will commence her new duties in September.

Sprentall, the local manager are in Niagara Falls this week, attending the Convention of the Ontario Municipal Electrical Association. Mrs. Jeffrey and Mrs. Cranston accompanied their husbands.

TEACHER RESIGNS

Miss Jane Moffat, teacher of the second room of the Stirling Public School for the past five years, has tendered her resignation to accept a position at Port Credit. During the time spent on the local staff she has proven a very capable and efficient teacher and there will be general regret at her departure. Miss Moffat left for her home in Ancaster, Ont., on Wednesday.

TEAMS ARE TIED FOR FIRST PLACE

Sudden Death Game to Decide Winner Saturday Night

The final games of the regular schedule of the Rawdon Softball League were played on Tuesday evening and resulted in Bethel and Springbrook being tied for first place. In order to break the deadlock a sudden death game will be played on the Stirling diamond on Saturday evening, when it is expected one of the largest crowds of the season will be on hand to cheer their favourites.

The first game of the semi-finals will be played next Tuesday night between the second and third teams. The most startling upset of the week occurred on Tuesday night when Glen Ross took the fast-stepping Bethel team into camp by the one-sided score of 17 to 5 in a seven-innings game played on the Glen Ross diamond. The boys from the banks of the Trent had their batting tons on and Runnalls' offerings were met with a sustained onslaught. Scoring four runs in the first the winners added two runs in the second, third and fourth, four in the fifth and three in the sixth. The losers had little luck against the pitching of Pyear on the mound for Glen Ross and were unable to score until the third when they put across three runs. They were blanked in the fourth and fifth and added two to their total in the sixth, but failed to count in the final inning.

The lineups:
Bethel — R. Bateman, B. Sutherland, B. Heath, B. Ryckman, Butler, E. Runnalls, M. McKeown, D. Richardson and Green.

Glen Ross — H. Brown, O. Holland, G. Pyear, Rose, Reynolds, A. Fraser, G. Armstrong, O. McDonald, R. Pyear. In the other game on Tuesday evening Springbrook defeated Mount Pleasant on the Stirling High School diamond by the score of 11 to 1.

On Saturday night on the same diamond Mount Pleasant defeated Glen Ross 16 to 16 before a large crowd.

The final standing of the League is:

P. W. L. Pts.
6 4 2 8
6 4 2 8
6 3 3 6

FLOWER SHOW WILL BE HELD

Meetings Held Thursday and Saturday Nights — Committees Appointed

The Board of Directors of the Stirling Horticultural Society has decided to again hold a Flower Show this year. At a meeting held on Thursday evening last a committee composed of Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. E. Ward and Mrs. H. Rollins, was appointed to revise the prize list. Other business included the appointment of Mrs. A. Hammond, Miss Eliza Donnan and Miss Gena Spry to purchase bulbs. Members present were: president J. B. Belshaw, Mrs. E. Ward, Mrs. Chas. Mitchell, Miss Gena Spry, Mrs. J. M. McGee, Mrs. J. Wilson, Mrs. L. Munro, Miss E. Donnan, Mrs. H. Rollins and G. H. Luery.

On Saturday night the Directors met again in the Agricultural Rooms with J. B. Belshaw, Mrs. O'Donnell, Mrs. L. Munro, Mrs. Wm. Mitchell, Mrs. E. Ward, Mrs. Emma Mitchell, Miss Eliza Donnan, Mrs. H. Rollins and G. H. Luery in attendance. Plans were discussed for the holding of the Flower Show and a supper some time during the coming summer. Mrs. H. Rollins, Mrs. J. Wilson and Mrs. L. Munro were appointed a nominating committee to arrange for the show and decide on the date. Last year's show was not as good as expected due to the dry weather, but there has been an abundance of growth this year and there should be both a large and high quality exhibit. Flower growers should plan now to become an exhibitor and help in making this year's show a standout.

The work will be completed in time for the reopening of the church on September 5th.

THAT "IDLE MONEY"

People speak of "idle money," of "idle rich," of "concentrated wealth." The Ottawa Journal contends there are no such things. Money, to begin with, says the Journal, can't be idle. It is not even idle though it be lying in the bank. If it be in the bank, then the bank makes it work by making loans against it — loans to other business. If it be in stocks and bonds, then the stocks and bonds are financing industries which produce wealth and which produce work and wages. The much despised "coupon cutter" provides as much work and as much business as any man in the community. Actually, concludes the Journal, there is no such thing as "idle money."

Perhaps not, but the trouble is this "idle money" is too thinly spread amongst the rest of us.

IT'S TIME SOMETHING WAS DONE

It's hard to understand why the Stirling merchants don't form an association of some kind so that the voice of the majority may be procured on certain questions that arise from time to time affecting the business life of this village. At different times throughout the year such matters come up for decision and there is always some dissatisfaction over the way they are settled. Last week a decision was wanted on the question of whether or not the stores would close for the usual Wednesday half-holiday on June 30th, since the following day (Dominion Day) was a holiday. We were asked several times what the merchants were going to do but since we had neither the time nor the inclination to canvass every businessman in town we were unable to give an answer. Finally one of the prominent merchants canvassed several of his fellow business men and advised us to make an announcement in last week's issue that the stores would remain open on Wednesday, June 30th, until 6 p.m. Since then we have been criticized by some, who wanted to take the holiday, for making the announcement. So there you are. As long as the business men have no organization these misunderstandings are bound to occur. Don't you think it's time that some action was taken on this matter?

PRACTISE CONSERVATION

Local disciples of Isaac Walton are reminded that the opening of the bass and lunge season is today (Thursday). While numerous requests were made by operators of tourist resorts for an early opening, the Department of Fisheries, with an eye to conserving the male bass during the hatching season, refused to advance the opening date. In doing so it is felt that the interests of all concerned will be best served. With the opening of the season, the Department also urges the conservation of the game fish in Ontario waters.

Every angler who is a true sportsman at heart will not only refuse to take a chance on keeping a fish below the legal limit, but he will also see to it that the undersize specimen will not be mutilated to such an extent that it is likely to die after being placed back in the water.

A bulletin issued by the department of game and fisheries gives four rules which, if followed closely, will tend to minimize injury to fish that do not measure up to the required mark:

- (1) When fishing don't allow the bait to lie on the bottom if you can possibly avoid it.
- (2) When you get a strike, set the hook in the usual manner, before the fish has had time to swallow it. This will usually result in catching the fish through the jaw, and if undersize will enable you to release it without injury.
- (3) Carry a hook extractor in your kit. This is simple to make and may consist of a piece of thin metal with a notch at the end. This is inserted down the throat of the fish with the notch against the hook. A little downward pressure will frequently release the hook and prevent tearing the throat.
- (4) All these precautions will be in vain unless you 'wet your hands before handling the fish.'

OBSERVE THE SPEED LAWS

The majority of motorists are abiding by the new speed limit of fifty miles per hour on the highways of the province. We drove over the three hundred miles last week-end and found that when we maintained an average speed of between forty-five and fifty miles an hour only the odd car passed us. However, what driver must keep in mind at all times is that fifty miles an hour in the country and thirty miles an hour in towns, villages and cities are the maximum speeds permitted under perfect conditions. The reckless motorist is not protected by the present speed laws. There are times and places when a much lower rate of speed is dangerous. Careful drivers will seldom attain the maximum unless conditions are ideal. A small booklet has been issued by the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Department of Highways, containing much valuable information for the would-be careful driver. Condensed within thirteen brief paragraphs, are the following which every motorist might profitably use to his own advantage and to the advantage of the numerous drivers which he meets on the highways of the provinces. Here they are:

1. Consider the rights and privileges of others.
2. Drive your car at a reasonable and proper speed at all times.
3. Give full and individual attention to your driving. If you want to enjoy the scenery or 'window shop' — park your car.
4. Know your stopping distance at all times. Reasonable speed in fair weather or on a dry road surface may be dangerous in rain or snow.
5. Keep your brakes, lights, steering mechanism and tires in good operating condition. Failure to do so is an indication of a dangerous and irresponsible driver.
6. Don't insist on your 'right of way'. Your life and health are much more important.
7. Watch the car ahead, and don't follow too closely.
8. Never pass another vehicle on a hill or curve or at any point where the view is obstructed.
9. Slow down at crossings, street intersections, schools, and when passing parked cars. A few seconds lost may save a lifetime of regret.
10. Observe road signs and signals. They have a definite purpose — to prevent accidents.
11. Be particularly careful when passing pedestrians or bicyclists. Get your foot on the brake then blow the horn if it is absolutely necessary.
12. If you drive don't drink. If you drink don't drive.
13. Observe this golden rule: Drive as you would have others drive.

Relating facts about accident cost in Ontario, the estimate is made that motor accidents cost the citizens of Ontario $25,000,000 a year, and that each year an average of 550 persons are killed, and over 10,000 injured on Ontario highways, many of the latter permanently disabled and disfigured for life.

CURRENT COMMENT

It has been said that rest is rust. Not so with a summer vacation after a busy year of work. Then rest is oil for the wheels of care and makes the old machine run smoother for another year.

According to an exchange the Council of the village of Chesley is about to submit a plan for the erection of a municipally-owned theatre to the ratepayers. Stirling Council took this same step several years ago, and as a result the citizens of this village have one of the finest theatres of any small town in the province. It is operated by the village and turns considerable revenue into the treasurer's hands each year. The citizens of Chesley will make no mistake if they give the Council authority to go in to the theatre business.

The season of family reunions is again with us. Already the dates have been announced for a number of them and there is no doubt but that there will be many more in this district before the summer is over. Oak Lake, with its fine scenery and the splendid accommodations provided by the owners of the different picnic grounds holds an attraction for events of this kind and many who have met with their old friends at this popular resort in other years will again return this year. These reunions seem to keep them in touch with each other and enable them to maintain pride in a common ancestry. But they do more. They furnish an opportunity of paying tribute to the men and women of the past who settled this country, set up homes in the wilderness and left a heritage which should ever be cherished, because of great sacrifice connected with it.

Each year in the Rockies several feature events are held in addition to the day-by-day amusements. Among them are the Calgary Stampede, July 5 to 10; Indian Days at Banff, July 23 to 25; outing of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies to Mount Assiniboine, July 30 to August 3; outing of Trail Hikers of Canadian Rockies in Moraine Lake district, August 6 to 9; Banff golf week, August 23 to 28; and Yoho Valley reunion camp of the Alpine Club of Canada from July 17 to 31.

What Others Say

WHO'S WHO?

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)
If the Toronto Tely doesn't quit flirting with Premier Hepburn and The Star doesn't lay off boosting Earl Rowe, the political birds of a feather in this province won't know who to flock together with. It is all so confusing and must be rather annoying to the birds.

TOO MUCH ATTENTION?

(Brantford Expositor)
The suggestion has been made across the border that there should be at least one physician, and one nurse in constant attendance at every high school. Pretty soon each youngster will also have the pulse tested in order to ascertain if answering some question will be too much of a strain on his heart.

LIKE OTHER GOOD THINGS

(Kitchener Record)
Like every other good thing relief has been run to the ground. It has in too many instances become a racket and it is most unfair that industrious men and women should have to contribute directly or indirectly to the support of these human drones. Let them work or — let them go hungry.

HARDEST HIT

(Kingston Whig-Standard)
The people who are hardest hit today are the middle class people. The rich, even after paying very high taxes, still have enough left to enable them to live comfortably and often luxuriously. The very poor are better looked after today than they ever were. It is the man on the moderate income who is trying to buy his little home, educate his family, keep up his insurance savings, and try to put by a little for the inevitable "rainy day" who finds the going hardest.

CURE FOR OUR ILLS

(Lindsay Post)
Home after home is kept in constant turmoil because the hickory and the woodshed are considered old-fashioned. All this can be overcome successfully, humanely and definitely. Homes can be made places of peace and contentment, places where parents receive proper consideration and respect, where children are given an opportunity to develop and grow in an atmosphere free from tension and constant nagging. The solution is not new. It is a more general return to the woodshed and hickory.

BALKING THE AUTO THIEF

(Brockville Recorder and Times)
A license plate intended to talk the most wary auto thief by making him a mark for policemen or citizens as soon as he tries to slip away unnoticed in a stolen car has been invented by Messrs Philip Parkes and Thomas Richardson, of Winnipeg. When the car-owner parks his machine he pulls out a section of the plate, cut to slide easily into place against a riveted-on back piece of heavy tin, painted a glaring red. This leaves an incomplete plate with a red gap on it that says plainly: "I belong to a stolen car. Come and get me." A car thief cannot get far with the red spot showing. But the rightful owner of the car, returning to his parking place and finding his machine where he left it, merely slips the missing part back into place and goes on his way with a complete license.

TIMES HAVE CHANGED

(Peterboro Examiner)
When Hon. Earl Rowe, leader of the Conservative party in Ontario, was speaking at Marmora, he said something about Premier Hepburn having placed mushroom hotels in every corner and in municipalities where they were not wanted. Mr. Rowe preferred a system which would allow the people to vote on whether beverage rooms were desired, a system which is quite widely in effect now. It is not long ago since such a vote was taken in Peterborough. It is a plain fact that local opinion is not as effective as it was twenty or thirty years. Then there was not so much movement of people; it was more difficult for them to get from one place to another. Today if a person living in dry territory desired to drink it is not a serious matter getting to some place where the drink can be secured. Then there is the matter of getting home again, and the constant danger that the person who has been doing the drinking is also going to try and do the driving. The coming of the motor car and the improvement in roads and highways has taken some of the advantage out of the local option system and has also added a degree of danger to it which did not previously exist.

Canadian Doctor Home From Spanish War

"The great courage and feeling of justice" will bring about a loyalist victory in Spain according to Dr. Norman Bethune (above) who recently arrived back in Canada from Spain where he was director of the Canadian blood transfusion unit with headquarters in Madrid. Dr. Bethune, former head of a Montreal hospital, left Canada last year to establish the medical unit in Madrid. With the Montreal doctor in Spain were two Canadian newspapermen.

Shrewd Fishermeh
Two Welshmen were fishing about two miles from land. They had an excellent catch. Thomas said to David: "We'd better mark the spot in case we come out tomorrow!"
On reaching the shore Thomas asked, "Did you mark the place?"
"Yes," said David, "I put a chalk mark on the left-hand side of the boat."
To which Thomas replied: "Silly, we might not have the same boat tomorrow!"

Well Named
There was a young lady named Kate Who was learning, on rollers, to skate. Her friends, for a game Quickly gave her the name Of "Nigars" — her falls were so great!

Customer: "I warn you, I sha'n't be able to pay for this suit for three months."
Tailor: "Oh, that's all right, sir. Don't worry."
"Thanks. When will it be ready?"
"In three months, sir."

Initial Honours
The popular practice of writing one's distinctions (no matter how minor) in initials after one's name recalls the following story:
An American tourist in Scotland was about to sign the visitors' book when he noticed that all the guests' names were followed by letters indicative of their distinctions. The American had no distinctions.
On being questioned about his deficiency by his fellow-guests, he replied: "Oh, I'll make that all right." And he added to the book after his name — B.B.B.B.B.B.

The Best Blinking Bugler in Means
This only went to stimulate the curiosity of the guests, who ventured to ask what it meant.
"Oh, that's easy," he replied, "that means 'The Best Blinking Bugler in Means'"

Two Irishmen were working together in a quarry. Suddenly one of them fell down a deep hole and disappeared from sight.
His mate, thoroughly alarmed, came to the edge of the hole and looked over.

"Yes, Molke, O'm alive. But O'm spachless."

"A wrong answer."

BELLEVEILLE MARKET
Strawberries shot upwards on the Belleville Market on Saturday. Boxes were quoted in the majority of cases with occasional vendors holding out for the two boxes for a quarter price. The fruit was exceptionally plentiful and moved fairly briskly in spite of the advance in price. Case lots were offered generally at ten cents per box although isolated instances brought forth quotations of nine cents.
Gooseberries, large and small, increased in quantity with the small variety selling at three boxes for a quarter — in some places at ten cents

The appointment of Mr. Johnson, an air executive with international reputation and former president of United Air Lines, was announced by S. J. twenty cents per box.
Spring vegetables and flowers again predominated a briskly moving market while the display of farm and dairy produce offered in the inside mart, and which was featured by a sharp rise in the price of eggs, was attended by a large crowd of Saturday morning shoppers.

Spring vegetable prices held fairly steady with an abundance of radishes, at five cents the bunch, and three bunches for ten cents; onions at five cents; choice lettuce, new beets and carrots at the same price; new cabbage at five and ten cents per head; and new cauliflower selling at five cents and ten cents rounded out a variable display.

New peas were featured by a decline in price over those of a week ago, with choice samples of Early Alaskas and Thomas Laxtons being offered at 40 cents the quart, while in some instances vendors quoted their stock at 35 cents per quart lot.

New potatoes of good quality and size were quoted at 75 cents per peck with berry box lots going at ten and fifteen cents according to size. Old "spuds" reluctant to make farewells in face of the increasing supplies of the new crop were offered at one dollar per bushel with 25 cents being asked for peck lots.

Eggs shot upward sharply in the inside market at a general price of 24 cents the dozen with mediums offered at 22 cents. Prices, however, were not steady, dozen lots being offered in various places at 21, 22 and 23 cents.

Farmers' butter remained firm, selling at 55 cents for two-pound rolls, and in some cases at 30 cents per pound. One vendor quoted her stock at 25 cents per pound.

Broilers predominated the chicken display being offered at prices ranging from 65 cents to as high as $1.00 the pair. Chickens and fowl were fairly plentiful, selling at from 50 cents to $1.00 each.

Whitefish and lake trout were offered at a slight decrease in price over that of a week ago with the former selling at 18 cents the pound and the trout at 20 cents. These were the only fish varieties offered.

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

Close Attention Needed

Close attention should be given the calving and farrowing pens. Failure to render necessary assistance at the right time has resulted in loss and every calf and pig that dies makes it just that much more difficult for those that live to make a profit on the year's operation. The sooner young pigs get out in the sun the less danger of loss at three to five weeks of age. Cod liver oil may be fed to pigs as well as chickens to ward off any trouble.

Weaning the Litter

Natural weaning gives the best results with a litter of young pigs, and to obtain this for young pigs should be provided in the creep. A good mixture for the purpose is a half and half combination of middlings and finely ground oats, from which the hulls have been sifted. Young pigs will start to nibble at feed at about two to four weeks of age and by the sixth or seventh week should be eating quite freely. Under such procedure shock incidental to more abrupt methods is overcome and weaning develop as a natural event.

Some Pointers on Honey

Honey varies in colour from water white to almost black. The colour has little or no effect on its quality as a food or as a sweetener. It does appear, however, to be associated with flavour, for generally speaking, the darker the colour of the honey the stronger is its flavour. All Canadian honeys granulate or crystallize sooner or later, but the granulation is not caused by adding sugar to the honey as many people seem to think. Granulated honey can be brought back to its liquid state by setting the container in a bowl of hot water for a short time. The water should not be heated higher than 150 to 160 degrees Fahrenheit.

Willow Blight

The pride of many farm homes are the beautiful willow trees growing in the front garden, trees many years old which in many cases were planted by granddad or father many years ago. The lives of these beautiful trees are now being menaced by a destructive blight which is gradually working its way westward from the Maritimes where it was first noticed. It has now reached a point within fifty miles of Montreal.

The earliest symptoms of this fungus disease appear on the leaves as water-soaked spots which turn greyish and then brown and gradually spread to the twigs. Willow Blight can be controlled by spraying with Bordeaux mixture used at the same strength as used for apple trees and potatoes. Three to five sprays are necessary, the first being applied just as the leaves come out. Prune diseased trees when necessary only in the winter.

Give Pullets Plenty of Room

It may be well to again remind poultry raisers of the importance of giving the pullets plenty of room. Crowding in the brooder house or range shelter is very often detrimental to the birds. The cockerels should be separated from the pullets, and if they are being raised for roosters should be kept on a separate range. If the pullets are then crowded there may be a number of them that are off type or feathering slowly that could be picked out and sold for broilers. With high-priced feed making the net returns none too remunerative he cannot afford to keep anything but the best birds either in the growing pullets or in the laying flock. It is better to get what you can on the market for the poorer stuff and give the best a chance to develop normally. Curtailing on the feed for growing pullets may be false economy. The birds need a full ration of good quality feed in order to keep them growing and developing so that they will come into production early. True, it is not always wise to crowd a pullet too much on soft feed, as they may not then be able to stand up under heavy production, but a good growing mash and hard grain will tend to give them stamina in the digestive and productive organs. A strong digestive system must be developed in the bird to permit it to come near the 200-egg mark in its first laying season.

Enjoy tea at its best "SALADA" TEA

A series of experiments carried out at a government experimental station has given some interesting results in regard to ploughing at different depths and times. On an average, over a period of nine years, ploughing four inches deep for a rotation of corn, oats, clover and timothy has given higher yields than has ploughing seven inches deep, except in the case of oats, in which the yields have been practically the same. The shallow ploughing is of particular advantage to the corn crop.

In the preparation of sod land for grain, it has been found that ploughing in July, as soon as the hay is off and top-working during the summer has not only given higher yields of oats, but has also left the land free from couch grass. The experiment has shown that on sandy loam soil it does not pay to either rib the land or re-plough in the fall. On heavy clay soil, ribbing or re-ploughing late in the fall gives the frost a chance to mellow the soil and leave it in a better state of tilth.

In the preparation of sod land for corn, manuring on the sod and spring ploughing has given higher yields than manuring and fall ploughing.

It would, therefore, appear that for corn on sandy loam, the land should be manured and spring ploughed four inches deep, while for grain, it should be ploughed as soon as the hay is off and top-worked.

The greatest difficulty in maintaining successful farming, and particularly in producing a more abundant supply of clean forage and grain seed, is the prevalence of weeds. New weeds are introduced on farms with imperfectly cleaned cereal, clover, and other commercial seeds, and with commercial feeding stuffs which often contain vital weed seeds. These seeds are spread from district to district through the various transportation facilities, are disseminated within a locality in stable manure from towns and cities and are distributed from farm to farm through threshing machines, and from field to field by farm implements. The wind carries weed seeds long distances; streams disperse them along their courses, and herbivorous animals and seed-eating birds help to swell the evil broadcast.

HONOURED ON BIRTHDAY

One of Mrs. Nellie McLung's popular works "Flowers for the Living" was fully exemplified by the family of Mr. E. T. Saries West Huntingdon, when they gathered on Monday evening to spend a social time with him on the occasion of his 67th birthday. Mr. Clifford Elliott was master of ceremonies and called the gathering to order at nine o'clock and Mr. George Saries read the following address:

West Huntingdon,
June 14, 1937

Dear Father,—

This gathering of the clans has been specially arranged to celebrate an event which we, the family have always held dear, but which has come to mean more to every one of us as the years roll by. This event which we refer to is your birthday.

Today you are 67 years old. You will no doubt look back over these years and find times when you really wonder if we were truly appreciative. Perhaps you had just reason. Nevertheless we have learned we are deeply indebted to you, who always insisted upon shouldering any of the harder tasks. Your pleasure was to make our lot easier. In the good old days it was "Daddy" who reproved us but now as the years have changed the scenes we think of the "Old Man" to whom we may go for advice in time of need. As a token of our deep appreciation we ask you to accept this gift, not for the mere value of it, but the thought that prompted the giving and we only hope you may live to enjoy many more happy birthdays.

The Family.

Mr. Nelson Saries made the presentation of a beautiful arm chair from the family and also a gift from Mr. Saries' sister, Mrs. Welsh and son Nelson, of Moira. Mr. Saries was completely taken by surprise, but responded by thanking those who sponsored the event.

All joined in singing "That Silver Haired Daddy of Mine." Miss Irene Elliott playing the accompaniment on her guitar. Following this were a few remarks by the chairman and all sang "God be with you till we meet again."

A dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake, tarts and ice cream was then served and lastly the birthday cake which was made by Mrs. C. Elliott and looked beautiful with its 67 candles. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Henry Burrell, Mr. and Mrs. C. Elliott and family, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Saries and sons, Mr. and Mrs. George Saries and Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence McGee and family, Messrs. Mac and Tom Saries, Miss V. Gunning, Mrs. Ed. Walsh and Nelson, of Moira.

The people of the community join in wishing Mr. Saries many more happy birthday celebrations.

We have always found you a sympathetic and willing friend of noble character, which has won for you a warm place in our hearts.

If we live a balanced life the world should be the better for our having been here and may we say our community has greatly benefited by your work among us.

We thank you for what you have done for us, and we ask you to accept our gift and may it ever remind you of your many friends in the community of Mount Pleasant.

The mothers and babies were invited to attend a social time in the Sunday School Rooms on Tuesday, to enjoy an hour with the children. The youngsters put on the games with a leader. Mrs. Munro, the president, opened with the old favourite of the children "Jesus loves me". After singing Mrs. R. Patterson put on a lively play with much merriment. Mrs. Macklin then tried "Who's got the button", which was greatly enjoyed. This was followed by Eleanor Wells singing a solo. A chorus "Old MacDonald had a farm", was followed by five little girls giving "Little Old Lady". Mrs. Jackson took charge of "Farmer in the Dell". Miss Mauretta McKee had charge of "London Bridge is Falling Down" and lunch was then served to a group of happy children. Much credit is due the ladies who helped with the lunch and sports.

THE LATE ARTHUR LEAVENS

(Contributed)

Farmers for three miles heard the crash of the plane in which Pilot Arthur D. Leavens, Charles Sockett, President of Murray Aeronautical Corporation and Al. Ogden, member of Toronto Flying Club, were killed on Monday of last week, near St. Mary's. The machine crashed from 1,000 feet into a wheat field. Farmers who saw the plane said the pilot was bringing the craft down when in making a turn one wing broke away. The plane plunged to earth.

The three victims were on their way to Cincinnati on a business trip. They were to stop at Detroit to clear customs.

Conducted Flying Business

Art Leavens was one of three brothers previously of Belleville, conducting a commercial flying school with planes and hangers, from their Barker Air Field, in Toronto.

Known to Thousands

Art Leavens, pilot of the plane, was known to thousands of Canadians from coast to coast. From the summer of 1926 until last week deceased had carried passengers from all over Ontario and Quebec. He was a pupil of Chas. Lindbergh, from whom he took advanced lessons while attending the aviation school in St. Louis. During his term of barnstorming, the Leavens Brothers have carried over 70,000 passengers all over Canada. Tragically enough this was the first accident to their record in which any passenger was injured. Quiet and soft-spoken, Art Leavens enjoyed a reputation as one of the most careful and efficient fliers in this country. After a year of successful barnstorming he taught his two brothers, Walter and Clare, to fly. The hangars and buildings now at Barker field, from which they operated, are of "Art's" own planning and designing.

The Funeral

The funeral took place from the Leavens homestead, Kingston Road, Thurlow Township. Those who sent floral tributes:

THE PENTHOUSE MURDER

By CALEB JOHNSON

Second Instalment

"I agree with Doane," said Henderson. "I'm funny that way, but the sight of bloodshed, or even the thought of it, turns me sick at my stomach. You gentlemen, in the police and the District Attorney's office, and practicing criminal law, naturally take it as part of the day's work. I'm going to have another drink before we get back to the business of the evening. Will you join me?"

Only Doane accepted, and the two drank another highball each while the others resumed their seats at the card table and Frazier began to deal.

"Sorry I started anything disagreeable, gentlemen," Michaelis apologized again. "Dan you ought not to talk shop when you're out in company."

"I'll talk nothing but poker from now on," granted the Inspector. "It's a cold dark night and I crave excitement."

"The excitement begins right now, Dan," said Max Michaelis. "Table stakes, all jackpots, I believe? When I'll take the lid off this one."

He shoved a stack of blue chips into the middle of the table and the game was on.

"Poker isn't a game of cards; it's a game of human nature," was one of Dan Flaherty's aphorisms. After a few hands had been played he could tell more about the character of the others at the table than an ordinary man would learn by months of intimate association. With the poker technique of Martin Frazier, Archie Doane and Max Michaelis he was already sufficiently familiar to estimate almost to a two-spot the probable contents of their hands, by their expressions and manner when making their bets. Michaelis' friend, Williams, and the host of the evening, Elmer Henderson, were strangers, and the veteran detective gave his closest scrutiny to them.

Williams, he speedily decided, was a long-chance player, a victim of insatiable curiosity who cared little whether he won or lost so long as he got action for his money. Henderson however puzzled him.

Twice when Flaherty was certain the other was bluffing and bet heavily upon that belief, Henderson fooled him by showing the winning hand. Yet more than once, when the Inspector had folded a good hand of his own, convinced that the inventor held higher cards, the other had laughingly shown a worthless hand as he raked in the pot.

Dan Flaherty's respect for the slender young inventor mounted rapidly as the game went on.

Archie Doane, however, was not playing in his usual form. It was clear to Dan Flaherty that something was worrying the actor. It was not hard to guess that his thoughts were upon Lydia Lane and the possibility that the rendezvous which had kept Stephen Fitzgerald from joining the party in Henderson's bungalow had some connection with her absence from her own apartment. Doane was playing mechanically, without enthusiasm, seldom backing his hand and then, as often as not, laying down what could have been the winning cards. His customary brilliant and courageous style of play was noticeably absent and Flaherty was not surprised when, after an hour and a half, he announced that he had had enough.

"Don't let me break up the game, gentlemen," he said. "There still will be five of you. I'm not up to it tonight, that's all."

He settled for the several hundred dollars' worth of chips which he had lost, took a final drink and said good night.

Henderson escorted Doane to the elevator.

"Archie's worried about his girl," said Flaherty, as soon as the two were out of earshot. "He isn't any too sure of her."

"My guess is that Henderson's a bit touched in the same quarter," suggested Frazier. "He was pretty quick to come to her defense, when I made that bad break a while ago."

"I'm not on," said Max Michaelis. "Who's the dame?"

"I forgot you weren't here," Frazier apologized. "I made a fool break about Lydia Lane and both Henderson and Archie snapped me up. If Henderson isn't sweet on her, then I'm a bad guesser. But Archie announced that he's going to marry her."

"Lydia Lane, eh?" echoed Max Michaelis. "Well, there are plenty of 'em in the pictures with worse reputations than hers. I don't know much about her as a matter of fact, except that she's a good looking and never has been mixed up in a public scandal. Archie ought to know what he's about."

"But Henderson seems to be as good a sport in love as he is at cards," he continued. "If you're right, that is, about his having had aspirations in the fair Lydia's direction. A game little chap, I should say. Sensitive and high strung, but certainly under splendid self-control."

"He's a great poker player, all right," granted Dan Flaherty. "He sure plays 'em hard to figure." Michaelis agreed. "He's had me fooled a dozen times."

Henderson rejoined them and the game was resumed, with stacks of chips in front of the host of the evening steadily increasing.

"My lucky night, I guess," he said, after he had raked in another big pot, half an hour or so after Archie Doane's departure. "It's eleven o'clock and that's drinking time. Deal me out this hand, please. I told my man he could go down to play pin-ochle with the night watchman in the basement, and I'll have to find the whiskey myself."

"Yes, he's a good played in spite of his calling it luck," said Frazier, after Henderson had left the room. "I told you he was, didn't I, Dan?"

"I'd like to sit in with him when his luck's out, before I committed myself," responded the detective. "He is a good winner, but I've a hunch that he's the sort that would turn vicious if he lost when losing really meant anything to him. Rolling in money just now, and doesn't care whether he wins or loses at cards."

Max Michaelis nodded approvingly and about to make some comment, when Henderson re-entered the room. They had another round of drinks and resumed their game. Somewhat less than half an hour later the telephone rang.

Henderson answered the call. "It's for you, Inspector," he called, his hand over the transmitter. "Are you here or not?"

"I'll answer," said Flaherty, rising. "I always leave word at Headquarters where to get me. They wouldn't call me unless it was something important. Hello! Inspector Flaherty speaking."

"What? The hell you say! Where are you now?"

There was a long silence in the room. Max Michaelis, watching the Inspector's face from where he sat, saw it grow tense as the Inspector listened. Then Flaherty's voice again.

"Both dead? All right; stay there. Don't touch anything. I'll be right over. What's the address? Okay, Archie. Don't lose your nerve. What's that? Sure, I'll bring him with me."

Dan Flaherty turned from the telephone with what Max Michaelis termed his "Old Sleuth" expression on his face.

"Get your coat on, Max," he said. "There's hell to pay. Lydia Lane and Stephen Fitzgerald have been killed in the girl's apartment. That was Archie Doane phoning. He found 'em!"

"Lydia dead!" gasped Henderson. He turned white and seemed about to fall from his chair. Frazier's hand on his shoulder steadied him.

"Murdered?" cried Williams. "After what we were talking about too!"

"Archie found them?" Frazier of the District Attorney's office spoke almost simultaneously with the other two.

"Yes, and he wants you to come with me, Max," replied Inspector Flaherty, addressing Michaelis again. "You might come, too, Frazier. No use guessing what's up, but it looks like a double murder, and well, Archie's in a difficult position."

He turned to the telephone again and dialled Spring 3100 while the others, stunned could only sit and stare at each other.

"Inspector Falkerty speaking," they heard him say. "Let me speak to Larkin Then give me anybody who's in the bureau Homicide Bureau? Is Detective Martinelli there Tony this is Inspector Flaherty I'm uptown Get hold of the Medical Examiner or his deputy right away. You go with him to 213 West 59th, Miss Lane's apartment."

He turned from the phone to the others. "What floor's it on, any of you know?"

"On the roof," replied Henderson, setting down the glass which he had just drained. "Penthouse apartment."

"It's one of these penthouse apartments," said Flaherty into the telephone. "Take a camera man and a Bertillon man with fingerprint equipment, along with you. You'll find a fellow named Archie Doane there — at least, I think you will. Don't ask him any questions, but just see what there is to see until I get there. I may be there ahead of you, but if I'm not, don't let Doane go without word from me. Better phone the precinct and have 'em send a uniform man to hold anybody who tries to leave the building before you get there. Tell them at the precinct the instructions are to let nobody in or out without orders from me. Got that And, Tony."

"You don't really suspect Archie, do you, do you Dan?" Max Michaelis interrupted. The Inspector waved his hand for silence. "I suspect everybody in a homicide case, and you know it," he said gruffly. Then to the man at the other end of the telephone wire he gave final instructions.

"Call the police garage and have them send a closed car for me, right off. I'm at Fifty-sixth just off Fifth Avenue, Highart Film Building. I'll be waiting in the main lobby downstairs. Make it snappy, now, Tony."

He hung up and rejoined the others. "No use trying to get a taxi this time on Saturday night, in this storm," he said. "We'll have time to cash in on the game before the cars gets here."

"It's got all of us," said Max Michaelis. "We all know Fitz — knew him, anyway, and we all love Archie. And Henderson, here, feeling better, old man? Want to have one of us stay with you?"

"Come along, if you like," said Dan Flaherty, with gruff kindness.

The inventor shuddered. "No thank you. I couldn't stand it. Even if I didn't feel as I do about Miss Lane, I would go to pieces and be a nuisance. The rest of you go on. Don't mind staying with me, anybody. I'll be all right. But I hope I hope it isn't Archie that did it. I mean, I thought from the way you spoke, Inspector"

"Well, look at it as if you'd never heard of anybody concerned," Dan Flaherty interrupted. "A man's engaged to marry a girl. He's jealous of another man. He worries all evening because he doesn't know where the girl is, or the other man. He goes to the girl's apartment and finds the two together. Of course, he says they were both dead when he got there. But if you knew just that much and didn't know any more, whom would you suspect?"

"Now, I don't suspect Archie Doane any more than I suspect anybody else. But I'm a policeman. Friendship cuts no ice with me in a murder case. Get my point of view?"

"Of course, you have to look at it like that, Inspector," Henderson agreed. "But it doesn't sound like the sort of thing Archie Doane would do. Does it to you, Frazier?"

"No, it doesn't," the Assistant Attorney agreed. "He was awfully upset thought, tonight, about Miss Lane."

the number of deer in this section of the province is gradually increasing. It is estimated that there are now over thirty deer and one cow moose in Northumberland. WEED SEEDS DETECTED BY MICROSCOPE

The detection of weed seeds in lots of sowing seeds has been made possible by an instrument perfected by Dr. D. H. Halmay of the Department of Botany at the University of Toronto, it has been announced by university officials. Such seeds are photographed through the lens of a microscope, thus obtaining enlarged stereoscopic views of them. When viewed through the Stereoscope, the photographs stand out in perspective, and the distinctive characters of each seed are made clear, even to a casual observer.

One of the most important sources of loss to a farmer is in the weeds which grow in the crops he sows, according to university officials, who believe that the instrument should help greatly in ridding the country of weeds. Already extensive work has been carried on to prove the worth of the instrument, and should help greatly in ridding the country of weeds. Already extensive work has been received to allow some of the pictures to be exhibited at the convention of the International Association of Seed Analysts to be held in Europe this summer.

Material for Dr. Halmay's photographs is obtained from the reference collection of seeds at the seed laboratory, university officials explained, it being the most complete seed collection in Canada, containing more than 13,000 different specimens, of which some 2000 were obtained last year by collection and exchange. The exchange list this year includes 217 institutions and individuals situated in 197 cities or 47 different countries.

HOME IN A NUTSHELL

One of our readers recently described to us her conception of the ideal home. Her terms were so apt that we are passing it on to her fellow-readers:

By "Ideal home" I do not mean one which is completely and adequately furnished, but I do mean one which is as tastefully and attractively furnished as income permits; one in which new furniture and equipment are gradually acquired after intelligent study and careful planning; one in which cleanliness and order are the goal — though not the god — where children can feel free to have creative play and want to pick up their toys when they are through with them; where the family well-being is carefully guarded by simple wholesome food; where there is always time to share experiences and plans, to read and rest and play together, and one in which the friends of all are welcome and at ease. — Trenton Courier-Advocate.

PROVINCE TO SHARE COSTS OF INTRODUCING NEW CURRICULUM

The Ontario Department of Education has altered its grants in revising the courses of study for grade nine (form one, lower school and fifth classes) under regulations approved by order-in-council of the Ontario Government. Major changes in the course is introduction of home economics or general shop work which would entail provision of facilities for these technical subjects. Special grants will be made to school boards to defray the cost of the extra equipment. On buildings approved by the minister, 50 per cent of the expenditure either for a new building or an addition, will be paid, provided the total cost does not exceed $20,000. The Government will also pay 50 per cent towards an expenditure of $4000 for equipment and furniture, and 25 per cent of an expenditure over $4000, but not over $8,000. Maintenance grants from $100 to $400 are also provided.

Hon. Dr. L. J. Simpson, Minister of Education, announced the department's policy as a planned revision of the general schools curriculum with a change in one school year being made annually. The Department has no intention of forcing this revision into immediate operation, but will expect every school concerned to meet the requirements as soon as it can adjust itself.

The grade nine subjects as revised are as follows, with the provision that modifications, if approved, may be made to suit local conditions.

Farewell To Miss Hunt

(By Florence MacMullen)

On Wednesday, June 23rd, White's United Church, at Bayside, was the scene of a very happy gathering when over one hundred and fifty people gathered to pay tribute to Miss Elsie Viola Hunt, R.N., one of the new recruits for home missionary service. Miss Hunt is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Hunt, Bayside, and is a graduate nurse of the Kingston General Hospital, and has had six years' nursing experience. She attended the United Church Training School and was commissioned at the Smiths Falls Conference in June and received her appointment at the Dominion Board W.M.S. On September first she begins her work as a missionary under the auspices of the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada at the John Neil Hospital, Cold Lake, Alberta.

The church was darkened for the occasion and electrically lighted. Beautiful baskets of roses, peonies, summer blooms and potted plants adorned the front of the church. The farewell was sponsored by the Executive of Belleville Presbyterial and the Bayside auxiliary. The latter is composed of members of White's and Wesley United Churches. The President, Mrs. Geo. Bush, welcomed the guests at the door and introduced them to Mrs. Stanley Spafford, Vice-President of the section, who also extended a welcome. Guests were present from all the nearby auxiliaries in the Belleville section. There were three branch officers and nine Presbyterial officers in attendance, namely: Mrs. H. B. Herrington, Thomasburg, Periodical Secretary; Mrs. Frank Dafeo, Madoc, Temperance Secretary; Mrs. Percy D. MacMullen, Mount Pleasant, Rawdon, Press Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Conference Branch, W.M.S.; Mrs. W. C. Haggerty, Cherry Valley, President of Belleville Presbyterial; Mrs. Stanley Spafford, Aikens, Vice-President Belleville section; Mrs. F. L. Hooper, Napanee, Vice-President Napanee Section; Mrs. W. S. Gordon, Tweed, Vice-President Madoc Section; Mrs. F. E. Walden, Picton, Vice-President Prince Edward Section; Mrs. E. Farnsworth, Belleville, Christian Stewardship Secretary; Mrs. James Reddick, Trenton, C.G.I.T. Secretary; Mrs. A. Maguire, Belleville, Strangers' Secretary; Mrs. Albert Empey, Eldorado, Periodical Secretary; Mrs. O. S. Red-dieck, Napanee, Supply Secretary. It was regretted that Mrs. Everett Hubble, the new Press Secretary of the Presbyterial was unable to be present because of illness in her home. The service opened at 3 p.m. with Mrs. Bush presiding over the opening exercises. Mrs. Haggerty and Mrs. Spafford then divided the honours of presiding and introducing each other. The worship service was conducted by Mrs. Hooper and Mrs. Reddick, of Napanee, based on "The call and commission" with Mrs. E. Farnsworth as pianist. Suitable bible passages were read from Joshua and Isaiah and during the service Miss H. VanAlstyne, of Napanee, delighted with an appropriate solo. Mrs. Spafford introduced Miss Hunt at this juncture and the audience gave the new missionary a hearty ovation pledging themselves to loyalty and wishing her all strength and power as she goes as their representative to a new untried life. Miss Hunt, in her address, said her earliest memories of missionary work were begun in that church and she gave a brief history of her life and her definite call last autumn to enter God's chosen field of service, as she realized that there were many people in the home land who needed to be taught how to live. She gave a graphic picture of her studies while at the Toronto Training School and said she was convinced that more things are wrought by prayer than this world dreams of. Let us then spend more time in prayer for our missionary work.

Mrs. Haggerty read one of Whittier's poems and Mrs. F. E. Walden delighted with a vocal solo. Mrs. F. W. White, wife of a former pastor and a former vice-president of this section, introduced Mr. and Mrs. Rowe Hunt to the audience and told of the wonderful service they had given to White's church throughout the years. They too were given an ovation and Mrs. Hunt in her address told how she had prayed years ago that Elsie would be a missionary and now she felt that God truly does answer prayer.

Mrs. Haggerty delighted with an illustrated lantern lecture on Home Mission work and Mr. Fred Walden manipulated the lantern. The slides depicted the missionary buildings and staff at Cold Lake, Alberta, and gave vivid pictures of the medical work in the western hospitals. Mrs. W. S. Gordon offered a gracious prayer that Miss Hunt's life and work may be especialty blessed, as she labours in the Master's vineyard. Rev. James, a past pastor of the circuit, in his address referred to the fact that this is the first time since union that any missionaries have been commissioned and told of the great joy to have a missionary going out from his own circuit. Rev. W. R. Merrick, Cannitton, Chairman of the Belleville Presbyterial, brought greetings from the ministers and laymen, and spoke of Miss Hunt's fine qualities as a nurse. Mrs. Geo. Bush read an address of appreciation to Elsie and Miss Bessie Rush, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Rush, presented Miss Hunt with a lovely basket of summer blooms and a life membership certificate in the Bayside Auxiliary. Miss Edith Harry also read an address on behalf of the Young People of White's and Wesley and presented Elsie with a life membership pin in the W.M.S. Elsie suitably replied to the presentations and thanked her many friends for the gifts and the spirit that goes with it. The service closed with "Blest be the tie that binds," and Rev. F. W. White gave the dismissal prayer. The ladies of Bayside auxiliary served a lovely supper to the guests in the gallery of the church, consisting of salads, cold meats, jellies, strawberries, cake, tarts and iced tea. Mrs. Dafeo and Mrs. Empey tendered thanks for the cordial entertainment at this happy farewell and Mrs. Arthur Burke suitably replied for the hostess auxiliary. Among those in attendance was Mrs. Melissa Ostrom, a life member of Bayside auxiliary who recently celebrated her 85th milestone. After a social half-hour the company dispersed, feeling that the afternoon had been a wonderful inspiration to all to go home and work more enthusiastically to boost the cause of missions and in the many farewells to Miss Hunt all assured her that she would ever be in their prayers and that this large company of women would follow her work, enjoy her letters in the Missionary Monthly and ever have a sympathetic interest in her life which she has so wholeheartedly given to the Master's service. The addresses follow:

Dear Elsie:— This gathering has been arranged in your honour by the Belleville Presbyterial but we of your home auxiliary felt that we should like to contribute some lasting reminder of the occasion. It is with that in mind that we take this opportunity to express something of what is in our hearts concerning your decision to assume as your life work the duties and responsibilities of a missionary nurse in our W.M.S. frontier hospital. We who have known you from childhood have the utmost confidence that you will fulfill in the greatest measure the obligations of that high calling. We shall expect much and we shall not be disappointed. As a Society we feel that we have been an humble instrument in God's hands to bring about your final decision to enter mission work. Surely we were led by the spirit when we asked you to be our representative at the school for leaders last August when that school proved the deciding factor of your life consecration to the work of the kingdom. For ourselves we are already feeling the effect of your action in quickening interest in the general mission cause and great indeed will be our interest and concern in whatever fields you are called to work in the coming years. We have loved you and we shall miss you but we shall still love you and shall hold ourselves ready at any time to back up you and your work in any way we can.

God has honoured us in that he has called one of our number to stand out from among us and to consecrate her life to bringing His kingdom to the far corners of our country so it is with mingled feelings of pride and humility that we are gathered here in your honour. And now as an evidence of our love for you and our pride in you we ask you to accept this certificate of life membership in the Woman's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada. Keep it where you can often see it and let it remind you always that here at Bayside are friends who will carry you always in their thoughts and prayers, who wish you the best that your work can bring you and who are confident that you will neither fall nor falter in the tasks ahead.

Signed on behalf of Bayside W.M.S. — Mrs. Geo. Bush, President; Mrs. Walter Jones, Secretary; Mrs. A. Price, Treasurer.

Bayside, June 22nd, 1937

Dear Elsie:— We, your younger friends at Bayside, are glad that we too have a part to play in this gathering which has been called to honour you. It is with mingled feelings of joy and sorrow that we realize you are so soon to leave us to go to your chosen field of labour.

We sincerely trust that you may be very happy in your work and we shall always be interested in you and in your various activities. Whenever you feel that you have time to write we shall be very pleased to hear from you. We did not feel, dear Elsie, we could let you go away without some tangible token of our love for you, therefore we ask you to accept this life membership pin and trust that as you wear it, you may ever be reminded of your many true friends at Bayside.

Signed on behalf of the 'young people' — Isobel Sanderoock, Wesley United Church, and Edith Harry, White's United Church.

OUR NEIGHBOUR

What is meant by our neighbour we cannot doubt; it is everyone with whom we are brought in contact. First of all, he is literally our neighbour who is next to us in our own family and household; husband to wife, — wife to husband, parent to child, brother to sister, master to servant, servant to master. Then is he who is close to us in our own neighborhood; in our own town, in our own parish, in our own street. With these all true charity begins. To love and be kind to these is the very beginning of all true religion. But, besides these, as our Lord teaches, it is everyone who is thrown across our path by the chances of life, he or she, whoever it be, whom we have any means of helping — the unfortunate stranger whom we may meet in travelling, the deserted friend whom no one else cares to look after.

HAY FEVER

Hay Fever is caused by the irritation to the mucous membranes of the nose and throat from the pollen or dust of plants and grasses by persons sensitive to such irritation. The offending plants are trees, grasses and weeds, and the particular offender in a given case may be recognized by skin tests. Pollen or dust, to be effective in causing hay fever in sensitive persons must contain an excitant to this condition; it must be capable of being carried by winds and for considerable distances; the source must be abundant and the plants widely distributed.

In the early spring trees carry the causative pollens. Then come the grasses, say about June, and then the weeds in Autumn. On the American Continent the wind-pollinated trees are those carrying catkins, such as the poplar, sycamore and mulberry. The willow pollen is the only one of these not carried by winds. Trees producing perfect flowers, such as the elm and mesquite, are also wind-pollinated. On the Western prairies, the poplar is the chief offender among trees and timothy is the worst of the grasses.

Dr. Heber C. Jamieson, of Edmonton, writing in the Canadian Medical Association Journal, defines the three hay-fever areas of the province of Alberta. One of these stretches from the Red Deer River to the northern boundary. A second comprises the southern section of this region with its upper limit to the Peace River country, while the third extends from the Red Deer south to the international boundary.

Of trees, the poplar is the important one, so far as hay fever in Alberta is concerned. From mid-April on is the season for its ravages. Timothy pollinates from the middle of June. Weeds are the chief causes of Autumn hay-fever. These comprise the rag-weed family and the thistle family. The effects of these are found from July onwards. Golden rod, popularly supposed to excite hay fever, has been exonerated.

The sufferer from hay fever sees the first signs in what appears to be a violent cold in the head which may be associated with asthma. There are attacks of sneezing, headache and lassitude. Old persons are practically exempt. The important point is the prevention of the condition. In most cases this may be done by the use of skin tests to discover the pollen or dust to which the individual is subject. This being done a vaccine or antitoxin may be prepared which is effective in the majority of cases.

NEXT MEETING OF KINGSTON PRESBYTERY IN BELLEVILLE

Household Hints

Menu Hint

Broiled Hamburgs Smothered in Onions
Baked Potatoes
Creamed Cauliflower
Cabbage and Carrot Salad
Pineapple Chiffon Pie
Coffee
The old bridge rule was "when in doubt play trumps." A good household rule is when in doubt, serve hamburgs. They are always good, and may be cooked in a variety of ways besides the ordinary one which we suggest to-day. Onions may be baked or cooked in a pan in the broiler, or fried to serve with the hamburgs.

To-day's Recipes

Pineapple Chiffon Pie—One baked nine-inch crust, one tablespoon gelatin, one-fourth cup cold water, four eggs, one-half cup sugar, one and one-fourth cups canned crushed pineapple, one tablespoon lemon juice, one-fourth teaspoon salt. Soak gelatin in cold water five minutes. Beat egg yolks, add one-half the amount of sugar, pineapple, lemon juice and salt. Cook over hot water, stirring constantly until the mixture coats the spoon. Remove immediately from stove, add softened gelatin and stir until it is dissolved. Cool until mixture starts to thicken. Beat egg whites with salt to a stiff froth. Add remaining sugar gradually, beating it in. Whip pineapple mixture until light and frothy. Fold in egg whites. Turn into baked shell (it should be cold). When serving coat over the top with whipped cream and if you wish sprinkle generously with toasted shredded almonds.

LIBERALS WIN IN NOVA SCOTIA

Premier Angus L. Macdonald's Liberal Government was victorious in Tuesday's Nova Scotia general election. With the polls closed barely two hours, the Government had elected nineteen candidates to the thirty-seat House, and the party was leading in the race for six more seats. Conservatives under former Premier Gordon S. Harrington had elected three members and were leading in two ridings. One of the defeated Conservatives was the Party's leader, who lost in Cape Breton South to George Morrison, a young Liberal lawyer making his debut to Provincial politics.

Premier Macdonald, leading his party through an election for the first time, was returned handily in Halifax South over R. A. Donahoe, Conservative. Elsewhere, his Cabinet Ministers either had won their seats or were leading by substantial majorities. Hon. Dr. F. R. Davis, Minister of Health in the Macdonald Government, was re-elected in the two-seat riding of Lunenburg with another Liberal, G. E. Romkey. Hon. J. Willie Comeau, Minister without portfolio in the Macdonald Government, was re-elected in Digby, defeating E. B. Pugh, his Conservative opponent. He has represented the county in the Assembly and Legislative Council since 1907.

George B. Murray, son of Hon. George H. Murray, Liberal Premier of Nova Scotia from 1896-1925, was elected in Cape Breton North, defeating Joseph Macdonald, who held the seat for the Conservatives since 1925.

SCHOOLS RE-OPEN SEPTEMBER 1

Under new department of Education regulations schools will re-open after the summer vacation on Wednesday, September 1. Two school days later there will be another holiday, the first Monday of the month. The opening date is earlier this year in view of the fact that the first falls on a Wednesday. Had it come later in the week the classes would have been closed until Tuesday after Labor Day.

PICTON TEACHER RETIRES

After 30 years as teacher and principal of the separate school here, Mrs. John Goodwin has tendered her resignation, effective at the end of the term. Miss M. Meagher, of Belleville, has been engaged as her successor. Mrs. Goodwin was presented with a silver basket and roses from the pupils. David Harrington, representing the school board, expressed that body's regret at losing so valued a teacher and paid tribute to the fine work she has done.

BRIGHTON RESIDENTS ARE COMMITTED ON ARSON CHARGE

Appearing for preliminary hearing on charges of arson and conspiring to defraud the insurance company, five Brighton Township residents, James Thompson, Mrs. Frances Thompson, Mrs. Cynthia Tyler, George Mountenay and Dorothy Mountenay were sentenced for trial by Magistrate Campbell. The arrests followed a fire on June 4th which destroyed a house in Brighton Township owned by Marshall Tyler and occupied by his son-in-law, James Thompson. Investigations were conducted by Inspector D. H. Craig of the Fire Marshal's Department and County Constable Frank Atkinson of Brighton. Mountenay was arrested and made a statement to the police, which was read at the hearing.

Meeting Cancelled

The adjourned meeting of the Court of Revision on the Assessment Roll of the Village of Stirling for the current year, which was to have been held on Monday night, was cancelled since there were no further appeals to come before the court.

LOSES A FINGER

William Heenan lost the second finger of his right hand in a rather painful accident, which occurred when he was removing waste from a belt on a carding machine in the Campbellford Cloth Company last Thursday evening. Following the accident he was taken to the Campbellford Hospital where, after receiving treatment he was permitted to leave.

MARMORA MAN HURT IN PRYING OUT STUMP

Stanley Jackson of Marmora sustained a broken arm and injuries to his head and some ribs while prying out a stump at a clay pit on No. 7 Highway near the Deloro turn on Saturday morning. The injured man was imbedded in a heavy mass of clay which fell as the stump became dislodged. He was later conveyed to the Belleville General Hospital.

HAIL STORM DOES DAMAGE AT COBOURG

Damage estimated at more than $50,000 was caused by an electric, hail and wind storm which cut a swathe a mile wide and 10 miles long southeast from Castleton to the Campbellford highway on Monday. In some cases, the 30-minute storm destroyed 90 per cent. of the orchard crop, all the strawberries, 30 per cent. of the grain, and a large section of tomatoes. Hailstones were three inches in diameter, farmers said.

A similar storm was reported in the Napanee district, but no heavy damage was done.

THE ROAD

A road said on a recent day: "I used to be a quiet way. This true I better comfort know Than that I had long years ago. Then Courtesy frequented me, But now I have strange company. Wonder, I fear, from me has gone, And Haste seems blind as she rolls on. My banks, where long have wild flowers blown, Are oft with human wreckage strown; For Safety too from men has fled, And Time and Space, old friends seem dead. Haphazard has come and brought with him Death with the skull and cross-bones grim; But when returns the Summer season, I pray that with her may come Reason To stand a needed sentinel For me, and, ring a warning bell, To bid all for each other care, As o'er my course they needs must fare."

HAVE NARROW ESCAPE

John Leahy, young Dummer Township farmer, and three companions, had a narrow escape from a fiery death at ten o'clock Sunday night when the car in which they were riding caught fire and was demolished. The accident took place on the 9th line of Dummer, five miles north of Norwood Village, and the fire is believed to have started when gasoline from a can being carried in the back seat spilled and seeped through, falling on the hot exhaust pipe. The four youths made their getaway as flames enveloped the vehicle, and were powerless to prevent the spread of the fire, no water or sand being available.

GOING ON TRIP

Mr. H. C. Martin, local insurance agent, leaves on Friday for Calgary, Alta., where he will meet Mrs. Martin, who has spent the past four months visiting friends in California and Western Canada. On June 23rd Mrs. Martin was present at a birthday party at Lettbridge, Alta., given in honour of her uncle, Mr. Andrew Clancy, of Midford, Ore., who celebrated his 93rd birthday. Residents of Stirling and district will remember Mr. Clancy, who formerly resided in Rawdon Township, until some twenty years ago. At one time he was cheesemaker at Wellmans Cheese Factory. Mr. and Mrs. Martin expect to return to Stirling about the middle of July.

Local Horseshoers Win

With some of their strongest players absent owing to counter attractions, the local horseshoe pitchers proved no match for the Belleville Club last Thursday night when they were defeated on the local courts by eleven games to five in an exhibition match. The weather was ideal and although the locals were defeated they provided some stiff opposition for the visitors.

Orval Casement and Bill Long comprised one Stirling team and won one and lost three out of the four games played. W. Johnston and Fred Hulin were the high winners for the local club, splitting four games equally with their opponents. Chas. Jeffrey and Arthur Hulin lost three and won one, and Earl Fox and George Dainard met with the same results.

In spite of their loss the locals showed great promise and are confidently awaiting the opening of the league around July 1st. The official schedule has not been announced yet.

Plan to Celebrate Here on July 12th

Arrangements are steadily going ahead for the celebration of the 247th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne which will be held in Stirling on Monday, July 12th, under the auspices of Stirling L.O.L. No. 110 and L.O.B.A. No. 655. The committee in charge have arranged for a monster parade to be followed by speeches by prominent members of the Order. Prizes will be offered for competition among the lodges and it is expected there will be over thirty banners in the procession. There will also be a ball game between two district teams, and other sports. Every effort is being made to make this one of the best celebrations ever held in the district and those who can attend are assured of a real time. Plan to meet your friends and celebrate in Stirling on July 12th.

"Gas House Gang" Continue To Win

Continuing their winning ways the "Gas House Gang" defeated the Tigers on Thursday night last by the score of 6 to 3 in a seven-inning fixture in the Town Baseball League. Taking a two-run lead in the first inning they were never headed although the Tigers did tie the score in the third inning. However, in the fourth they fell upon the offerings of Bill Jones, who was making his initial start in the box for the Tigers, for four runs to put the game in the bag. They were held scoreless in the last three innings, with Ryckman replacing Jones on the mound. The Tigers scored two in the third and one in the fifth against Butler's hurling, but were unable to solve the slants of Long who replaced Butler in the fifth frame. The lineups:

Gas House Gang — M. Reid, J. Ward, R. Mathison, A. Fraser, F. Butler, B. Shier, B. Long, M. Lummis, C. Dracup.

Tigers — Gough, Bill Jones, Conley, E. Fox, J. Hulin, McDonald, Brown, Williams, Ryckman.

Dear Miss Dayman,— We have assembled tonight to express our grateful thanks to you, our teacher, who, during the six years in the section, have served faithfully and endeared yourself to all.

As pupils we love and respect you; as ratepayers we thank you for the care and beautifying of the school property and for the example of good citizenship given to our young people. As a community we have enjoyed your company in our homes and appreciate the time and talents you have given so freely to our social life. As parents we remember the cuts bandaged, the "tummy aches" doctored, the care of physical and moral health as well as mental. Briefly, in addition to capably teaching the three "R's" you have upheld the high ideals of one of the noblest professions, and you may truly take your place as one of "The Wise Builders".

A builder builded a temple, He wrought it with grace and skill, Pillars and groins and arches, All fashioned to work his will. And men said as they saw its beauty, "It shall never know decay, Great is thy skill, O Builder! Thy fame shall endure for aye." A teacher builded a temple With loving and infinite care, Planning each arch with patience, Laying each stone with prayer. None praised the unceasing efforts, None knew of the wondrous plan, For the temple the teacher builded Was unseen by the eye of man. Gone is the builder's temple, Crumbled into the dust; Low lies each stately pillar, Food for consuming rust. But the temple the teacher builded Will last while the ages roll; For that beautiful unseen temple Was a child's immortal soul.

And now with loving appreciation from your pupils and grateful tribute from the community, we ask you to accept this token of our esteem. May God's richest blessings go with you along life's pathway.

Rocky Mountain Holidays

The busiest tourist season in years is in store for the Canadian Rockies. Banff Springs Hotel and Chateau Lake Louise, recently opened for the year, are enjoying mid-season popularity, while increasing numbers of visitors are planning holidays at the beautiful chalet-bungalow camps at Moraine Lake, Lake O'Hara, Lake Wapta, Yoho Valley, and Radium Hot Springs.

Attractions such as golf on the sporty championship course at Banff, riding and hiking over spectacular mountain trails, tennis on splendid courts, boating on glacial lakes, and other sports under ideal conditions make the Canadian Rockies Canada's leading summer playground. Add to this scenery unexcelled in the world, excellent fishing, and endless opportunities for camera hunting of big game and the result is Banff, Lake Louise, or any of half a dozen Canadian Pacific bungalow camps set in valleys or by lakes of outstanding beauty.

Each year in the Rockies several feature events are held in addition to the day-by-day amusements. Among them are the Calgary Stampede, July 5 to 10; Indian Days at Banff, July 23 to 25; outing of the Trail Riders of the Canadian Rockies to Mount Asiniboine, July 30 to August 3; outing of Trail Hikers of Canadian Rockies in Moraine Lake district, August 6 to 9; Banff golf week, August 23 to 28; and Yoho Valley reunion camp of the Alpine Club of Canada from July 17 to 31.

TAX RATE TO BE 49 MILLS

Property Holders Will Receive Benefit of Government Subsidy

The tax rate for the current year was struck at 49 mills, which is the same as last year, at the regular monthly meeting of the Village Council held in the Council Chambers on Monday night. However, since the Provincial Government is making a subsidy of one mill to each municipality in the province, which must be passed on to the taxpayer, the local rate will in reality be 48 mills.

Reeve Thos. Cranston occupied the chair and Councillors C. B. Rollins, Jos. Whitehead, F. Stapley and D. A. Burkill were in attendance.

Mr. J. S. Morton addressed Council on behalf of the Horticultural Society, seeking the grant to pay for the use of the Community Hall to hold the flower show some time in August. Reeve Cranston promised the matter consideration and later in the meeting a grant of $10 was made the Society to be used in payment of the rental of the hall for the flower show.

The following accounts were presented for payment:

Stirling News-Argus	8.20
J. R. West, 1/2 yearly salary	25.00
Dept. of Health	3.20
A. Keegan	8.45
Mrs. E. Ward, Memorial Park	3.50
William Fitchett	50.00
Basil Robinson	10.75
Chas. Wood	12.75
Roofers' Supply Co.	160.00
E. G. Bailey, Fire Dept.	10.00
Arthur Keegan	5.65

A. McGee	5.50
McGee and Lagrow	47.05
Fred Elgie	6.65
Fox & Anderson	5.20
Stirling Hydro	182.76
Stirling Waterworks	124.20

A tender from Fred Elgie for building pavement in front of Stirling Creamery was tabled. Thos. McConnell addressed Council relative to having the signs at the different entrances to the village repainted but no action was taken.

Councillor Rollins, chairman of the Streets Committee, stated that the old walk on the Old Marmora Road had not been removed and that some delay had been experienced in having gravel placed on some of the streets of the village, but both matters would be attended to shortly.

A report on the work being done at the new village well on the property of Wm. Fitchett, was given by Councillor Frank Stapley. Samples of the water had been sent away for analysis and if the returns are satisfactory, the work will be finished as quickly as possible.

Reeve Cranston stated the Memorial Park Committee had complained of the tops on several of the concrete posts around the memorial park had been broken. Authority was given the committee to have them replaced.

The attention of the Council was also drawn to two trees on Mill St., along the pond, that needed cutting and A. Keegan was authorized to cut them down for the wood.

Reeve Cranston made application to Council for a license to operate a bakery. He stated that according to the law bakers peddling bread were required to have a license. Accordingly it was moved by Councillor Burkill and seconded by Councillor Stapley that the bakers of the Village be granted a license at a fee of $1.00.

R. A. Patterson, Treasurer, gave a full and comprehensive prospective of the finances of the Village and the various departments were discussed in detail by members of the Council. The Village finances are in good condition and compare favourably with any other municipality of like size in the province.

In striking the rate it was found necessary to increase the school rate 1 1/2 mills over last year, or 13 mills, but the county rate was dropped from 14 1/2 mills last year to 13 mills to offset the raise in the school rate. The

Saturday Night

Bethel Softball team drew first blood in the three-game semi-final series of the Rawdon Softball League when they defeated Glen Ross last (Wednesday) night on the local school diamond by a score of 11 to 6 before a small crowd of spectators. The game was featured by some heavy hitting. Runnalls for Bethel and McDonald for Glen Ross cracking out home runs, while Rose, of Glen Ross, helped himself to a triple, but was called out for not touching second. Green, in right field for the winners, pulled off a circus catch in the third when he got a drive from Holland and turned a somersault but hung on to the ball. Runnalls pitched good ball for Bethel, and was given good support, while Pyear's support faltered badly at times.

Glen Ross scored three runs in the first on a walk and three hits, but were unable to score again until the fifth, when they scored two, and added another in the sixth.

The winners got four in the first, three in the second and four in the fifth, after two men had been retired.

CELEBRATE IN STIRLING

Orangemen of Hastings County will celebrate the 247th anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne in Stirling, on Monday next, when a monster celebration will take place under the auspices of L.O.L. No. 110 and L.O.B. A. No. 655.

A splendid programme of sports has been arranged by the Committee in charge, including a baseball game between Foxboro and Latta; tug-of-war, between Lodge teams, and horseshoe pitching.

Following the parade addresses will be delivered by prominent members of the Order, including Wor. Bro. E. F. Reid, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, of Peterboro.

Over thirty lodges have signified their intentions of taking part in Monday's celebration here, and if the weather is favourable the local Orangemen are counting on having one of the largest crowds to visit this village for some time. Hot meals will be served on the grounds and arrangements are being made to accommodate a large number.

SPRINGBROOK WINS LEAGUE

Bethel and Glen Ross to Meet in the Semi-Final Battle

The sudden death game between Springbrook and Bethel, to decide the winner of first place in the Rawdon Softball League, was played on the Stirling School diamond on Saturday night, and resulted in a win for the former by a score of 7 to 1. Bethel and Glen Ross will now meet in the semi-finals and the winners will meet Springbrook in the finals.

G. Broadworth, on the mound for Springbrook, was in his best form and mowed the opposition down with regularity, only twenty-six men facing him in the seven innings and six of those being in the last. He eased up a little, but still ran. He outs to his credit and less support by his field, while at bat he hard and often. In the seventh, he got the altogether displayed pitching performance league this season.

Scoring three runs, the winners were second and third, in the fourth, one in the seventh.

The whole story was concerned in a "too much Broadworth" not until the last were able to tally.

Springbrook — G. Bailey, ss; C. Burkworth, p; M. Gibson, 2b; Sharp, rf; Heath, 3b.

Bethel — B. Heath, 1b; Ryckman, cf; Runnalls, p; A. McKeown, c; R. Bateman, 3b.

Score by innings:
Springbrook 3002101—7
Bethel 0000001—1

SIX-INCH STRAWBERRIES PRESENTED TO EDITOR

The editor is indebted to Councillor Sam Danford, of Sidney Township for a box of strawberries, the equal of which we have never before seen. There were only twenty-nine berries in the box which was heaped, and the largest of the luscious fruit was half a foot in circumference. Not only were these berries nice to gaze upon, but they proved equally delectable to the taste. Sam doesn't grow all the berries in this district, but he does grow some of the largest.

TAX RATE REMAINS THE SAME

Citizens of Stirling will welcome the announcement that there is to be no increase in the tax rate this year over last, which was 49 mills. This probably is a surprise to many of the property holders who were prepared to meet a higher rate this year due to the increased requisition from the Board of Education and the increased equalized assessment for county purposes. However, the County rate dropped one and one-half mills, which balanced the increase in school rate, and the Board of Health rate was dropped one mill. The balance of the rates remain the same as last year to make up the forty-nine mills. When one considers the small proportion of the total taxes collected over which Council has any control, and the many calls upon the treasury, the members of Council have done remarkably well in keeping the rate as it was. This, in reality, will mean a reduction of one mill, since the Provincial Government is making a subsidy of one mill to every municipality. So while the rate struck at Monday's Council meeting was forty-nine mills, taxpayers will have their taxes compiled on a forty-eight mill rate.

STIRLING NEEDS AN INDUSTRY

Negotiations are being carried on between the authorities of the town of Brighton in the neighbouring county of Northumberland and a Cobourg firm for the establishment of a factory in the former place. While this may be of no particular significance to many of the residents of Stirling, it does suggest that something of a similar nature might be done in the case of this village. The crying need of any small town or village is an industry to employ local labour, which in turn patronizes the local merchants. Many of the manufacturing concerns in the larger centres are expanding at present and now might be the opportune time to seek an industry for this village. Stirling offers good transportation facilities both by rail and highway, cheap electric power and plenty of good water, and if these facts were advertised in the proper quarters there is no telling what the results might be. This is something which affects everyone in the village, but particularly the business men, and might well be given serious thought by the leaders of the community. If the defunct Board of Trade could be brought to life or a business men's organization formed arrangements might be made for acquainting the various manufacturing concerns with the inducements offered by our village.

BEWARE THE COLD WATER

Vacation time is here once more, when the streams and inland lakes will lure thousands of pleasure seekers to their banks throughout the province. And, just as in previous years, there are many who will never return from these watering places. For drownings are a major cause of accidental deaths.

The inability to swim on the part of those who waded out too far, or who were upset out of a boat or canoe, has been the cause of most drownings, but we find that there is another cause. Dr. Bayard T. Horton, of Rochester, Minn., who has made recent studies, reveals that hypersensitivity to cold water has been responsible for many drownings, persons being afflicted in this way being apt to collapse after entering the water. To determine whether you have the weakness, immerse one hand in ice water for five minutes. If your hand swells after removal, you are hypersensitive. Most persons, the doctor advises, can be desensitized to cold by immersing one hand in ice water for a minute or twice a day for three or four weeks.

A good practice, and one which is followed by many bathers in recent years, is to immerse the feet above the ankles and the hands above the wrists for a few minutes before taking a dive or venturing out into the deep water. Either one of these actions is simple to follow, and if it means lessening the danger of losing one's life this summer, why, by all means let us try it.

AN ORGANIZATION NEEDED

From time to time we have endeavoured through these columns to impress upon the merchants of Stirling the need of an organization to promote their interests. There was a time when the local Board of Trade functioned but it has been dormant for a number of years and the merchants have been deprived of an organization that could do a great deal for them if they co-operated, one with the other. We know that there are a number of businessmen in the village who realize the importance of organization but the trouble appears to be that no one will assume the responsibility of calling a meeting to put the matter before the merchants. Generally speaking the small town or village merchant has been having a difficult time to keep going during the past few years of depression and keen competition and now that times are gradually becoming better concentrated effort is needed to stimulate and improve business conditions. Here is what the Collingwood Enterprise-Bulletin has to say on the question of organization:

"Effective organization is always ahead of individual efforts regardless of how energetic it may be. Everyone respects a well developed organized body. To illustrate, an old story is repeated. It is told of an old stage driver who was driving with a friend in the seat beside him. A big horse fly lit on the right lead horse's ear. The old driver unleashed his long whip and picked off the fly without touching the horse. The feat was repeated several times, to the delight and amazement of the friend who marvelled at the driver's skill. As they drove along the road, they passed under a tree, from the overhanging branches of which hung a hornet's nest, about which a dozen or so hornets were buzzing. 'Let's see,' said the friend, 'if you can pick off one of those hornets.' 'Nope,' said the old driver, 'Not them fellows, they're organized.'"

It is the same with a town. If the leaders of a town are at odds with each other, if each plays the part of a rugged individualist, if they do not pull together, or are not organized for the good of the whole community, the town doesn't get ahead in the degree that it otherwise would. It blocks its own progress.

CURRENT COMMENT

Monday next, July 12th, the Orangemen of the County will be guests of the Stirling Orange Lodges for the celebration of the Glorious Twelfth. Citizens are asked to decorate their places of business and homes to make the village attractive and to otherwise make visitors welcome.

Now that the summer weather is here in earnest, we wonder why the Stirling Citizens' Band does not give the music-lovers of the village an occasional band concert. We realize that the bandmen are handicapped somewhat through lack of a suitable band stand, but this has been overcome in the past and the periodic concerts given have been greatly enjoyed and appreciated by the citizens. We hope that a series of such concerts can be arranged.

Speaking of Bandstands reminds us of some talk a year or so ago of building a bandstand south of the Memorial Park on the land adjoining the large elm tree, but owing to the fact that the land was privately owned, nothing was done in the matter. This lot has since been purchased by the Council and it may be that those who dreamed of having a bandstand erected on this site will yet see their dream come true. There is no doubt of the need of a bandstand in the village and perhaps no better spot could be selected than this central location. Due to the financial stress of the times we doubt if the Municipal Council would assume the full responsibility for the erection of a suitable band stand, but perhaps with the assistance of the Band, it could be done. Anyhow, there would be no harm in the parties concerned discussing the matter and ascertaining what could be done. The majority of citizens will hope that a satisfactory arrangement can be made.

The proposed by-law to control the running at large of dogs in this municipality between the months of April and November ran into a snag at Monday night's regular Council meeting, when it was pointed out that the services of a dog catcher and a poundkeeper would have to be procured in order to enforce it. Apparently the majority of the town fathers felt this would entail too much expense and trouble and the matter was dropped. So the dog owners have it. Their pets may roam at will and unless they run foul of some irate flower lover or gardener, they are perfectly safe. While we are a great lover of dogs, we believe the place for them is on their home lot, and that it is most unfair that residents who spend both time and money in beautifying their home surroundings should have their efforts spoiled by roaming canines. It is to be regretted that Council didn't see its way clear to pass the by-law and see that it was enforced.

What Others Say

GOING BAREHEADED HARMFUL?

(Pembroke Standard-Observer)

The practice of going bareheaded is particularly harmful in midsummer when the blistering rays of the sun beat down upon the unprotected scalp. Over exposure will cause brittle hair, dry scalp and eventual baldness says an authority. Those, therefore, who want to do without a hat should take notice.

THIS SHOULD HELP

(Winchester Press)

Dr. Duncan A. MacArthur, Deputy Minister of Education, pointed out recently that the Department intends to bear a greater share of the costs of rural education in the future. This is not a bad idea for the time has come when something must be done to increase the salaries of rural teachers to a point more in keeping with those paid in towns and cities.

WORTH WHILE

(Trenton Courier-Advocate)

We like athletics because politics and creed and other contentious matters have little to do with them. We like athletics because it gives the man who wants to play and make good the chance he is looking for. We like athletics because there is no colour line, no select circle, where the man of the lowest classes can compete for or against the man of the highest classes and very often to his betterment. We like athletics because the position finds the man and not the man the position, where players are chosen for teams regardless of their spelling ability or the way they comb their hair. We like athletics because it shows whether a man backs up from danger or braces his shoulders and barges in regardless of the consequences. Politics and such things are not for us. We like to see everything out in the open. We like to know the rules of the game and we like to abide by the rules regardless.

"KEEP MY NAME OUT, PLEASE"

(Whitby Gazette and Chronicle)

The above is a familiar request known to every newspaper man who has had any experience as editor, whether on a weekly or daily paper, for human nature is the same whether in crowded cities or in the rural districts. The vast majority of these requests come from people who have been in trouble and come before the magistrate. There are some who say they don't mind paying a court fine, or even to spend a few days in jail, but they do hate the publicity attached to it.

The St. Catharines Standard in a recent editorial gives the following editorial on the subject:

"Every newspaperman is well acquainted with the plea. There is no hard and fast rule about it, simply a matter of judgment in the newspaper office. Editors are kind and considerate, and do not like to see relatives suffer from publicity about one of their own. The best rule is quiet publicity, a mere statement of the case and consequences because the public knows what happens in any event, and rumors always gather in force and crescendo. What the newspaper presents, however, is the charge of favoritism from those who do not know the real circumstances when as might be, an item is withdrawn."

MONDAY HOLIDAYS

(Tweed News)

A suggestion has been made in Andy Davis's Lamplighter Column in the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, in which we make haste to concur. He submits that all holidays should be celebrated on Monday. As is pointed out, mid-week holidays are not appreciated by the merchants nor are they favoured by those who wish to make a more or less extended trip over the holiday. Monday is the quietest day of the week; each day after Monday, business is brisker, getting into its stride in the middle of the week, when often disrupted by a public holiday. Monday holidays provide a welcome extension over the week-end, especially in the summer time and the idea is worthy of consideration. Mr. Davis suggests a strong campaign by service clubs throughout the country to bring the change about, and to this we could add, energetic support by the press. We are under the impression that the Monday holiday has been functioning with a considerable degree of success in England for some years. There is no reason why Good Friday, Dominion Day, Thanksgiving, and other public holidays could not be observed on Monday, and we do not believe the significance of any would be lost by the change. It would be welcomed by employers and employees alike.

TOWNSHIP SPEED MUST BE TOLD

Ontario townships will be required to post signs along streets to inform motorists whether the speed limit is 50 miles an hour or 30. Ontario Highway Department officials said recently. Townships in suburban areas requested reduction of the 50-mile-an-hour limit, which would, it was felt, be too dangerous. The Department of Highways is permitting the reduction on streets which formerly had a limit of 20 miles an hour.

 The five-year-old boy wanted to see the Coronation decorations, and he was so thrilled by their brightness and colour that he was lost for words for a while. But when he came to a shop with a large photograph in the window, he looked up seriously and asked who it was.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Homegrown strawberries, new raspberries, made their initial appearance of the year, red currants also making their 1937 debut on Belleville Market on Saturday.
 The strawberries which were of exceptional quality and quantity moved briskly at varying prices, while the general price was ten cents per box, berries were available at two boxes for twenty-five cents, and in some cases three for the same price. Case lots were not quoted.

First Raspberries Offered

Raspberries, the forerunners of a bumper crop, according to vendors, were offered at thirty and thirty-five cents the box and were soon disposed of. Cherries made their 1937 bow in a fairly large quantity with the popular Early Richmonds selling at prices ranging from ten cents the box to two boxes for twenty-five cents. Gooseberries of the small variety were plentiful moving fairly well at ten cents and two boxes for twenty-five while the large English variety was quoted at the latter price. Imported peaches from the Peach State of Georgia were offered by one vendor at three for ten cents. Hamper lots were not available.

Forecast by several vendors as being the advance guard of one of the best crops in years, new potatoes took a sharp decline in price, with peck lots being generally quoted at 50 cents. Some exceptionally good quality potatoes were offered at 60 cents with berry box quotations being 10 cents.

Field and garden peas also took a decline in price as the quantity increased. Pints were offered at 15 cents in some quarters and quarts at 30 cents although in the later hours vendors disposed of their stock at 25 cents the quart. New string beans were scarce and sold well at 15 cents the box. Asparagus at 15 cents the pound; beets, onions, carrots and lettuce at 5 cents; new cabbage at from 5 cents per head up; summer turnips at 5 cents the bunch; radishes at 5 cents and three bunches for ten cents and new cauliflower from 5 cents per head upward rounded out a splendid vegetable offering.

Eggs Higher

The inside market was a hive of activity as shoppers took advantage of the fine exhibit of farm and dairy produce. Eggs noted a slight increase in price with "A" selects selling generally at prices from 22 cents to 25 cents the dozen. Mediums were quoted at 20 and 21 cents.

Young broilers again dominated the chicken display selling at from 65 cents to 90 cents the pair. Young chickens and fowl sold from 50 cents each up. Whitefish and fresh lake trout attracted the attention of fish lovers selling at 20 and 22 cents per pound respectively.

which had treated them to such an unceremonious awakening. The transient trader has proved a curse in many an Ontario municipality; and Trenton's town fathers are taking no chances on having the trade of local merchants ruined by those who come in from outside points selling outside merchandise. Accordingly the by-laws in this regard are strict; and with the assistance of loyal citizens Trenton can get rid of all her unlicensed peddlers just as suddenly as she did the pair on Monday. — Trenton Courier-Advocate.

CAMPBELLFORD MAN STRUCK BY CAR

Havelock, July 2. — Gordon Atkins, 42, of Campbellford, sustained critical injuries last evening (Thursday) at nine o'clock when struck by a car driven by Alex Post of Havelock as he was walking along Highway 39, half a mile north of Trent River. The accident occurred as Mr. Post was passing another car proceeding north, this car having very bright lights which partly blinded him. Atkins was immediately rushed to Cummins Nursing Home at Havelock, where his injuries were found by Dr. J. C. Holdcroft to be a fractured skull and broken right hip. Provincial Constable David Silvester, who investigated, said that Atkins was unconscious and severe injuries were found by Dr. Holcroft at the hospital.

IS AWARDED SILVER MEDAL FOR SURGERY

Residents of this district will be interested to learn that a well-known former resident of this district, Dr. J. M. Murray, now of Ottawa, has been meeting with splendid success in his particular field of labour. Dr. Murray, who is a brother of Mrs. J. C. McGee, Stirling, and Messrs John and Jas. Murray, of Marmora, was recently honoured at a medical convention held in Ottawa, as will be seen in the following clipping taken from the Ottawa Journal of June 26:

Dr. J. M. Murray, Ottawa orthopedic surgeon, who was on Friday awarded a silver medal for his exhibit on reconstructive surgery at the joint convention of the Canadian and Ontario medical associations, is noted here for his valuable work among crippled children. Much of his time and ability is given freely at one of the Civic Hospital clinics in connection with the work of the Rotary Club on behalf of these unfortunate children. Dr. Murray's accomplishments in the field of reconstructive surgery have received high commendation in many quarters. An instance of his remarkable ability described at a joint convention of the Canadian and American medical associations at Atlantic City in June, 1935, was widely circulated. Delegates were told how through a bone-extension operation Dr. Murray restored a young man's useless arm to its proper state, after the limb had failed to function for four years following an automobile accident. Dr. Murray opened the elbow, sawed off the lower end of the shortened humerus and split it slightly. Into the split he inserted the sharp end of the piece of bone he had just sawn off, making a square end and tying it firmly. Next he attached the upper end of the lower arm muscles. After the operation the man could lift a load in his arm and manipulate it almost normally. Dr. Murray has specialized in reconstructive surgery for 17 years. A graduate of McGill University, he afterwards trained for four years in New York and later made a 14-months' tour in Europe, studying in various clinics. A period of his training was spent with Sir Robert Jones, famous Liverpool orthopedic surgeon. A native of Marmora, Ontario, he has practised in Ottawa since 1923. Dr. Murray's exhibit included a motion picture of knee and elbow joints before and after operation, and original work for correction of curvature of the spine. He also showed X-Ray specimens of tubercular spines before and after treatment.

TEACHER AT MOIRA SCHOOL IS HONOURED

On Friday afternoon, July 2nd, the pupils of the Junior Room of Moira Continuation School, with their mothers, met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. P. Emerson to do honour to their teacher, Miss Ruth Emerson, on the occasion of her retirement from the teaching profession. The meeting was called to order and Grace McInroy read the following address:

Moira, Ontario,
July 2nd, 1937

To Miss Emerson:
We, your pupils have learned with regret that you are not going to be our teacher for another year, so we took this time to be with you as a class once again.

We have enjoyed our school days and in years to come we will always remember with pleasure the years in which you were our teacher. No doubt many times we have tried your patience, but you were always kind and ready to help us. No task was too small or too hard for you to do for us.

As a token of our respect and love for you, we ask you to accept these gifts, and may your future years be ones of happiness.

Signed — Pupils of Junior Room at Moira School.

June Williams then presented Miss Emerson with a Coronation cake plate and silver coronation butter knife.

Miss Emerson briefly replied, thanking her pupils and telling them what a pleasure it had been to work with them for six years.

The hostess then served a dainty lunch consisting of sandwiches, cakes, candy and ice cream.

MORTON - DAYMAN

A pretty wedding was solemnized yesterday, Wednesday, July 7th, at 11:00 o'clock, in the United Church, Colborne, when Grace, Lillian Dayman, was united in marriage to Mr. Burton Dracup Morton. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Susan Dayman and the late Mr. Samuel Dayman, of Colborne, and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Morton, Stirling, Ont. The church was artistically decorated by the bride's Sunday School Class, with delphiniums and roses, which made a very charming setting for the ceremony. Rev. R. H. Richard, pastor of the church, officiated, and the wedding music was played by Miss Florence Clarke, of Colborne.

The bride, who entered the church with her brother, Mr. Franklin Dayman, was a radiant figure in a princess gown of white mousseline de soie, over taffeta with the fashionable large sleeves. Her long veil was of silk embroidered voile with a headpiece of lovely Queen Anne design. She wore a yellow gold bracelet, the gift of the groom, and carried a bouquet of roses, lily-of-the-valley and maiden-hair fern. She was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Dayman, as bridesmaid, wearing a gown of blue chiffon with white picture hat and carried a bouquet of Laddie Carnations and Baby's Breath. Little Misses Irma Dayman of Peterborough niece of the bride, and Janet Hendry, of Toronto, cousin of the groom, dressed alike in yellow organdy and carrying Colonial bouquet of mixed sweet peas and roses, acted as flower girls. Mr. Russell Teal, of Colborne, was best man, and the ushers were Mr. James Tooton, Toronto, and Mr. William Sutherland, Stirling. During the signing of the register, Miss Dorothy Dayman, sister of the bride, and Mrs. Grant Griffiths, of Colborne, sang a duet, "I Love You Truly".

A reception for the immediate relatives of both families was held following the ceremony. Mrs. Dayman, mother of the bride, received, wearing a gown of white and navy print, carrying a bouquet of yellow roses and blue corn flowers. Mrs. Morton, mother of the groom, assisted, and wore navy triple sheer georgette with corsage of red roses and sweet peas. Later the bride and groom left on a motor trip to Montreal and other eastern points. The bride travelled in a rumba linen suit with navy accessories. On their return they will reside near Stirling.

THE PENTHOUSE MURDER

By CALEB JOHNSON

Third instalment

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

"I wish you'd phone me, Frazier, as soon as you find out more about it," Henderson requested. "You understand my curiosity? Will you let me know? I'll be waiting for word from you."

"I'll do that, gladly, old man. I'll tell you as much as Dan Flaherty will let me tell. He's the boss."

"That's all right," grunted the policeman. "Well give you a ring. Come on, Max. Come on, Frazier. Going now, Mr. Williams, or staying here?"

They had settled their poker winnings and losses while waiting, and all moved toward the elevator. Williams glanced toward the elevator. Williams glanced again at Henderson.

"You're sure you don't want me to stay with you?" he asked.

"Sure," replied Henderson forcing a smile. "You're good to offer it."

"By the way, Mr. Henderson, have you got a flask, or can you spare a bottle of that Scotch?" asked Max Michaelis. "Archie may need it. I would, in his situation."

"Certainly. Take this bottle. It's nearly full," said the inventor.

Warned by Inspector Flaherty, the little group of four said nothing about their errand in the presence of the night elevator and doorman of the Highart building. Williams said good-night at the door and started off on foot, through the three inches of fluffy snow. The others had but a few minutes to wait before a big sedan with the Police Department shield on the radiator and a brass-buttoned policeman driving, pulled up before the door. Not until they were inside the car did any of them speak.

Dan Flaherty was first to break the silence.

"This looks like a tough case, Max," he said. "Sort of thing makes a policeman wish he didn't have any friends."

"Jumping to conclusions, Dan, as usual?" asked Michaelis. "You talk as if you thought Archie did it."

"Suppose he did," retorted the Inspector. "I've got to bear down on him harder than I would if I'd never known him; the best I can do I'll be accused of trying to shield a friend."

"I get you," agreed Michaelis, "but let me remind you that his calling up was the act of an innocent man. He didn't have to do it. For all we know he could have slipped away and said nothing."

"But his asking for you is the act of a man who realizes that circumstances look bad for him," countered Dan Flaherty.

"Agreed," said Max Michaelis. "And I realize your position, Dan."

"I don't need to tell you that I'll play fair in anything relating to Archie," growled the Inspector, "and I'll be glad to have your help, Max. You know that."

"Even then, we've got a personal interest, all of us, in finding out who killed Fitz," Max Michaelis reminded them. "Our first concern must be for the living, but we must not forget our duty to avenge the dead."

"All right, Dan, I wish you'd tell me just what Archie said to you over the phone," Max Michaelis responded, as the car halted for the stream of after-theatre traffic going up Seventh Avenue into Central Park, its progress slowed up by the fleet of scrapers and trucks of the snow-removal gang, already on the job. "What's the starting point? How did he come to be at Miss Lane's rooms? Did he explain that?"

"Yes," replied the Inspector. "He said that he went to his own rooms when he left the game and had been there only a few minutes when his telephone rang and Miss Lane, apparently greatly excited, asked him to come at once. Something terrible had happened, she said. He got no answer at her door. Got in through some sort of back entrance — he knew his way about there — and found Fritz and the girl both dead — shot."

"Said he had done nothing before phoning me except to take a quick look around the apartment to see if anybody was hiding there, and that was all he said."

"That fixes the time of the shooting pretty closely, then," was Michaelis' comment. "Archie left us about ten thirty. Give him twenty minutes to get here, another five to look around, and he must have been talking to Miss Lane just about eleven o'clock. She, at least, was alive then. If the 'something terrible' which she said had happened was the shooting of Fitzgerald, then that must have occurred just before that. It's a quarter of twelve now. Whatever happened must have occurred within the last forty-five minutes."

"If he's telling the truth," growled

Dan Flaherty.

"I can't make any other assumption," replied Michaelis.

"One thing we've got to remember," said Martin Frazier, as the car pulled up in front of Number 213 West Fifty-ninth, "is that Archie Doane is an actor. A good actor, trained to stimulate emotions which he does not feel, to wear a mask at will."

"A point well taken, which is offset by the fact that when he does feel emotions he has difficulty in hiding them," commented Michaelis. "We have only to think of his evident distrust during the game this evening to realize that."

Another Police Department car was standing at the curb in front of the converted dwelling in which Lydia Lane had her apartment, and a uniformed policeman, on guard at the door, saluted Inspector Flaherty as he and his two companions alighted.

"Medical examiner got here yet?" asked the Inspector.

"Five minutes ago, with three plainclothesmen," replied the policeman. "Is this the only entrance to the building?"

"Except the trap door from the cellar, and that's right here in front," the policeman answered. "Nobody's been in or out since I got here."

"Let 'em in if you're satisfied they live in the building, and have been out all evening," the Inspector instructed him, "but take their apartment numbers in case I want to talk to them. If anybody wants to go out, send up to the penthouse apartment for me. Where's the janitor?"

"I haven't seen him. I think he had a room in the cellar."

"Better ring for him and keep him around to run errands for you," said Flaherty. "Any hallboys or elevator attendants?"

"No; it's an automatic elevator. One of these push-button ones."

The building had once been a rather pretentious mansion, which had been remodelled, after the New York fashion, into small suites. It stood between two towering new apartment houses, overlooking Central Park. Yet, like most buildings of its type, it was tenanted at high rentals by those who preferred privacy and commodious rooms to the outward gorgeousness and cramped living quarters of the ordinary apartment. It was clear enough at a glance that an intruder might find little difficulty in entering and leaving unobserved.

There was not much room for Max Michaelis and Martin Frazier after Dan Flaherty had inserted his bulky form into the tiny elevator. The Inspector pressed the upper button and the cage ascended, to stop at a landing on the top of the building, like stories up. The elevator door opened upon a sky-lighted lobby, from which the stairs descended. To their left, as they stepped out of the cage, there was a door which apparently gave access to the flat roof; to the right, a door on which a small brass plate bore the name of Lydia Lane.

Inspector Flaherty rang the bell and the door was opened by a tall, dark young man who bore none of the customary earmarks of the police. However, Flaherty soon dissipated this idea in the way in which he addressed the fellow.

"Hello, Tony," said the Inspector.

"What does it look like?" "Hello, Chief," was Detective Martinelli's response. "I don't know enough yet to make anything of it. It looks bad . . .," he glanced over his shoulder and lowered his voice as he spoke, " . . . It looks bad for Mr. Doane."

"Where's the Medical Examiner? What does he say?" Inspector Flaherty demanded, as he and his companions pushed through the door and into a square foyer from which other doors opened as he spoke and the Medical Examiner himself came out. He reached for the telephone on a stand between the doors.

"The girl's alive!" he said. "I'm going to call an ambulance."

The penthouse apartment in which Lydia Lane lived consisted of a large studio on the north front of the building, overlooking Central Park, a smaller but still commodious bedroom on the southerly side, connected with the studio both through the entrance foyer and by a dressing room which opened into both rooms, off which was a bathroom. Also opening off the foyer, at the rear, was a little kitchenette with a tiny room for a maid-servant adjoining.

At the front, the structure really a bungalow built on the roof, was set back some six or seven feet from the cornice, making a little roof garden on which the French doors gave entrance. At the rear there was a much larger roof expanse, running back perhaps twenty-five feet, where an L-shaped extension had been constructed. The windows of the bedroom, the kitchenette and the maids room opened upon this part of the roof, and there was another French door leading from the bedroom directly to the roof.

To give the janitor access to the roof and as a means of exit for tenants below in case of fire, another door, on the opposite side of the elevator and stair landing on to a narrow passage which led also to the rear roof garden of Miss Lane's apartment. And up the side of the elevator shaft ran a vertical iron ladder, for the use of workmen in making repairs to the elevator machinery or the roof of the penthouse itself. At the rear of the roof extension which formed Miss Lane's roof garden an iron fire escape ladder led down to a courtyard.

There were windows only on the front and back of the apartment. On both sides the building was hemmed in by the windowless side walls of the adjoining structures, which rose fifty feet or more above the roof of the little house.

All of this was not, of course, immediately clear to Inspector Flaherty and his companions. Their first concern was with the facts, and with Archie Doane.

They followed Detective Martinelli into the bedroom while the Medical Examiner was telephoning to Roosevelt Hospital.

Smoke from the police cameraman's flashlight was oozing out of a window which had been lowered from the top, and the first sensation of the new arrivals was the acrid odor of magnesium powder.

Stretched on a chaise lounge in the farther corner of the room lay the body of Lydia Lane. She was attired in a flowered silk kimono, which had been partly pulled or thrown aside, revealing the dainty silken lingerie beneath.

The face whose pure profile had made her the darling of the screen was as beautiful in its white waxiness as when the pulses of life had coloured it. Her boyishly-cropped golden hair seemed dark by contrast.

One bare arm hung limply over the edge of the couch, its whiteness marred by a dark streak which began at a blue-bordered hole midway between elbow and shoulder and coursed down to the ends of the tapering fingers which touched, it seemed almost caressingly, the face of the man who lay on the floor in a crumpled disorderly heap.

JOHN D'S HEALTH RULES

Ten reasons why John D. Rockefeller Sr., lived to be 97 years old are the health rules he is said to have followed since boyhood. They are:

1. Never lose interest in life, business and the outside world.
2. Eat sparingly and at regular hours.
3. Take plenty of exercise, but not too much.
4. Get plenty of sleep.
5. Never allow yourself to become annoyed.
6. Set a daily schedule of life and keep it.
7. Get a lot of sunlight.
8. Drink as much milk as will agree with you.
9. Obey your doctor and consult him often.
10. Don't overdo things.

ORANGE ON PEACOCK BLUE FOR 1938 PLATES

Most vivid license plates yet to be offered Ontario motorists, will go on sale next November 1st, for 1938, it was announced last week. The plates will have a background of peacock blue with letters and figures in orange. The crown motif of the Coronation year, which made a hit with motorists this year and which was the envy of other provinces, will be retained and enlarged on next year's plates. Instead of two small crowns, one on each side, a large crown will appear at the top of the license in the middle. The year date will be split, the "19" on the left of the crown and the "38" on the right. "Ontario" will appear below the figures and letters of the license. The letters and figures will be slightly smaller than previously to make room for the other symbols and the plate will be slightly larger.

FOUR INJURED NEAR TRENTON

Four persons are in the Belleville General Hospital, two suffering from skull lacerations and concussion, following a head-on motor collision on Highway No. 2, one mile east of Trenton, late Sunday afternoon. The more seriously injured are Mrs. Gilbert Searles, Sidney Township, and her eight months' old grandson, Johnnie Jackson, Peterborough, both of whom suffered the skull injuries, while Gilbert Searles, husband and driver, sustained superficial scalp wounds, and the driver of the other car, who police say was John McRae, Toronto, is also in the hospital, but no seriously hurt. According to Trenton police, who investigated, Mr. McRae was proceeding westerly near the Trenton Airport when he is alleged by police to have pulled out of a line of traffic and unable to return to his position upon failing to pass a motor vehicle in front, crashed head-on into the automobile that was being driven in the opposite direction by Gilbert Searles. Both vehicles were badly damaged about the radiators and fronts of the machines.

46,350 MILES IN 2 MONTHS . . .

AVERAGE RUNNING COST LESS THAN 3¢ A MILE

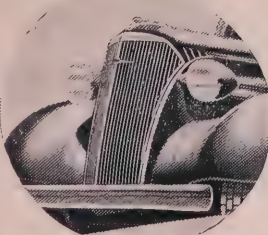

THAT'S THE RECORD OF THIS FLEET OF 1937

CHEVROLET Trucks

"Recently, as you know, we purchased from you ten 1937 Chevrolet trucks. I thought you would be interested to know that in a little over two months this fleet has totalled 46,350 miles. The average operating cost, including gasoline, oil, depreciation, repairs and insurance was 2.98¢ per mile! This driving, of course, was done in winter weather."

Naturally, we are delighted with this record, particularly as the average running cost before replacing our truck fleet with Chevrolets was 5¢ per mile."

Yours very truly

YOU HAVE to be personally "sold" on a purchase before you recommend it to your friends. In the Chevrolet Truck files are unsolicited testimonials that read like "believe it or not" items, yet they are honest, owner-histories of these famous commercial vehicles!

If you use trucks, take a tip from big Canadian business firms. They keep an accurate expense account of every unit in their fleets . . . and as a result . . . specify Chevrolet . . . for long life and economy!

Why not check specifications . . . compare values . . . inquire about the convenient financing arrangements of the General Motors Instalment Plan. If you do, your logical choice from every angle, will be . . . Chevrolet!

Entering a Store
you are Courteous—

Try Courtesy

When You Enter Traffic

WHEN we enter or leave a store we are all most courteous. We stand back for one another, hold open the doors, make way for the children and otherwise act in a courteous manner towards our fellow-shoppers. But do we continue this same friendly mental attitude towards each other when we get back into our cars and enter traffic again? To our fellow-shopper, for whom we held the door open, do we show courtesy when he becomes our fellow-motorist?

Do we warn him of our intention to pass by sounding our horn? Having passed him, do we get well ahead of him before swinging back again into our traffic lane? Do we dip or dim our lights when we meet him at night? Do we keep well to the right side of the road when meeting him? Do we give him the benefit of the doubt in a "tight corner" so we can both get out of it unhurt? And do we, in the many other ways that come to our mind, act and think towards our fellow-motorist in the same kindly and considerate manner as we did when we held the door open for him as a fellow-shopper?

I earnestly request that, when you get behind the wheel of your car or truck, you continue to be the same courteous person that you are afoot and "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

By so doing you will help to make motoring a safe and enjoyable mode of travelling.

Menu Hint

Escalloped Ham and Rice
Stewed Tomatoes
Raw Vegetable Salad
Chocolate Cookies
Tea
The escalloped ham and rice dish is a variation of the ham and escalloped potato dish that I suggest quite often in this column. When the housewife wants to serve something different for dinner, she should think of rice, unless she be a southerner, when she knows her rice and uses it frequently, more frequently than she does Irish potatoes.

To-day's Recipes

Escalloped Rice and Ham.—Two cups rice, two thin slices smoked ham, one quart milk, seasoning. Wash rice thoroughly. Place a layer of ice in a two-quart size casserole. Place on this a slice of ham, cut into servings, then more rice, another slice of ham, then top with rice. Pour on the milk. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) one hour. Casserole may be covered if fish browns too quickly.
Chocolate Cookies.—One cup raisins, one cup walnut meats, two and three-fourths cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one-half teaspoon salt, two ounces chocolate, one-half cup butter, two eggs, one cup brown sugar, three-fourths cup sour milk. Prepare raisins by putting them into a strainer and letting cold water run over them. Drain well. Break nut meats in large piece. Mix nut meats and raisins. Sift flour, measure and sift one-half cup over raisins and nut meats. Add soda and salt to remaining flour and sift together. Cut chocolate in small pieces or grate and put in a small pan, place over hot water to melt. Cream butter, and sugar eggs well, add them to putter and sugar. Blend in chocolate, and vanilla. Add a portion of dry ingredients, about one-fifth, stir it in, add a portion of the sour milk, stirring it in. Continue alternating liquids and dry ingredients until all have been used. Add raisins and nut meats last. Drop by spoonfuls on to a greased cookie sheet and bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit, about ten minutes. Remove from oven and when all are baked, frost with chocolate frosting.

SPRINGBROOK

Last Sunday Rev. H. W. Foley preached a very impressive farewell sermon on "Goal of Life" to a large congregation. During the sermon Mr. Foley brought in many illustrations from life of St. Paul, which will long be remembered. During the service the choir rendered an anthem and Miss Laura Foley sang "Evening Prayer" very beautifully. Mr. and Mrs. Foley and Miss Laura left on Wednesday for their new home at Bowmanville, where Mr. Foley is retiring from the ministry, and where their many friends hope they may enjoy this well-earned rest.
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Gaunt entertained the former's sister, Miss Gaunt, R.N., of Toronto, for a few days recently.
The I.O.O.F. Hall, which has stood in the village for the past 41 years, has been sold to a contractor and is being torn down and the lumber drawn away.
Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Switzer from near Peterboro, are visiting the former's brothers, Reeve Geo. and Mr. Kenneth Thompson.
Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morgan were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Murney Fleming.
Mr. Jack McEwen, of Belleville, spent a few days last week with Mrs. Green and Albert.

A SPECTACLE STORY — UNBELIEVABLE BUT TRUE

Ripley never knew a funnier one than this. Four years ago, Mrs. Geo. Lawson disturbed a setting hen, who flew in her face and knocked off her glasses — much to Mrs. Lawson's consternation for they had just cost her sixteen good dollars and it takes a lot of chicken and egg money to save up that much. No hen was discovered wearing glasses, and no chickens were matched with horn rims to their eyes in all those four years, but still the search went on. In the meantime, Mrs. Lawson bought new glasses — perhaps so she could better see to hunt for the lost ones. Four years later those glasses were discovered, quite by accident, in a corner of a corn field to the north end of the farm, at least a quarter of a mile from the hen house where they were lost. Although the field had been ploughed and harrowed and raked often, the glasses were quite intact and are now in almost daily use by their owner. — Brighton Ensign.

PROFIT BY SUCCESSFUL BUSINESS MAN'S EXPERIENCE

A business man recently attributed his failure to having abandoned newspaper advertising.
He stopped advertising because he thought the rate too high. Handbills, circulars, facsimile letters, signboards were used in vain.
It was bad judgment. He recognized his folly too late. Today he is out of business — a failure.
If you do not advertise your business, the sheriff will.
If you want to sell things to the public learn to originate ideas and to put them into attractive form.
You will find it of practical advantage to keep a record of such ideas as they occur to you, either by writing them in a note-book or on cards to be duly filed for ready reference.
Good advertising is crisp, graphic, convincing. It should be based on sound, common sense.
When the depression was at its worst — when business men were panic-stricken and fearful of the direct calamities — a well-known publishing house promptly doubled its newspaper advertising and reaped a profitable business in consequence.
A man wrote to a local newspaper: "Thursday I lost a gold watch valued highly. I immediately advertised in your lost and found column and patiently waited.
"Yesterday I went home and found the watch in the pocket of another suit. It certainly pays to advertise." But here I am urging the serious side of advertising, the publicity that pays profits.

A merchant recently handed to a newspaper "copy" in which the first item advertised was ice-cream freezers.
"Are you crazy?" the editor asked. "Ice-cream freezers in February? You can sell 'em in July and August, but now now."
"But," said the merchant, "you said to advertise what people want and are buying."
"They're not buying freezers now." "They are."
The newspaper reluctantly inserted the advertisement and the merchant sold over 100 ice-cream freezers that week-end.
Moral: If pays to advertise when you advertise what people want to buy.

DISCOVERS RARE SPECIES

Mr. Harvey McConnell, Springbrook, has discovered a new species of bird and its nest. About sixty years ago while walking through the woods with his father, he saw a similar bird and his father told him it was an Oven bird. It is a small bird, somewhat like the grass bird, only larger. It builds its nest on the ground, box-like in shape, covering it over completely, leaving only a small opening in its side to go in and out. He saw the eggs and it is the only one of its kind he has seen in all these years. If any person knows anything about this strange bird, or has heard of an "Oven Bird" and its habits, Mr. McConnell would be pleased to hear from them, and will willingly guide any interested party to the nest.

JUNIOR FARMERS MEET

A meeting of Hastings County Junior Farmers was held in the Agricultural Rooms, Stirling, on Saturday night for the purpose of making arrangements for the Annual Field Day to be held at the Stirling Fair grounds and at Oak Lake on Wednesday, July 22nd. Grant Longwell, president, of Foxboro, occupied the chair and representatives were present from Sidney, Thurlow, Rawdon, Huntingdon, Madoc and Hungerford. The program for the day will include softball tournaments and other sports, which will be held on the local Fair Grounds, and a dance at the Oak Lake Pavilion. Six boys' teams representing Hungerford, Madoc, Huntingdon, Thurlow, Rawdon and Sidney, and four girls' teams from Sidney, Rawdon, Madoc and Hungerford are already entered and it is expected that the competition provided will be particularly keen. The executive are working hard to make the event a big success and given fair weather there is every indication that they will succeed.

HIT BY TRUCK

Max Preston, of Stirling, received serious injuries on Thursday night last when his car was struck by a hit and run driver on the Campbellford Road, north of Stirling. The injured man sustained a compound fracture of his right arm and is confined to Belleville Hospital, suffering from other fractures and severe bruises. Provincial officers were called and at the scene found the rear vision mirror of a truck lying in the left ditch near Preston's car, which was badly damaged after having been allegedly sideswiped by a "hit-and-run" driver. Preston gave the police a full description of the truck he alleged struck his car. Constable O'Brien forwarded this information to Campbellford, where Constable G. Campbell placed Joseph Keating, Campbellford trucker, under arrest. He was taken to Belleville and lodged in jail, charged with criminal negligence. He appeared in court on Friday morning and was remanded for one week by Magistrate E. J. Butler.

Latest reports are that Preston is liable to lose the use of his arm as a result.

TOURNAMENT LOCAL CLUB

Twenty Rinks Take Part in Play — Warkworth Rink is First

The greens of the Stirling Lawn Bowling Club were the scene yesterday (Wednesday) afternoon and evening of one of the best tournaments staged by the local club for some time. The event was the annual Mixed Rinks Tournament, and representatives from practically all the clubs in the surrounding district were present. There were twenty rinks in the draw, one coming from Brighton, two from Norwood, two from Campbellford, two from Belleville, two from Warkworth, four from Kingston, one from Havelock, two from Madoc and four from Stirling.

Play opened early in the afternoon and from then until about eleven p.m. play continued without interruption. Three 12-end games were played and some close and exciting contests were witnessed, with extra ends being required in some cases to declare a winner. Threatening skies prevailed throughout the afternoon and evening but did not dampen the ardor of the bowlers, who enjoyed themselves to the utmost. At the conclusion of play refreshments were served by the ladies of the Stirling Club, following which the winners were announced and the prizes presented. The visiting bowlers were welcomed previous to play commencing by President R. A. Patterson, while the draw was conducted by Thos. W. Solmes, to the satisfaction of all.

The honour of having three wins with the highest score went to a Warkworth rink skipped by C. Churchley. Other members of the rink were Mr. and Mrs. J. Dingman and Mrs. Churchley. The ladies chose lace tablecloths as prizes while the gentlemen each took a shirt. The second prize for three wins went to J. Derry's rink, of Kingston, comprising Mrs. McBride and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Heagle. Silver rose bowls were taken by the ladies and shirts by the gentlemen.

For two wins a Campbellford rink, Mrs. Brown, J. R. Douglas, Mrs. Locke and P. W. Locke, skip, was high. Linen pillow cases were chosen by the ladies and shirts by the gentlemen. A Norwood rink, Miss Douglas, Dr. H. Carleton, Mrs. H. Carleton and L. C. Gunstone, won second prize for two wins, with the ladies each receiving a silk cushion and each gentleman a shirt. Another Warkworth rink, Mrs. Phillips, F. Smith, Mrs. M. Smith and M. E. Smith, skip, captured the fifth prize for the high score with one win. The ladies received cocktail sets and the gentlemen shirts. The results of the games were as follows:

SEVERE STORM DOES DAMAGE

Stock Killed by Lightning — Wind Flattens Fall Grains

Accompanied by heavy winds, vivid flashes of lightning and thunder together with some hail, one of the worst storms in years struck Stirling district on Sunday afternoon about three o'clock. Gathering in the north the storm broke with such suddenness that many who had sought relief from the extreme heat at some favourite spot were caught in the drenching rain. Limbs were torn from trees, crops were flattened and the local Hydro-Electric service was disrupted for over two hours when wires were broken by falling trees. The fall grain and the early oats suffered most from the storm as it was flattened and twisted by the swirling winds and the heavy downpour. While there was little hail in Stirling, a number of farmers on the fourth concession of Rawdon report a heavy fall of it in their section and the garden crops of W. J. Bateman was practically ruined by the hail.

At the home of Mr. Louis Rodgers, Ridge Road, the storm assumed cyclonic proportions. A hay rack sitting in the yard was picked up and carried completely over the roof of the machine shed by the wind, while a number of windows were broken and the roof were damaged by the storm.

Mr. Geo. Snarr, of Harold, lost four fine cows when they were struck by lightning. The cattle had sought protection from the storm under a large tree and were found lying in a heap after the storm had abated.

A horse belonging to Mr. James McComb, of Bonarlaw, was struck and killed by lightning.

The Hydro service in Rawdon Township suffered considerable damage and the employees of the local commission have been working all week to repair the damage.

THOUSANDS ATTEND ORANGE CELEBRATION

OVER THIRTY LODGES PARTICIPATE IN COLOURFUL PARADE — STIRRING ADDRESSES HEARD OVER LOUD-SPEAKING SYSTEM — BALL GAME AND OTHER AMUSEMENTS AT GROUNDS

To the music of dozens of flutes and fifes and the stirring roll of drums approximately a thousand loyal Orangemen and members of Associate lodges marched in the parade of over a mile in length in Stirling on Monday afternoon, commemorating the 247th Anniversary of the Battle of the Boyne. Thousands of spectators were also in attendance to swell the crowd to one of the largest ever seen in Stirling. From early morning they began to arrive and by time for the parade the Stirling Agricultural grounds was a mass of humanity, while hundreds of cars with their quota of passengers lined the route of march. Citizens turned out almost to a man to watch the parade, which comprised delegates from practically every section for miles around. The streets were gaily decorated with hundreds of flags and numerous banners bearing inscriptions of the outstanding principles of Orangism. The celebration was held under the auspices of Stirling L.O.L. No. 110 and L.O.B.A. No. 655 and was for the county.

The parade assembled at the Fair Grounds shortly after dinner, and headed by County Marshal B. Bateman, of Springbrook L.O.L. 442, mounted on a spirited horse, moved along Mill to North St. and thence along Church and Charlotte Streets to the starting point. Veterans of the Order occupied a prominent position at the head of the parade, being driven in cars, to be followed in order by Stirling Citizens Band under the leadership of Bandmaster Bell; Lydia Lodge, No. 350, L.O.B.A., Belleville; Foxboro L.O.L. No. 3; L.O.L. No. 602; Wallbridge L.O.L. No. 2386; Ebenezer L.O.L. No. 974, Leinster, Ont.; L.O.L. No. 242, Shannonville; L.O.L. No. 175, Allisonville, Ont.; L.O.L. No. 438, Picton; Tyendinaga L.O.L. No. 295; Marmora True Blues, No. 34; Springbrook L.O.L. No. 442; Marmora L.O.L. No. 319; Tanner L.O.L. No. 509; Allan Settlement L.O.L. 253; Malonne L.O.L. No. 225; Queensboro L.O.B.A. No. 465; Queensboro L.O.L. No. 907; Flinton L.O.L. No. 437; Eldorado L.O.L. No. 517; Hazzard's Corners L.O.L. No. 1133; Madoc L.O.L. No. 160; West Huntingdon L.O.L. No. 300; Holloway L.O.L. No. 251; Premier L.O.B.A. No. 531, Crookston; Downey L.O.L. No. 435, Ivanhoe; Thomasburg L.O.L. No. 131; Elliott L.O.L. No. 302; Tweed L.O.L. No. 747; Carleton Lodge No. 838, Monmore, and others. A noticeable feature of the parade was the large number of women, all of whom presented a neat appearance in white dresses with traditional orange shoulder ribbons.

Following the parade, speeches were delivered from a platform placed in a shady part of the grounds and were carried to the listening thousands over a loud speaker system operated by Messrs Colin Fox and J. Ormiston, of Stirling. Bro. Sager, County Master, of Queensboro, acted as chairman during the programme and introduced the speakers. Rev. Jas. E. Beckel, County Chaplain, officially welcomed the visitors.

Wor. Bro. E. F. Reid, Past Grand Master of Ontario East, of Peterboro, was the first speaker and delivered a stirring appeal to members of the Order to guard the public school system of the Province of Ontario. Much as they had done in the past they must be prepared to spend even more of their time, energy and money in the future if they were to accomplish that for which the Orange Order stood. The speaker recalled the Hepburn legislation by which the school amendment had been "rushed through the House" and a year later abandoned and rescinded by the party who had supported it. Most of our troubles in Ontario were the result of legislation that is rushed through the dying hours of the Legislature and then is found to be unworkable. What was the effect of that amendment which had been rushed through the Provincial House in the first place, asked Mr. Reid. In the city of Ottawa it meant that $29,000 had been diverted from the coffers of the public schools to the support of the Separate Schools and closer to home, in the city of Peterborough, $7,000 was transferred from the public schools to the sectarian schools, and that was only a sample of what had been done. In conclusion he urged that greater effort be made for the Orange Order in order that the question of importance to the protestant people could be properly dealt with.

The next speaker was Mrs. Johnston, Grand Director of the Ladies' Orange Benevolent Society of Ontario East, and she was followed in order by Rev. M. O. Price, Actinolite; Rev. F. C. Beazer, Roslin; Rev. Canon W. G. Swayne, Bonarlaw; Geo. A. Reid, Belleville, Rev. A. S. McConnell, Stirling, and Rev. W. J. Scott Stirling.

The programme concluded with the National Anthem.

A baseball game between two teams of the South Hastings League failed to materialize and a pick-up team from Stirling filled the breach and were defeated by Cannifton by a large score.

During the day meals were served on the grounds by members of the local Orange Organizations, and a number of booths were also in operation. The celebration was a most successful one in every respect and the various committees in charge of the arrangements are to be congratulated on the success which attended their efforts.

The members of the various committees were as follows:

PLAY IN DELORO

The Stirling baseball team will journey to Deloro tomorrow (Friday) night to meet the Deloro Baseball team in an exhibition game. For the past three days these babies — now 67 years old — have been living and sleeping under the roof of the old Ralph homestead, on Front Street, the first in the residence of Mr. Cecil Macklin, and the second in the home of Mrs. James Ralph. The first, who now resides in Cobourg, is the father of Mrs. Macklin, the second is the eldest brother of Mrs. Ralph.

SPRINGBROOK TAKES FIRST

First Game of Finals a Thriller — Final Score 3 to 1

In one of the best games of the season Springbrook defeated Bethel on Tuesday evening in the first game of the finals of the Rawdon Softball League by the score of 3 to 1. The pastime was marked with some fine fielding by both teams, and splendid pitching by the opposing moundsmen, who had complete command of the game. Broadworth, in particular, on the mound for the winners, displayed plenty of class when he struck out fourteen of the losers to Runnalls' three.

Broadworth went the full route for the winners, and after giving up one run in the first on a walk and an error by Thompson, was never in trouble. Only twenty-five men faced him in the seven innings, he getting the side in order in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth innings. He allowed three walks.

The winners scored a brace of runs in the second on a three-base hit by C. Thompson, an error by Green on Sharpe's drive and a hit by Williams, and one in the fourth when Sharpe got on when the third strike got away from McKeown and a long hit by Burkitt. From then on Runnalls had full control but his mates couldn't get the necessary runs to make him a winner. This was a hard fought game between two evenly-matched teams, and when they met again on Saturday evening, there should be one of the largest crowds of the season in attendance. The fielding session was supplied by M. McKeown, catcher of the losers, who went clear behind the snow fence in the third to capture a foul from the bat of Burkitt.

The lineups:

Springbrook — G. Williams, c; M. Heath, 3b; G. Heath, 1b; G. Broadworth, p; Gibson, 1b; C. Thompson, 2b; D. Sharpe, ss; Burkitt, cf; C. Heath, rf; H. Bateman replaced C. Heath in the seventh.

Glen Ross — H. Heath, 2b; Sutherland, 1b; Ryckman, ss; Runnalls, p; M. McKeown, c; W. Warren, cf; Bat-

DELORO WINS IN THIRD GAME

Final Score Was 11 to 8 — Good Crowd Witnessed Game

On Monday evening on the local school diamond the Deloro "Miners" took the Stirling ball team into camp by the score of 11 to 8 before one of the best crowds of the season. Both teams had one win each to their credit and were out to gain the edge but the visitors proved to be better hitters to take down the count. However, the younger players are showing an improvement in this department every time out, and once they gain the necessary experience will be hard to take.

S. Callery started on the mound for the winners and blanked Stirling for the first two innings, but in the third two walks and a two-base hit by Ryckman and a sacrifice fly put across three runs. Butler, Gough and Ryckman being the scorers. Leal replaced Callery on the mound in the fourth and the locals scored two more to bring their total to five. In the last inning Stirling got three more: a walk and three hits.

Deloro scored one in the first and two in the second off Long, who started on the mound for the locals, and added one in the third off Ryckman, who replaced him at the start of the third inning, to make the score 4 to 3. However, in the fourth the visitors fell on Ryckman's offerings with a vengeance and before the side was retired seven runs had crossed the plate to give them a commanding lead. Butcher pitched the remainder of the game and held the winners scoreless.

The lineups:

Deloro — P. Gray, ss; W. Simmons, 2b; R. Smith, 3b; R. Regan, rf; C. O'Neill, 1b; S. Callery, p; V. Callery, cf; R. Brawley, lf; G. McColl, c.

Stirling — Conley, c; Dainard, cf; Shier, ss; Williams, 2b; Fox, 1b; Fraser, 3b; Butler, lf; Gough, rf; Long, p; Ward replaced Dainard in the second.

Umpires — Cousens, plate; Ackers, bases.

Word was received by Dr. C. F. Walt, of this village, of the death of his brother, Mr. Edward Walt, which occurred at his home at Stockdale, Ont., on Monday. The funeral took place on Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Morley Barlow, of Bonarlaw, is a daughter of the late Mr. Walt.

NATIVE OF FULLER DIES VERY SUDDENLY

Death came suddenly to George Peck, residence, 3rd concession of Thurlow Township, while working in a hay field on Tuesday afternoon, July 13th, about three o'clock in the afternoon. His son, William A. Peck, was helping him in harvesting hay and upon returning to the location where the work was being done, after being absent for a short time, found his father lying face downward upon the ground and life extinct. Dr. J. J. Robertson, Chief Coroner, was summoned, and upon investigation decided that an inquest was unnecessary as death was due to a sudden heart attack. The late George Peck, who was in his 67th year, was born at Fuller, Huntingdon Township, his parents being the late Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Peck. For some time he resided at Conesecon and for the past twenty years he had made his home in the 3rd concession of Thurlow Township. In religion he was a member of the Church of England and connected with Christ Church parish, Belleville. Surviving him are his widow, who, prior to her marriage, was Miss Emily Ashbury, one son, William A. Peck, at home; one sister, Mrs. John Barnum, of Selby, Ont., and one brother, Isaac Peck, of Foam Lake, Sask. The family will receive the sincere sympathy of their friends in their bereavement. The funeral will take place at Belleville on Friday.

PAY YOUR TAXES ON TIME

Citizens of Stirling received reminders this week that the first instalment of their taxes is due on Monday, August 2nd. For a number of years the first instalment of the taxes was made payable on July 1st, but last year a change was made to allow payment being made on the current year's assessment. This worked to the advantage of the municipality and will be continued this year. The village is required to pay quite a large sum of money each year in interest on money borrowed to meet current expenses and it is hoped that the citizens will co-operate in keeping this expenditure at a minimum by paying their taxes promptly.

SWIMMING POOL POPULAR

During the extremely warm weather of the past weeks we doubt if there has been a more popular place in Stirling than the municipal swimming pool for the children. Not only did the children flock to this spot, but many adults were seen standing on the bridge in the cooling breeze off the water, and apparently enjoying the antics of the boys and girls as they dived and swam about. Here the children can swim in comparative safety and so long as the pool is kept in a sanitary condition the children will continue to use it. In past years it has become contaminated through refuse being thrown into the creek by thoughtless folk, but so far this year there has been no trouble. It is with a view to preventing any recurrence of this that we urge the citizens to refrain from throwing any refuse either into the creek or along the banks where it will be eventually washed into the stream. Early this spring a number of public-spirited citizens went to the trouble to thoroughly clean the pool and it would be too bad for a number of careless and thoughtless citizens to nullify their splendid efforts. Once again we urge the citizens to refrain from throwing refuse into the creek. Your assistance and co-operation will be greatly appreciated by the boys and girls who are too small or not proficient enough to swim in the deeper parts of the creek or lake, as well as by their parents, who know their children to be in comparative safety from drowning when swimming in the village pool.

SLOW-MOVING FREIGHTERS A MENACE

The Port Hope News points out that there is an agitation now on foot to eliminate the large trucks from the highways which are unable to negotiate the hills at an average rate of speed. Is there anything more aggravating to a driver with a high-powered car than to be caught behind a snail-pace truck on a long hill? Few of the largest trucks travel the highways passing through Stirling, but there are many of the smaller ones, and any motorist who has been obliged to follow one of these up the Oak Hills will appreciate the feelings of motorists travelling on highways most used by these freighters. The News says in part:

The traffic laws of Ontario forbid motorists to pass on the hill. Yet the authorities countenance the use of large trucks which not only slow up traffic, but actually tempt the drivers of passenger cars to take a chance and pass them on the hills. Four lane highways would be of great advantage also in this respect.

A motorist can scarcely go for a drive these days without encountering one of these huge snails in his path. As a rule, they begin the ascent of a hill at a good clip; but the higher they travel the slower they go, until when they approach the crest of the hill, their speed is in the neighbourhood of five miles an hour and the drivers behind have progressively had to shift from high to second and finally to low to keep their cars moving.

There must be trucks in existence which can carry a full load at a reasonable rate of speed. If there is no such animal, the heavy trucks should have their load capacity cut down. They not only obstruct traffic, which is already too heavy for the inadequate accommodation of some of our highways, but they encourage motorists to pass them on a hill with its resultant danger to life and property.

CURRENT COMMENT

Those who complained about the cool weather last month have been finding fault with the extreme heat of the past ten days. People are just like that — never satisfied.

Tweed tax rate has been set at 53 mills. Stirling residents who feel that the local rate of 49 mills is much too high may gain some solace from the fact that there are some municipalities in the district who have an even higher rate.

With the farmers busy harvesting their hay crop, there is a reported shortage of labourers, and they are finding it difficult to procure any extra help. The road construction work going on in this section has absorbed the surplus manpower, and is giving employment to many who were without a job for some time. All of which points to better times for the labourers and less relief for the different municipalities during the coming winter.

It is not too early to plan exhibits for the Stirling Fall Fair to be held in September. The Directors are working on the arrangements, and the committee in charge of the special prizes reports a good response to its appeals. With the crops giving promise of being the best for a number of years, it is expected that this year's Fair will surpass any of the past. Plan to be an exhibitor. The more exhibitors the better the Fair.

This is the time of year to begin the annual anti-fly campaign and from now on "Swat the Fly" will be the universal slogan. The common fly is a nuisance to good health and well-being of the people, and in addition is responsible for great wastage of food. While thousands of dollars are spent annually to protect crops and livestock from insect pests, little has been done to protect humans from insects which carry germs. Citizens should screen their houses and particularly food from the flies in order to eliminate the house fly pest.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture has launched a drive to eliminate poison ivy throughout the province, with special attention being paid to summer resorts and tourist camps. This weed causes a great deal of suffering to hundreds of people who come in contact with it each year and the Department of Agriculture's efforts towards its elimination will be greatly appreciated. Citizens in general who know where there is a patch of Poison Ivy are asked to report it to their municipal authorities in order that it may be destroyed.

Folks in the village of Hastings are complaining about tourists strutting up and down the streets dressed in scanty attire and a drive is being made against semi-nudity. This practice is not confined to the above village alone, nor is it practised only by tourists. The craze for the past few years has been to go about during the summer months with as little clothing as possible, but there is a distinct difference of opinion between the older and younger generations as to the conventional attire. So far as we are concerned we have never felt that what was fit and proper attire on a bathing beach was proper on a village street.

Motorists who speed through the streets of many Ontario towns are paying for their privilege. Only recently in one of the nearby villages a large number were picked up by the local constable for exceeding the speed limit. While the maintenance of a speed trap in a municipality is a poor advertisement for a town, and a practice which we do not favour, there are times when some motorists speed through Stirling at a pace that is dangerous. Motorists coming down grade on Front St. at a high speed would have little chance to avoid an accident were a child to dart out into the street. Operators of cars should drive with extreme caution on village streets in order to eliminate any chance of a fatal accident.

This is the time of year when it is imperative that all weeds should be cut and destroyed to prevent them from going to seed. The Streets Committee have had men cutting the noxious weeds growing along the village streets, and it is expected that citizens will follow suit and see that they are cut on their own properties. While many of our citizens have met the requirements of the law, there are those who have neglected to do so and apparently are content to make it compulsory for the weed inspector to take action. It is the duty of the inspector to see that the provisions of the act are carried out, and anyone refusing or neglecting to obey his orders is liable to a fine. If we are to keep our village attractive it will be worth our while to check up on the weeds and see that they are destroyed.

COPPERS WELCOMED

(Dundalk Herald)

A Herald subscriber paid on his subscription this week one hundred and eighty-five coppers, large and small. When we saw the young man counting out all the coppers we thought it was a Sunday school treasurer wanting to settle an account. But the subscriber informed us he had been putting aside all his coppers for some time with the express purpose of paying the arrears on his subscription. There was a whole match box full of coppers by the time we had got them all gathered together. If necessary we can have a lot of empty match boxes on hand to accommodate subscribers paying by the copper method.

FARMERS AND C. I. O.

(Pembroke Bulletin)

The local branch of the United Automobile Workers of America C.I.O. affiliate, St. Catharines, have sent out a pamphlet which reads as follows:

"In view of the near approach of a provincial election, and of the necessity for all farmer and labour organizations to combine their resources so that suitable representatives can be obtained this call is being sent out by the labor action committee."

In our humble opinion it will be a long day before the farmers of Ontario line up with any labour union. With them it is long hours, no time and one-half for over-time. It's work and mighty thankful that they have it to do.

CHEESE BOARD

A total of 3254 white and 85 coloured cheese was sold on the Belleville Cheese Board on Saturday at a price of 13 3/4 cents. An initial bid of 13 1/2 cents was registered at the opening of the Board. FIRE CAUSED BY DEFECTIVE WIRING

Defective wiring caused a minor blaze at the home of James Johnston, Ranney Street, Campbellford, on Friday morning. Mrs. Ranney was getting breakfast in the kitchen when she noticed the smoke coming from the upstairs part of the house. Firemen were called to the scene and soon had the blaze under control. Damage was estimated at $35.00.

HASTINGS VILLAGE HAS TOURIST PROBLEM

Vigorous objections to tourists parading scantily clad up and down the streets of Hastings village is contained in letters received by the village reeve recently. Leading clergymen are sponsoring the drive against semi-nudity. They contend that girls strut around wearing scanty shorts and halters which completely expose their backs. Those who oppose the warm weather costumes say the village constable, William Wellman, should be empowered to force all offenders to don more clothes.

PROVIDE AIRPORT AT PRESQU'ILE

Presqu'ile Park Commission has purchased a 40-acre field from J. T. N. Atkins, a farmer on Presqu'ile Point for a landing field on the point. The property skirts the road leading to the point and is adjacent to the pavilion, hotel, and docks. Last year an air meet was held at the point in August and the field the planes used was not in good condition for the purpose, so the commission aims to provide better accommodation before another such occasion. Already rumors are abroad that a transport plane will make regular Friday night to Monday morning trips from Rochester to the point as soon as the field is available.

Static By The Editor

The Son: "What is a dead-head?"

The Father: "Two women trying to have the last word, my boy."

"Isn't this bill rather steep?" he asked his tailor.

"You should know best, sir, for it was run up by you."

An emigrant was preparing to leave his native land and try his luck abroad. An acquaintance inquired casually: "What are you going to do when you arrive in America?"

"Oh, take up land."

"Much?"

"Only a shovelful at a time."

The film star's chauffeur was driving him home from Shepperton. They were only a few hundred yards from the studios when the majestic figure of the law darted nimbly in front of the car. Reclining in the deep back seat, the actor listened to the following dialogue between his chauffeur and the constable:

"Knock, knock."

"Eh?" said the puzzled driver.

"Knock, knock" persisted the constable.

"Who's there," asked the chauffeur, feeling that the law must be humoured.

"Butcher."

"Butcher who?"

"Butcher lights on."

A small boy entered a post-office and handed a quarter to the counter clerk with a request to be told whether it was a good one.

The coin on being tested, bent readily, and was handed back with the information that it was a "dud" and that the post office couldn't change it.

The boy departed but returned ten minutes later to inquire: "Mr. . . . says, 'will you please bend this back again, so that he can change it somewhere else?'"

"Now you've got to keep away from this guy," the second whispered. "Jab him an' get away or he'll use his right. You got to keep that left hand out there, an' don't let him use the right. He's a cinch to try to get you to slug with him, but don't do it, or he'll get his right over."

"I got you," the fighter nodded. "I'll do just like you say, but suppose he does get his right over? What'll I do?"

"Nothin'," the second instructed. "Just relax and me an' the referee will carry you to your corner."

"You have several fine estates, I believe," said the Duchess of Wapping. "Would you mind telling me where they are?"

The Earl of Suffix sat without answering.

The duchess repeated her request. Still the earl paid no attention, simply nodded his head, and smiled vacantly.

Her ladyship became flustered. Just as the earl's wife came near them she raised her voice and asked the question the third time.

Lady Suffix sensed the situation at a glance. She approached her silent husband and laid an indulgent hand on his shoulder.

"Come, dear," she smiled. "You are forgetting your manors."

Campaign Against Weeds

The provincial authorities are leaving no stone unturned in their campaign against weeds. Many of the highways have the usual prolific crops along the sides of the road. Some of the farms throughout the country have crops of weeds which will soon be ripening and spreading their seeds to the four winds. Delinquents in this respect will be given an opportunity to explain the reason for their contempt of the law as soon as the weed inspector makes his rounds.

Roosts for Young Birds

Teaching chicks to roost at an early age tends to promote feathered growth and helps materially in carrying the chicks over the critical period when they are most likely to crowd and smother. It is desirable to get the chicks to roost just as soon as they no longer need heat to keep them comfortable. One of the best ways of getting chicks to roost is to build a sloping roost to the rear of the brooder house or to one side of the house and enclose the underneath side of the roost with a fine mesh wire so that the chicks cannot get at the droppings. They will take to these temporary roosts in no time.

The Turnip Aphid

In connection with the control of the turnip aphid, entomologists advise the planting of two rows of white turnips in a field of swedes as a "trap" crop for this insect. These aphids, which cause serious injury to young turnip plants through feeding on the leaves, commonly reach Canadian points in the late summer, but they may be expected earlier this year and probably to cause greater injury. Past experience has shown that this insect prefers white to swede turnips and may gather in huge numbers on a small number of white turnip plants, leaving the swedes but lightly infested. The planting of a row or two of white turnips in with the main crop attracts the aphids to the "trap" plants so that they can be destroyed easily with spray or dust or by being plowed under. The turnip aphids or plant lice make themselves apparent in a field through individual plants becoming stunted in growth and sickly in appearance. Purple blotches may appear in the surface of the leaf and these indicate large colonies on the under surface. These infested plants should be pulled and removed at once.

Weeders

Possibly one of the most satisfactory implements for the control of weeds in a growing grain crop is what is known as the finger weeder. This implement consists of a series of long slender teeth which form a very light harrow. The finger weeder may be used to advantage on annual weeds shortly after germination, both before and after the grain crop has emerged and until the crop is some two to four inches high.

Radish Maggot Control

Radish maggot may be controlled by the same solution as used for cabbage maggot, but applied in the form of a fine spray a few days after the plants have appeared above ground. The application should not be used after bulbs commence to form, as it is very poisonous.

If it is not proposed to treat radishes severe losses may be avoided by broadcasting seed instead of sowing in drills.

The same treatment will give beneficial control to onion maggot, if at least two applications are made at the proper time.

Egg Shortage Coming

In Ontario and Quebec provinces, according to statements made by officials of the poultry services, there is reason to believe that laying stock is now below normal. There has been no great run in any one week, but the steady movement week by week over a long period has accounted for many more thousands of birds than is generally recognized.

This condition combined with reduced purchases of baby chicks is causing real concern over the possibility of an egg shortage next fall. The impression now is that eggs will be scarce from September to January and that poultrymen will do well to get their birds in lay by that time.

Some authorities are advising producers to raise every chick that they can this spring. While the cost of food is rather high, prices of all commodities are rising and it is reasonable to expect that when conditions adjust themselves eggs and poultry will also be higher.

The egg markets at Eastern centres is now two to three cents above the corresponding period of a year ago, and, with some recent reductions in feed prices, the prices of eggs and feed are coming more in line with each other.

Henhouse Ventilation

The removal of moisture is a major problem in poultry houses. Poultry have no sweat glands, but they give off relatively large amounts of vapour in respiration through the skin. It was found at one experimental station that maximum egg production was obtained when temperatures were not permitted to fluctuate widely. A henhouse temperature at 50 degrees F. is too high to be maintained on most farms in winter without artificial heat. Hence a lower temperature held uniformly would be desirable. Increasing numbers of poultrymen have had success with artificial heat properly regulated, but failure has commonly resulted when temperatures were allowed to go too high or fluctuate widely.

Summer Homes for Hogs

The hog does not require an expensive home. Not only that, but best results are actually obtained from the cheaper equipment. Two or three cabins and a box-stall for the farrowing sow will supply the necessary housing in the case of the farmer who grows a few hogs. Experiments have proved successful with cabins constructed of strong, though relatively light material and provided with hinged sides for free passage of air in the summer season. They are built on runners so as to be easily shifted from place to place. The A-shaped cabin is subject to damage by the pressure of the hogs from the inside. The upright cabin with the peaked roof will last for years. A circular is available at your local agricultural office giving specifications for a suitable summer home which when tightened up and properly protected, makes an all-year hog house.

Make the Meadows Pay

Ontario usually has about four and one-half million acres of hay crops each year. In passing across the province just before haying one cannot help feeling that many of these acres are not paying the taxes and the cost of handling the crop. Statistical reports indicate an average yield of only one and one-half tons to the acre and this can certainly be improved upon. For the meadows, good drainage and sweet soil are very important. Roots of grasses and clovers are slow to penetrate wet soils and wherever there is a surplus of water on the soil air is shut out and hence the bacterial life is either weakened or killed. Another point in meadow improvement is the use of high quality seed. If poor seed is used the meadow starts out with a handicap. Good drainage, good seed, and a liberal supply of suitable fertilizer make profitable meadows.

Fred Pitts, 37, labourer, resident of Marmora, was drowned in the Moira River shortly after six o'clock on Friday morning, his body being recovered ten minutes later in eight feet of water, but artificial respiration failed to revive the victim. It is believed the man slipped and fell into the river due to the fact he was fully dressed. It is understood the victim could not swim. Dr. S. Eagleson, Madoc, coroner for the district, with County Constable Percy Gray, of Marmora, investigated and learning the facts, the coroner declared an inquest unnecessary.

ONTARIO CHEESE PRODUCERS'

The following, written by S. L. Joss, Secretary of the Ontario Cheese Producers' Association, is just a brief report to give the members an outline of the progress of the work of the association since the Marketing Scheme was passed by the Provincial Government on June 1st.

Compulsory Boarding: This part of our programme is working out very satisfactorily and there is only a very small percentage of the factories that are not now recorded on the board. Each week this number is being reduced and additional factories are boarding. We are checking up very carefully and we can assure our members that no factory will be allowed to evade the regulations of the Local Board.

Cheese Purchases by the Association: We have purchased up to date slightly over 5,000 boxes of cheese, and have shipped to our overseas representative approximately 2,000 boxes which I expect have now arrived in England. At the moment the market does not look any too favourable for a profit on these cheese at the price at which they were purchased. However, there is a general feeling that the market will come back to some extent.

Market Conditions: The statistical position seems sound and consumption in the Old Country is keeping pace with receipts. Production of English and Scotch cheese is below last year, due principally to increased consumption of whole milk in the Old Country. On the whole, therefore, it would appear that we have no reason to feel discouraged about cheese prices this year. The sudden drop in prices during the past two weeks, however, have caused some comment in the country.

Mechanical costs in shipping cheese to United Kingdom ports which are what are termed c.i.f. charges are as follows:

Inland freight, 20c to 27c per 100 lbs.; Ocean freight, 47½c per 100 lbs.; one week's storage, 5c per box; wiring and branding, 5c per box; cartage, warehouse to dock, 3c per box; insurance (negligible); total (approximately) 80c to 87c per box.

It will be noted that it costs approximately 80c to 87c per 100 lbs. to ship cheese to United Kingdom ports. If you take these mechanical costs and consider them with the difference between the cable quotations and the country cheese board prices listed above, you will note that on the whole the spread is a reasonable one and it would indicate that our method of selling is sound insofar as return to producers is concerned.

SOVIET FLIERS BREAK RECORD

San Jacinto, Calif., July 14.—Three daring Soviet airmen landed in a pasture three miles west of her and 90 miles east of Los Angeles, early on Wednesday with a new long distance flight record established in an epochal flight across the North Pole from Moscow. Beset by fog and a leaky gasoline tank, the trio ended their adventure at 6:27 a.m. P.S.T. (10:27 a.m. E.D.T.) after covering nearly 6,770 miles in slightly more than 62 hours.

The three — Pilot Mikhail Gromoff, co-pilot Andre Yumosheff and Navigator Sergei Danilin — said they had flown as far down the Pacific Coast as San Diego but were blocked by fog and retraced their course to the eastward March Field, an army base only 25 miles from this mountain community. The mountain range was confusing to them, and they did not know just where they were when the gasoline tank sprang a leak. The big ant type red monoplane, powered by a single huge motor, was brought down safely when the pasture was sighted.

Eggleton Family Reunion

On Wednesday, July 7th, the annual picnic of the Eggleton family was held at Bird's Beach, Oak Lake, with a fair number in attendance. After dinner had been enjoyed, the President, Mr. George Eggleton, called the gathering to order, and in a short address welcomed all present. He also pointed out that 101 years had passed by since our forefathers came to Canada in a sail boat and that it had taken eight weeks to cross the ocean. A sad note in his address was the reminder that six of our members had passed away since the last meeting. They are: Mrs. Adam Cooney, Harold; Mrs. Edward Holland, Madoc; Mr. John Eggleton, Foxboro; Mr. Geo. Gay, Madoc Junction; Mr. Albert Eggleton, Holloway; Mr. Edward Holland, Madoc.

Mr. Robert Eggleton next addressed the gathering on "The Family Tree" and the effort being put forth to obtain a complete record of the Eggletons and their descendants. He also drew attention to the fact that four generations of his family were present at the picnic — himself, Mr. Samuel Eggleton, Mr. Vernon Eggleton and Master Ivan Eggleton.

Mr. Robert Eggleton has held the office of president for the past six years and still has a keen interest in the progress of the picnic.

Mrs. G. Pidgeon was then called upon and gave a brief address. This was followed by the business period.

It was moved and seconded that the same officers hold office for another year namely:

Hon. Pres. — Mr. Robt. Eggleton.
Pres. — Mr. George A. Eggleton.
Sec. — Mrs. Clarence Fitchett.
Pro. Com. — Mrs. A. Wannamaker.
Mrs. E. Wilson, Mr. S. Twiddy and Mr. A. W. Andrews.

Moved by Robt. Eggleton, seconded by Sam Twiddy that the picnic next year be held at Sables Beach, Oak Lake, on the last Wednesday in August.

With Mr. A. W. Andrews as director, the following sports followed:

Children up to six years — Candy Scramble

Girls' Race (6 to 10 years) — Marie Gay, cup and saucer; Marjorie Gay, comb; Rosella Fitchett, handkerchief.

Boys' Race (6 to 10 years) — Gerald Eggleton, mouthorgan.

Slice the roast meat and drop the slices into the hot gravy. Let simmer a moment or two and serve on platter covered with gravy. The other day because a neighbor asked me if I could use some sour milk that she happened to have on hand. I seldom have sour milk, as we use every drop up before it has a chance to sour, but I joyfully accepted the milk, made pancakes for breakfast and used the rest in the ginger cake. Of course I shared the cake with the neighbor — fair exchange, eh? The parsley may be omitted from the potatoes.

To-day's Recipes

Lyonnaise Potatoes.—Four teaspoons butter or bacon fat, two onions, sliced; three cups cooked potatoes, salt, pepper, two tablespoons finely chopped parsley. Heat the fat in a frying pan and cook the onions in it a few minutes. Add the potatoes and cook slowly, stirring occasionally until all sides of the potatoes are golden brown. Season with salt and pepper. Press flat with knife and shake over low fire until brown on bottom. Turn like an omelet. Serve on a hot platter with finely chopped parsley springy over the top.

FACTS AND FANCIES

Cream butter and sugar thoroughly. Add eggs and apples and beat lightly. Bake in muffin pans. These taste like steamed pudding if served with lemon sauce, to make which combine one heaping teaspoon cornstarch with half a cup cold water; stir into a cup and a half hot water to which one cup sugar has been added, and cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Remove from fire and add one teaspoon lemon extract and a heaping tablespoon butter. Serve hot.

REUNION OF SECOND BN. C.E.F.

The 2nd Canadian Infantry Battalion, popularly known as the "Iron Second", which earned an enviable reputation in France and Flanders during the years of the Great War, is holding a reunion in Kingston, Ontario, July 31 and August 1, 1937.

Most of the 5,211 officers and men who passed through the ranks of the Second Battalion came from Ontario, principally in that section from Toronto eastward. Of the 5,211 officers and men 1,353 were killed or died of wounds and 2,618 were wounded. On the Menin Gate at Ypres are the names of 600 officers and men of this distinguished unit, who were killed in the Ypres salient and have no known grave.

There is a particular interest in the reunion being held at Kingston, for there the 2nd Battalion was demobilized on Wednesday, April 23rd, 1919, the fourth anniversary of the Battalion's baptism of fire in the Second Battle of Ypres. Kingston is also the home city of the late Captain George Richardson, of the 2nd, a noble and gallant gentleman who was killed on the Somme in 1917. The George Richardson Stadium at Queen's University was built with money left by the late Capt. Richardson and there his old surviving comrades, who attend the reunion, will meet for a memorial service on Sunday morning, August 1.

The arrangements for this event in the historic old military centre are being directed by the Kingston Branch of the 2nd Battalion Association, of which Major James Leckey is President and H. W. Hartshorn is Secretary.

The largest training schooner in the Empire's navy is shown in the upper left after it had been christened the Venture, by Mrs. Norman Rogers, wife of the Federal Minister of Labor, at a little shipyard on Nova Scotia's "Acadian Shore." Three thousand farmer-fishermen of the shore watched Mrs. Rogers (upper right) as she broke a cloth-covered bottle over the hull of the schooner. "TRY COURTESY" WILL SAVE
MANY CHILDREN FROM BEING CRIPPLED FOR A LIFE-TIME

Carelessness or lack of courtesy on the part of motorists is just as dread a disease for children as tuberculosis, rickets or infantile paralysis thinks Reg. W. Hopper, executive secretary of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children.

In a recent interview Mr. Hopper stated that a great many children would continue to walk through life on their own feet instead of crutches if motorists would show more courtesy when driving on streets or highways where children were encountered.

He felt the Ontario department of highways deserved much credit for its "Try Courtesy" promotion work to check highway traffic accidents, and pointed to the campaign being conducted by the Minister of Highways, Hon. T. B. McQueen as a powerful weapon in saving the lives and limbs of many children.

"But being courteous to a child or any other pedestrian," insisted Mr. Hopper, "doesn't mean simply refraining from swearing at him because he gets in the path of your car. Along with politeness, courtesy includes carefulness, thoughtfulness, and consideration for the rights and comforts of other people."

Accidents in which children are involved are by no means always the fault of drivers, he stressed, because "children have an astonishing faculty for getting into accidents." In Ontario, during 1935, 1,500 children were injured in automobile accidents. Sixty-six children under fourteen years of age were killed by collision with motor cars. Twenty-six of these were tiny toddlers of four years.

The danger periods, said Mr. Hopper, are up to 14 years of age. More boys and girls under 14 years are killed or injured in Ontario each year by cars than are persons in any other age group.

"They know no danger, these youngsters who are so eager for fun. Most children exhibit no fear whatever for cars. They have no realization of the danger they are in where automobile traffic is involved. When playing on the streets, they are rarely conscious of the frequency with which they barely miss death or serious injury."

"It's all very well for some of us to say these children should be more careful, but that doesn't relieve the adult motorist from the major part of the responsibility for the child's safety.

"Today many pale-faced children lie in hospital cots; many of them are in plaster casts and many will be permanently crippled due to negligence on somebody's part. Accidents in most cases are avoidable but the responsibility must lie with adults. The universal application of 'Try Courtesy' by all motorists, all the time, can do as much to save children's lives and health as science and the medical profession is doing in the realm of children's diseases."

THE PENTHOUSE MURDER

By CALEB JOHNSON

Third Instalment

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

Stephen Fitzgerald's dark, saturnine face was drawn and distorted as none of those present who knew him had ever seen it in life. He was dressed in conventional evening clothes. The shirt bosom had been unstuffed at the studs, where the Medical Examiner had opened it to examine the body more closely, but a round hole in its smooth whiteness, charred and blackened at the edges, told to the experienced eye of Dan Flaherty the story of a bullet fired at close range — so close that the weapon might have been pressed against the victim's body when the trigger was pulled.

"Where's Doane?" Inspector Flaherty asked.

"In the front room," replied Detective Martinelli. "He's pretty sick. He ought to be. It doesn't look so good for him."

"Did he have the gun on him?"

"No, and I've not found it," replied Martinelli.

"How long since they were shot?" asked the Inspector as the Medical Examiner joined them.

"Not long. Not over an hour, anyway. The man's body was still warm when I got here. The girl is still alive, but unconscious. Doesn't react to pin pricks or to any of the ordinary restoratives that I had with me. She's lost blood until she's drained white. The ambulance from Roosevelt will be here any minute, and they are making arrangements at the hospital for blood transfusion."

"Nothing to be done for the man. He's dead. Bullet through his heart. That's as far as I've got."

"Stay around awhile, will you?" the Inspector requested. "I've reasons for going pretty deeply into this case, and I may want to ask you some questions. Meantime, let's talk to Doane, if he's in shape to talk."

"I've got this, you know," said Max Michaelis, drawing the bottle of Henderson's Scotch from his overcoat pocket.

"Just what he needs," said the Medical Examiner. "He's close to collapse."

"Where are Fitzgerald's overcoat and hat?" asked Max Michaelis, as he turned to follow Inspector Flaherty into the studio.

"Over there," replied Martinelli, indicating a chair in the corner of the bedroom upon which a fur-lined overcoat and a silk opera hat had apparently been carelessly tossed. "Doane had his on when I got here. I hung them up in the closet in the hall."

Archie Doane greeted his friends with a despondent gesture, his face haggard and pale. But he managed a rather pitiful attempt at gaiety as the others came in.

"Hello, Dan," he said. "I suppose I should say 'Good evening, Inspector Flaherty.' I never expected to meet you professionally. Same to you, Frazier."

"Max, I'm glad you could come. I haven't anything to say to you that I won't say to Dan and Martin or in their presence. I don't care much, anyway, what happens now."

"Cheer up, Archie," said Max Michaelis. "I've brought something along that may do you good. Take this."

He poured a generous slug of Scotch into a glass which Detective Martinelli had borrowed from the kitchenette and Doane swallowed it eagerly. The color began to come back to his face, but his eyes were still listless and his manner dejected as he set down the glass just as the loud clanging of a gong in the street below signalized the approach of the ambulance.

"That will be the boys from Roosevelt," said the Medical Examiner. "I'll give them a hand, Inspector. Do you want to make any further inspection before they move her?"

"No, the photographs will show all that's necessary," replied Flaherty.

"but send word to the hospital to let me know the minute she recovers consciousness."

"Consciousness? Hospital?" echoed Archie Doane, half rising from his chair. "She's not dead? Lydia's alive?"

"Didn't they tell you?" responded Max Michaelis. "There's still danger, but she's alive."

Doane's whole demeanor changed. "Thank God!" he cried. "I've got something to live for now. Max, a minute ago I didn't care what happened to me. Now I'm putting it up to you to get me clear. I realize Dan's position. He can't turn me loose unless he can prove positively that somebody else did it, and there isn't any way under Heaven, that I can see, of proving that."

"But before I tell you what happened, will one of you see to it that the best doctors in New York are called in for Lydia without delay? I don't care what it costs. I'll pay it."

"I'll get Alexis Carrel himself," said Frazier. "He's the great authority on blood transfusion. I know him, and he'll do what I ask. I'll telephone him now."

As the Assistant District Attorney went to the phone, Dan Flaherty turned to Doane.

"Archie, as your friend I don't think you did this. But as an official I've got to believe you did, unless someone can show me you didn't. It looks bad for you — officially — and I've got to warn you that anything you may say will be used against you. By rights I ought to take you down to Center Street and have a stenographer take down whatever you say, but I'll waive that point. I'm as anxious as Max is to hear your story."

"The Bertillon man is a stenographer," suggested Detective Martinelli. "That's right; I'd forgotten that, Tony. Send him in," said the Inspector.

"Let me have another drink, Max, before I start," Doane requested. "It isn't a long story, anyway."

He downed the drink and addressed the stenographer, impersonally.

"I'd better begin at the beginning and account for my movements before I came here tonight," he said. "It will not take long."

"I know, and so do you gentlemen, that Miss Lane was at Elmer Henderson's laboratory this afternoon — Saturday afternoon, rather, as it is now Sunday morning. Very well."

"I arose at noon as usual, and after breakfasting in my rooms, I went to Tiffany's to purchase an engagement ring which I hoped to give to Miss Lane this evening."

"I spent the entire afternoon, from about two o'clock, at the Lamb's Club, where I am a member. I had a tentative appointment to play cards at Henderson's place in the evening, as Miss Lane had half expected an aunt who lives in New Jersey to call for her and take her to the country over Sunday. She was to have let me know definitely whether she was going to Jersey or not. I was surprised that I had no word from her. I telephoned to Miss Lane's apartment about seven o'clock, but the telephone did not answer, so I assumed that her aunt had called for her as scheduled. If not, I had intended to cancel my card party engagement. A little before eight o'clock I went to the Highart Building and joined a card party, consisting of Inspector Flaherty, Mr. Frazier of the District Attorney's office, Mr. Henderson and myself, to which Mr. Michaelis and a gentleman named Williams were later added.

"I was with friends every minute of the day up to the time I left the Highart Building. I even went from the Lamb's Club to the corner of 56th Street and Fifth Avenue with a friend, who had a taxi and was going uptown."

"When I left the card party, about half past ten, I went directly to my own rooms in West 45th Street. I thought I might find some message there from Miss Lane. I will not try to conceal from you the fact that I was greatly disturbed at not having heard from her, a disturbance which was intensified by the fact that Stephen Fitzgerald, who was madly in love with her, had cancelled his appointment to play cards with our party tonight after some woman had called him by telephone. Knowing Fitz's fondness for poker, I could think of only one woman to lure him from a game in congenial company. While Fitz and I had never quarrelled over Miss Lane, nor ever mentioned her to each other except as our professional work might bring her name into the conversation, it was no secret from either of us that we were rivals."

"There were others who aspired in the same direction, but Fitz was the only one I feared. Even after Lydia — Miss Lane — had promised to marry me, which she did on Friday evening, I felt none too secure against the almost irresistible fascination which Stephen Fitzgerald exerts over women. I wanted to announce our engagement at once, but Miss Lane begged me to wait until she had seen her aunt, her only living relative."

"I was disturbed, therefore, first at having no word from my fiancée, and, second, by Fitzgerald's mysterious absence from our party. I did not know the aunt's name or address, so I could not telephone her. I hesitated about telephoning Miss Lane's apartment again. I had called the number twice, at seven o'clock from the club and later while I was with you gentlemen at Mr. Henderson's, receiving the 'don't answer' signal each time. Miss Lane's custom, as I knew, is to let her maid have Saturday nights out.

"I had about argued myself into believing that Miss Lane had tried to telephone me at the Lamb's and that the operator there had failed to locate me or to take the message. I was about to call the club when the telephone rang. Someone with a decided German accent wanted to talk with Mrs. Something-or-other — some impossible foreign name."

"I hung up the receiver and waited for a moment, intending to call the club as soon as my wire was clear, when it rang again."

"I answered, and a woman's voice cried 'Come quickly! Hurry! Something terrible has happened!'"

"Then there was a piercing scream, then silence."

"I did not need to ask who was speaking. The voice was unmistakably that of Lydia Lane."

"I cried: 'Where are you? What has happened?' and called her name several times, but nothing more came over the wire. I dialled her apartment number and got no response. I dialled the operator and asked for the number, but the girl reported that the telephone was out of order."

"Frenzied, I slipped on my overcoat, and rushed to the street. I was lucky to catch a taxi almost at once, and came up here as fast as the driver could push his cart over the snow."

"I pressed the button at the mailbox in the front vestibule downstairs, but heard no answering click of the electric door latch; then I tried the door and found that it was unlatched. I met nobody as I came into the building. I came up in the elevator and pushed the bell button of Miss Lane's apartment — this apartment. There was no response. I then knocked loudly on the door, repeating this several times. Still there was no response. I turned the knob and tried to open the door, but it was locked from within."

"I was about to go down and find the janitor to see if he had a pass key which would open the door when I remembered the other way to the roof. That door is never locked, the one leading out on the roof from the elevator landing. I believe the fire laws require that it be fastened only with a hook or bolt on the inside."

Premier Mackenzie King will broadcast a message to the Canadian people on July 19 from 10 to 10:30 p.m. (E.D.T.), it was announced by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation. Originally it was arranged for Mr. King to go on the air on July 16th, but it has been postponed for three days.

LONGWELL — MCINROY

West Huntingdon United Church, beautifully decorated with a profusion of summer garden flowers, was the scene of a pretty wedding at eleven o'clock on Saturday morning, when Evelyn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter McInroy was united in marriage to Donald MacLaren Longwell, eldest son of Mrs. Longwell, and the late Mr. Donald Longwell. Rev. W. Tristram officiated and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Graham MacNay, A.T. C.M. of Ottawa, sister of the groom. Mr. Morley Anderson sang "I Love You Truly," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a lovely gown of white chiffon, in long princess style with cascade of ruffles from the waist to form a slight train effect at the back. A ruffled cape formed the bodice and she wore a tulle veil with a halo of orange blossoms and carried white roses and lily of the valley.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Marjorie McInroy as maid of honour, and Miss Jean Longwell, sister of the groom as bridesmaid. The maid of honour was gowned in blue chiffon with bolero of ribbon trimmed net. She wore a shoulder length veil of pink tulle and carried an arm bouquet of Talisman roses. The bridesmaid was similarly gowned in pale green with maize veil of tulle and carried a bouquet of Talisman roses.

Wee Shirley and Jean Finkle, nieces of the groom, made charming flower girls in smocked maize taffeta frocks and carried a Colonial bouquet of mixed sweet peas and roses.

Mr. Grant Longwell was his brother's best man and the ushers were Mr. Goldie McInroy and Mr. Donald Longwell.

Following the ceremony a reception for the immediate relatives and friends was held at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. McInroy, mother of the bride, received the guests, wearing a gown of navy figured chiffon with corsage of roses. Mrs. Longwell, mother of the groom, assisted and wore navy triple sheer with corsage of roses.

Later, Mr. and Mrs. Longwell left on a motor trip to Muskoka and Northern Ontario. For travelling, the bride wore an ensemble of navy blue taffeta with white accessories. On their return, Mr. and Mrs. Longwell will reside in Port Colborne.

Out-of-town guests were — Miss Milda Mumby, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. Meno Reeb and Beverley, Port Colborne; Messrs Douglas and Alex Longwell, Beamsville; Mr. and Mrs. Zenas Palmer, Thorold; Mr. John Holsey, Mrs. Margaret MacTaggart, Mr. and Mrs. Morley Anderson, all of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Graham MacNay, of Ottawa; Mr. Grant Kimmitt, Oshawa, and Miss Muriel Milligan, Newburgh.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Continued hot weather took its toll on the Belleville market on Saturday morning as one of the smallest markets of the current season was in evidence, undoubtedly due to the continued humidity. The influx of new potatoes and a bountiful supply of raspberries featured, however, with new potatoes selling from 35c to 40c the peck while raspberries featured at two boxes for 35c. The quality of both commodities was exceedingly fine, the result of splendid growth. The green vegetable market and fruit market on the outside presented a variety of colour and attractiveness to the market. All lines of green vegetables proved tempting to the busy housewife and purchaser. Besides the new potatoes, green peas sold at 25c a quart, new carrots, new beets, cabbage, lettuce, and radishes all sold at 5c the bunch and their freshness lured the potential buyer. String beans sold at the rate of two boxes for 15c with green beans bringing the same price. Spinach and beet green were also featured by a few farmers, who found a ready market for their commodity. Other seasonable vegetables were stable in price, however.

Home grown cherries made their initial appearance on the market, their rich luscious colour proving attractive to the extent of rapid sales being registered when this fruit sold at 50c the medium sized basket. Raspberries sold at the rate of 20c the berry box, or two boxes for 35c, while strawberries brought 25c a box, the strawberry market being on the wane, however. Currants found a slow market, being offered at 10c a box, while gooseberries sold at the same price. One vendor operated, selling imported fruits including tempting-looking large watermelons.

Prices remained unchanged in the inside market with a good display of farm produce and general home cooking predominating. Butter sold at 55c the double roll, while eggs were steady at 23c a dozen for grade A, and 20c for mediums. The town market saw a display of especially young broilers that were offered anywhere from 40c to 80c the pair according to the size. Year-old chickens brought $1.00 each, but for the greater part sold at the rate of 50c to 75c. A few vendors ventured to sell out flowers and floral displays, but the heat soon saw them wilt. Sellers of home cooking saw an increased amount of business as the housewife elected to purchase her needs instead of standing over a hot stove for the week-end.

ROOSTER THAT LAYS REALLY HEN AT HEART

Beamsville's Egg-laying rooster is most "unusual" but specimens similar in some respects are known to the poultry world. Prof. W. R. Graham, head of the Poultry Department of the Ontario Agricultural College said last week. "The bird is a female basically," said Professor Graham, "but its reproductive organs have been disturbed and it takes on male plumage. Birds such as this are common enough, but it is unusual to have one lay eggs after undergoing this process. I have never seen one that one could be absolutely sure retained the reproductive faculties after taking on male characteristics."

THE HORSE IS COMING BACK

It will be cheering news to lovers of horses that man's best friend is coming back, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. In the ten years from 1925 to 1935 the horse population fell nearly half a million and in the United States about eleven million. It is now discovered that there is a shortage, especially of draught horses. Great Britain has a shortage and has become an importer. Strange to say, nearly 300 Canadian Clydesdales went back to the land of their forefathers last year and brought high prices on Scottish markets, ranging up to $440 each.

The motor car seems to have displaced the carriage horse almost entirely. Sleighs are seldom seen in the cities in winter. No more will there be a story of the governor-general's lady being thrown out of her sleigh on the way from the railway station to Rideau Hall as once happened to Princess Louise.

It is on the farm mainly that the horse is coming back. The stylish Clydesdale is still the favourite work horse in Canada, although the more docile Percherons and Belgians are increasingly popular. The Percheron is the chief challenger of the supremacy of the Clyde, but the Belgian, the quietest tempered of the three breeds, is becoming a substantial factor.

One interesting comparative statement is made that it requires more than two bushels of oats to purchase enough fuel to operate a three-plough tractor for one hour.

Last year 410 horses were imported for the improvement of stock and half of them came from Belgium. There were 16,000 horses exported to the United States compared with 5,044 in 1935.

UNSUCCESSFUL ATTEMPT TO BURGLARIZE POST OFFICE

While attempting to notify police, a burglar escaped from post office and general store, Kalamazoo, as the proprietor, Glen Brydson, former Chicago Black Hawk hockey star, was trying to hold the would-be thief at bay and also notify the authorities, over the week-end. Mr. Brydson returned from his hotel late Saturday night to find a man had gained entrance to the village post office, which he operates. Mr. Brydson caught the man inside of the building, but as he telephoned for police assistance, not knowing whether the robber was alone or armed, he made his escape. Upon the arrival of the police, chase was given westerly out of Kalamazoo, an automobile having been heard roaring away after the man escaped. Two miles west of the village an automobile was found abandoned after it had crashed into a culvert guard rail. Provincial check-ups revealed this vehicle had been stolen and was undoubtedly used by the robber in his unsuccessful attempt to burglarize the Kalamazoo Post Office. Provincial Police are still investigating and have issued a warrant in connection with the matter, they revealed.

MADOC MAN IN TROUBLE

ADDITIONS BEING MADE TO THE TWEED MILL

The Tweed Milling Company is making extensive alterations to the Tweed plant to take care of the increasing business. Several new machines will be installed while a storehouse will also be erected. At present, the mill is being operated by diesel power owing to the fact that the stoplogs were removed from the Moira River dam at the plant, permitting workmen to lay the foundation for the piers of Tweed's new bridge. — Tweed News.

WARKWORTH WOMAN CHARGES TORONTO BROKER

Evidence was taken on Monday at Cobourg in connection with eight charges against Frederick Vannest, Toronto stock salesman. Arthur E. Roebuck, K.C., was defence counsel and W. Mahon and A. Verity represented the Ontario Securities Commission. Complainant is Martha Jackson, of Warkworth. Six of the charges involve alleged conversion of stocks and bonds belonging to Mrs. Jackson. He was charged also with obtaining stock from her by false pretences and with trading in securities without a license.

NORWOOD MAN HAS THRILLING EXPERIENCE IN STORM

Two minutes after William Carbrey of Norwood had risen from a couch in the dining room of his home on Sunday afternoon, a bolt of lightning entered the window, hurled the couch across the room in flames and embedded seven upholstery tacks out of the couch in the plaster ceiling of the room. The bolt apparently came into the house on an aerial wire, smashed the glass out of four windows, set fire to the curtains alongside the couch, then followed the radio wire along the baseboard, split a door from top to bottom and tossed the tongue from a door lock across the room. Every piece of kitchenware was neatly removed from the pantry shelves and a frying pan hanging on the kitchen wall was sent flying across the room. A kitchen clock stopped. Mrs. H. Buck, who was in the living room, was hurled to the floor and blinded. She groped her way to the verandah before she was able to regain her vision. Mr. Carbrey, standing less than ten feet away from it, stood terrified as the blazing couch hurled across the floor. His wife in the living room escaped injury and extinguished the fire.

HAVELOCK BOARD UNSEATS TRUSTEE

At the July meeting of the Havelock Public School Board, the seat of Trustee F. J. Squire was declared vacant due to inattendance for three consecutive meetings. Wm. Copp, once member of the Board, was appointed in his place.

WEST HUNTINGDON BARN IS BURNED

A barn owned by Harry Thompson, West Huntingdon, was destroyed by fire after being struck by lightning. Sunday afternoon, in one of the worst electrical storms that has visited that district in some years. The storm was accompanied by torrential rain and crops were damaged when they were flattened by the heavy rain. Trees were uprooted in the orchard of William Hammond, one being carried a distance of 200 feet. So heavy was the rain, that little gullies were made in the fields — but the farmers generally are not complaining for the rain was much needed.

The Thompson barn was struck about three fifteen and was soon enveloped in flames. The hay crop had been placed in the barn and was destroyed along with a number of hens. Other livestock were out in the pasture when the storm broke. The loss is partially covered by insurance. A lawn fence at the home of Arthur Wilson was struck and grass burned.

MINISTER INDUCTED IN NEW CHARGE

A very impressive and interesting service was conducted in the United Church on Thursday evening when Rev. W. R. Tristram was inducted to the pastoral charge of West Huntingdon United Church. Rev. J. F. Everston of Plainfield was chairman for the service. Rev. Lackey, of Ivanhoe, gave the address to the congregation, taking as his text, "We are builders together." Rev. Scott, of Stirling, gave the address to the minister. Outlining the several qualifications necessary for every minister, Rev. Everston conducted the induction service and Rev. Tristram was given a welcome by the members of the Presbytery present. Rev. W. R. Tristram comes to this circuit highly recommended. He spent some years as pastor of the Broadway Tabernacle, Toronto, and for the past eight years has been ministering to congregations in Saskatchewan. Previous to taking up his work in the ministry he spent a few years in Africa. He also served in the Great War in the Imperial Army. His family consists of three boys and one girl. The past four years have been spent at Craig, Sask., in the dried-out area. The family motored here, a distance of 2,000 miles. Mr.

Tristram is greatly pleased with the beautiful country here stating that one cannot imagine the desolation prevailing in the West. Both Mr. and Mrs. Tristram are looking forward to many years of service in this field.

LIGHTNING STRIKES COTTAGES AT OAK LAKE

His ears still ringing from the effect of a vacuum which seemed to linger during the remainder of the afternoon, and mind still slightly blurred from the crackling rapidly with which it happened, James C. Cordes, 11 Yeomans St., Belleville, told on Monday of how miraculously he and four others of his family escaped destruction from a hurtling bolt of lightning which entered his summer cottage at Oak Lake on Sunday afternoon during the height of the storm, bounced through one room of the building, and finally disappeared wrecking the sill of the door through which it is entered.

"We were unaware that it had struck so close," declared Mr. Cordes, "until we saw a blinding flash of light strike a tree immediately outside the cottage. Almost simultaneously we had a vision of the bolt leaping from the tree to the corner of the cottage. It seemed to play around the woodwork for the briefest of intervals, then jumped to a metal window screen. From here it again followed the wet door to the iron door lock, and seemed to enter the cottage from there.

"We sat rigid, unable to move, so sudden had been the occurrence. All we could notice was a deafening crackle; the odor of sulphur or ozone. There was a dazzling light.

"It went as swiftly as it came, with a heavy crackling sound we later discovered to have been caused by the splitting of the door casing. Only after it was all over did we suddenly realize just how miraculous we were in escaping.

"Our ears were deafened for hours afterward, and the strong smell of sulphur which permeated the cottage seemed to linger all afternoon. Most of us aren't over that experience yet," declared Mr. Cordes.

In another cottage not far away from this one, a lightning bolt entered and passed through a table, through which it tore a hole. A boy standing near the table escaped shock. — Belleville Intelligencer.

GIVEN SHOWER

Over three hundred people attended the shower given to Miss Evelyn Melroy, of West Huntingdon, on Monday evening. Friends were present from Minto, Springbrook, Ridge Road and Foxboro. The program was held on the lawn and was very interesting. Mr. Chester Sills was chairman in his usual capable manner. Mr. Morley Anderson, of Belleville, conducted some community singing. A mock wedding was also staged with Miss Annie Cook as bride, Mr. Philip Carr, groom, Miss Leah Carr, bridesmaid, and Mr. Charles Wright the bride away and Mr. Arthur Wilson was the officiating clergyman. Mrs. W. J. Fitchett played the wedding march. This part of the programme was very humorous. Mr. Clayton Tummon gave a couple of appropriate solos. Mr. Don Campbell, of Anson, gave some harmonica selections. Messrs Carman Daboe of Carmel and Gordon Demille of Marsh Hill gave some fine guitar duets which were greatly appreciated. Miss Hilda Haggerty read the following address: Miss Evelyn Melroy

Dear Evelyn,— It affords us great pleasure, as your friends and neighbours, to gather here in honour of the happiest and most important occasion of your life — your marriage. Time surely does fly, for it does not seem so very long ago that we noticed you starting your educational career as a little tot of six years. Since that time you have made steady progress up through all the grades at school and then in turn applying that knowledge to others. In all our various organizations in church and community life you have taken your place, and your efforts have been greatly appreciated, and now that you are about to take this plunge our best wishes go with you. It is one of the noblest ambitions in life starting a new home and we hope yours will make friends wherever you dwell and we pray that God's richest blessings will follow you. And now we ask you to accept these varied gifts as a token of our esteem.

Signed on behalf of your friends — Mrs. W. J. Fitchett, Georgia Pitman, Leah Carr, Annie Cook, Hilda Haggerty.

Evelyn made a suitable reply and the remainder of the evening was spent in a social time.

Pinned under a brick wall which collapsed suddenly as it was being inspected, Albert Jackson, 19, well-known Belleville and Napanee hockey player, was injured fatally late Tuesday afternoon. A companion, Don Gault, also was pinned under the wall but will recover. The two were engaged in razing the old glass works factory at Deseronto. During the day they had shot off several charges of dynamite. Following the last blast of the day, they went forward to inspect their work. The wall collapsed without warning. Jackson was taken to Kingston Hospital, where he died late Tuesday night.

"Nick" Lake, on whose farm Stirling was built, and the stone grist mill which was built and operated by Mr. Wm. Baker, who later moved to Chicago. Belleville was the wheat market for the district at that time, which one reached by traversing corduroy roads. The Grand Trunk Railway was only completed that far at that time and the first railway engines were called "Iron horses."

Tallow candles, made in candle moulds from beef drippings, had now superseded "the dip", which consisted of a piece of cotton anchored by a button in a saucer of pork fat for lighting the homes. The first tin oil lamp purchased by Mr. Clancy's father was a source of wonder in the community.

ANDREW N. CLANCY

Mr. Clancy saw the consummation of Confederation and was in Saginaw, Mich., when President Lincoln was assassinated. Later he resided at Rockwood, Ontario, where he was engaged in cheesemaking.

When their son located in Medford, Oregon, Mr. and Mrs. Clancy established their home there too. Mr. Clancy becoming actively engaged in fruit ranching, specializing in pears, for which Oregon is noted and in which vocation he remained until quite recently. His wife died in Medford, Oregon, in July, 1923, but Mr. Clancy still retains their home there.

Among the privileged guests at Mr. Clancy's birthday dinner were Mr. and Mrs. R. I. Clancy, Toronto, and Mrs. Harold C. Martin, of Stirling — a nephew and niece of the former. Later Mr. Clancy was visited by another nephew, Mr. Calvin Totten of Stirling, Alberta.

Mr. Andrew Clancy and Mrs. Rosella Frederick, of Peterborough, are the last of a large family.

The many friends of Mr. Clancy in this vicinity join in wishing him many more years of continued good health and happiness.

FAIR BOARD MET TUESDAY

Increased Number of Special Prizes Are Already Received

With the Annual Fall Fair some two months away indications are that the list of special prizes offered will be two or three times larger than last year. So Secretary F. R. Mallory informed the directors at a meeting held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday evening. This is highly encouraging to the members and speaks highly of the efforts of the Special Prize Committee.

President J. B. Thompson occupied the chair and was supported by Messrs F. R. Mallory, E. J. Pyear, Wm. Fitchett, Jos. Wilson, Gilbert Thompson, Wm. Patterson, H. R. Tompkins, Ben Blecker, C. McGee and C. U. Heath.

A communication was received from Miss Dorothy Winderover, of Norwood, relative to the classes on the trials of speed programme for this year's fair, and was referred to the racing committee. E. J. Pyear stated that the question of having a uniform race programme at the fairs in the district had been discussed at the District Fairs meeting last year, and he thought there should be a definite understanding about the matter. While it was impossible to satisfy all the race horse owners, an effort should be made to provide classes suitable for the greatest number.

It was decided to again sponsor a Junior Farmers' project, and the Junior Farmers' Ayrshire Calf Club Special. This year the Fair Board will contribute towards prize money for a Boys' Foal Club, one dollar per entry being the local Society's share. The balance of the prize money will be donated by the Provincial and Federal Departments of Agriculture. Jos. Wilson, Agricultural Representative, reported a number of entries received, but it was hoped there would be several more.

The Ayrshire Calf Club Special is open to Junior Farmers who are members of the Stirling Agricultural Society. Eighteen dollars is offered for prizes; $10, donated by the Central Ontario Ayrshire Association; $2.50 by F. M. Rutherford, of Bonarlaw, and the remainder by the Society.

The following committees were appointed to canvas the various township and village councils for donations:

Rawdon and Huntingdon — J. B. Thompson and Wm. Patterson.

Sidney and Thurlow — F. R. Mallory and E. J. Pyear.

Stirling — H. P. Ellis and Wm. Patterson.

All committees were granted power. (Continued on Page Eight)

"In the 'Dressing up Home Grown Vegetables' project each club member is required to exhibit an essay of not more than 1000 words on 'Vegetables for the Family,' and a record book. Four family menus and four school lunches will also have to be judged and four incomplete daily menus will be given each member to complete.

Each Club will exhibit a vegetable plate; quality counts; vegetables for all the family, while a demonstration will be made on one of the following: Vegetable plate; The Homely Potato in fancy dress; Vegetables give a party; The Vegetables go to school; Dressing up the Salad.

In the Clothes Closets project, each member will exhibit a garment bag and a record book, and judge four garment bags or four of one of the following: hat cover, shoe packs, stocking box, laundry bag.

DEFEATED AT DELORO

Friday evening a team representing Stirling was defeated by the Deloro Baseball team on their home grounds by a score of 9 to 5. Some sixty friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Emery gathered at their home, John St., last (Wednesday) night, to bid them farewell prior to their departure for England at the end of this month.

Mr. and Mrs. Emery were presented with a purse of money, while their four daughters, Margaret, Florence, Theresa and Bernice were each given a bracelet, suitably engraved, and Kenneth an Eversharp pencil. Mr. Emery made a suitable reply on behalf of Mrs. Emery and their family. The following address was read by Mrs. Grace Donohoe and the presentations were made by Messrs H. Wickett and R. Wright:

Stirling, Ontario, July 21, 1937.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Emery and Children,—

It is with regret that we, your friends and neighbours, learn of your intended departure from our midst; but what is our loss is another's gain. Both of you have always been willing to lend a helping hand when needed in your Church and in your neighborhood, and we could not let you leave without showing in some tangible way our appreciation of your friendship.

We ask the girls to accept these Eversharp pencils and Kenneth this 'Eversharp' pencil, as a slight token of our love for your children, and Mr. and Mrs. Emery we ask you to accept this purse of money, not for its intrinsic value, but as a token of our high esteem for you both.

We all join in wish you 'Bon Voyage' and may God be with you until we meet again.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours — Harry Wickett and Roscoe Wright.

Refreshments were served and a social time spent.

FULFILLS ENGAGEMENT

Stirling Citizens' Band fulfilled an engagement at Oak Lake on Sunday evening, when they provided music at the annual picnic of the Rural Mail Carriers' Association of South Hastings. The Band was under the baton of Bandmaster M. Bell and has been highly complimented for their fine work on this and other occasions. This very popular musical organization, which was organized only a few years ago, has been showing gradual improvement until today it ranks with the better bands of the district and is a credit to the village. The thanks of the citizens are due those public-spirited workers who have given of their time and talent in keeping this fine organization in existence.

HYDRO CUT TO AFFECT STIRLING

All Branches of System to Benefit by H.E.P.C. Rebate

Stirling will share to the extent of $1,416.00 per year in Eastern Ontario Hydro System rate reductions which will effect for Eastern Ontario consumers total saving on monthly bills of $253,096 per year.

The Ontario Hydro Commission, which has just authorized the rate reductions, estimates that the $253,096 yearly saving will be realized as follows:

On Domestic Lighting ..	$113,056.94
On Commercial Lighting ..	60,522.90
On Power	77,350.90
On Street Lighting	2,165.60

The estimate of saving to your municipality is apportioned as follows:

Domestic lighting	$746.00
Commercial lighting	397.00
Power	273.00

Consumers in 12 municipalities also are to receive refunds totalling $107,928; there will also be refunds to 31 municipalities themselves on municipally used power totalling $26,417; so the total estimated benefit to Eastern Ontario consumers for Hydro's action will be $387,442 per year.

Consumers will have the $107,928 refunded by reduction from their monthly bills, while the $253,096 will come off monthly bills in the form of rate reductions. The $26,417 to be refunded municipalities will benefit taxpayers in general.

The Ontario Hydro Commission's report for the year ending October 31, 1936, shows that the financial results of the operation of the Eastern Ontario System were very satisfactory to all municipalities supplied on this System. Total revenue received by the Commission from all municipalities, amounted to $2,021,138. The total cost of power for the year, as provided to be paid by them under the Power Commission Act, amounted to $1,853,930. The surplus of $167,158 arising from the operation of the Commission was returned to 49 municipalities and in no case was it necessary to collect additional costs from any municipality.

A general reduction of $3.00 per horsepower in the interim rate for power to all municipalities of this System, has been approved by the Commission. This general reduction is in addition to other reductions to be made in some municipalities on account of favourable conditions during 1936. Fifty municipalities served on this system will receive this reduction in the interim rate.

The Commission has also reviewed and analyzed the financial situation in connection with the distribution of power within these municipalities. From the results of this analysis, which was based upon the 1936 revenue and operating costs, the Commission recommended that the rates be charged to domestic, commercial and power consumers be reduced in a large number of cases.

PLAYING WITH TRENTON-BELLEVILLE TEAM

Earl Fox, veteran athlete of Stirling, has joined the ranks of the Belleville-Trenton Rovers Lacrosse team, who are in a league with Norwood, Peterboro, Oshawa and Cobourg.

On Friday evening last he played his first game with the Belleville-Trenton aggregation as a defenceman, but on Monday night he guarded the nets in a game with Cobourg, and according to press reports of the game, turned in a stellar performance. Earl learned his lacrosse in Campbellford where he starred for several years before coming to Stirling to reside. For a number of years he guarded the nets for the local hockey team and last winter again donned the pads when the locals needed his services.

SECOND PLAY-OFF GAME

The second game of the finals of the Rawdon Softball League will be played on Saturday evening on the Stirling High School diamond between Springbrook and Bethel. Springbrook were winners in the first game after a close struggle, but Bethel, who were minus a couple of their star players in the first game, will be at full strength for Saturday's game and are confident that they will tie the series up. Both teams are playing a sparkling brand of ball and the fans who are on hand to witness this game are bound to get their money's worth.

FORMER C.N.R. AGENT RETIRES

A. Lorne Coulter Stationed in Stirling 1905 — 1907

(Weston Times and Guide)

When a newspaper man comes to the end of his story, he writes the cipher "30" to indicate that. Our old friend Lorne Coulter can go one further and write "42", indicative that he has finished 42 years' service with the Canadian National Railways and its predecessor, the Grand Trunk System. But reader, don't be misled, for this is no ordinary by any means. Mr. Coulter is still going strong, and his retirement from business connections, is anything but an indication that the old horse is through. Now caretaker from his onerous daily duties as a servant of the Dominion's National Railroad system, he will find time, perhaps to throw his energies' once more to serving the town which has so long known him as an outstanding citizen. While he will conceal the year of his birth, simply because he refused to give it, we can still say that, despite the thinning out of his hair, he is good for many years yet, and good years at that.

Investigation reveals, however, that this young man was born in Palgrave, a hamlet in Peel, nine years before the late Queen Victoria celebrated her golden jubilee. It was there also that this "bad boy Peck" received his early education, and perhaps the least said of his pranksome youth is the better. Not that the writer has yet learned of any tricks of his, or that anyone has said he was a mischievous lad. We leave that to our readers. However, I do not venture to say that Lorne was never an angel. As it was in the beginning, is now, and appears destined to be, he will rate as a very human person, touched with the closest feelings of his fellow being's infirmities.

He was ironed out in Orangeville high school and from there secured a position with the G.T.R. as a humble lamp lighter. From that he rose, step by step, to be, at the time of his retirement, Chief Auditor of the Canadian National Railways, Steamship and Car Ferries Department.

Tabulated here is his record, and he will wonder where we secured it. Lamp lighter at Palgrave 1895, Assistant at Penstang 1899, transferred to Beeton 1900, operator at Aurora 1901, Relieving Agent 1902, Operator at (Continued on Page Eight)

TO INAUGURATE "HORROR" CAMPAIGN

In a further effort to eliminate motor accidents on the highways of Ontario, the Department of Highways will use "Crash" pictures to bring the menace of recklessness or carelessness before the driving public of Ontario. In spite of all that has been done through the press and otherwise to educate motorists as to the dangers of taking chances and driving recklessly, the number of accidents has increased and so the Department has decided on a "horror campaign" to impress upon the motoring public the toll of lives and injuries created through motor accidents. Along with this campaign a check is to be made on the slow drivers. It is the opinion of many that the slow driver, who allows a long string of cars to form behind him on the highway, is responsible for more accidents than the fast driver. It is when this takes place that cutting in and out occurs, often with disastrous results to the innocent. There is scarcely anything more aggravating than to get behind one of these slow drivers in heavy traffic and have to creep along until an opportunity occurs to pass. Forty to forty-five miles an hour is an average speed on the highways these days and drivers who are not prepared to maintain this speed have no place on a main highway when traffic is particularly heavy.

FAIR DIRECTORS ACTIVE

Although there is still some weeks until Stirling's Annual Fall Fair, which is sponsored by the local Agricultural Society, the personnel of the various committees have been displaying their accustomed activity in making the necessary arrangements for the event, and it is hoped to make this year's fair the best ever. According to reports there is an atmosphere of enthusiasm pervading the various agricultural fairs throughout the Dominion. This is attributed to the increasing part taken in the exhibitions by the young members of the boys' and girls' farm club. The elder generation has taught the younger generation well, and the younger generation with its enthusiasm to learn, is in turn interesting its elders in points that formerly did not seem to call for deep consideration.

Each year, for a number of years, the local Fair Board has co-operated with the Ontario Department of Agriculture in the different projects and in this way has done much to encourage the farmers' sons. Last year a Boys' Swine Club was sponsored with good success and arrangements have been made this year for a Boys' Foal Club. In this way Stirling Agricultural Society is doing its share in keeping the young boys and girls interested in agriculture on the home farm, and thereby adding considerable stimulus to the Fair. The primary need of any Fair is exhibitors and unless the support of the surrounding community is forthcoming, the public-spirited men who give freely of their time and energy to make it a success are doomed to failure. Efforts will be made in the near future to increase the membership, and it is hoped that the citizens of the surrounding community will rally to the cause and not only become a member, but an exhibitor.

ORIGIN AND DEVELOPMENT OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTES

The story of the origin and development of the Women's Institutes of Canada is told in the last issue of "Health", the magazine of the Health League of Canada.

This fine organization of rural women was initiated in a formal way by the establishment on February 19th, 1897, of the first Women's Institute of Ontario in Saltfleet township, Wentworth county. The primary object was to provide a means for farm and village women to meet regularly to discuss their problems and to acquire information concerning their responsibilities as homemakers and citizens. This pioneer branch is now known as the Stoney Creek Women's Institute.

By the year 1900, there were 33 Women's Institutes in Ontario with a membership of 1602 and at the end of 1935 the number had been increased to 1371 with a total membership of no less than 42,000.

Women's Institutes or similar organizations are now functioning in every province of Canada. The present-day objectives may be summarized:

1. To help women to acquire sound and improved practices for greater home efficiency.
2. To discover, stimulate and train leadership.

To promote these objectives, district conferences are held at which the program includes instruction in matters of clothing, buymanship, kitchen ensemble, lingerie, and care of clothing. In the short courses instruction is given in clothing, the use of commercial patterns, garment finishes, etc.

An important part of the training pertains to health. There is a five-day course in health education usually given by a graduate nurse on such matters as home care of the sick; how to care for common emergencies; importance of pre-natal care; preparation for childbirth; care of mother and baby; control of communicable diseases and personal hygiene.

The Women's Institutes do well to devote considerable attention to health education, for so much illness originates in the child. Because of this fact, disease-preventive measures should begin with the mother before the child is born. Pre-natal care would prevent many of the ills of childhood; it would go far in removing the odium of maternal mortality. Often it would save the baby from the consequence of rickets, of the accidents of birth, and from what is fortunately rare in rural areas, the results of venereal disease.

Heart disease, the greatest killer of the race, has, in the majority of cases, its seeds sown by the infections of childhood.

The infections may in large measure be prevented; tuberculosis too, may be prevented. If not prevented, these and many other afflictions, if discovered early, may have their malign influence curtailed. This is one of the directions in which the Women's Institutes might profitably show their influence.

CURRENT COMMENT

"There is one thing in favour of a nudist," the Oshawa Times remarks; "there isn't much chance to pin anything on him." But there's also the disadvantage that if one did, it would hurt.

One of the most essential factors in the life of any small town, and particularly those adjacent to large cities, is a hearty spirit of co-operation among the citizen, opines an exchange. Stirling citizens should keep this in mind when canvassed by representatives of large business concerns in an effort to draw trade away from the local merchants.

The work of putting a permanent surface on some seven miles of Highway No. 14, north of Stirling, is proceeding according to schedule, and it will not be long before North Street will be undergoing construction. Residents and business men on this street will be glad when the street is completed in order to get rid of the dust nuisance. Several applications of calcium chloride have been put on but the effect is only temporary.

That the Dionne Quintuplets have not lost their attraction for United States visitors is evident from figures given by Dr. Daffoe to the North Bay Nugget. According to the famous doctor 45,000 persons, using 11,000 cars, 54 busses and 120 trailers were checked in at the Dionne Nursery in the month of June, believed to be slightly in excess of figures for the corresponding month in 1936. These were largely from Ontario points, and it was expected that with the influx of cars from the United States, the traffic at Callander would grow to 7,000 or more daily.

A writer in a Toronto newspaper favours the extension of the school vacation to cover the period from June 15th to Sept. 15th, and to offset the longer summer playtime would eliminate the Easter vacation and several of the holidays during the year, the teaching days remaining practically as now. Students would probably give hearty endorsement to such a plan since it would permit their leaving school before the coming of the warmer weather, but business men who find the holiday season a slack time would not be so enthusiastic.

Leading Conservatives throughout the Dominion are greatly concerned these days as to whether Hon. R. B. Bennett will resign from the leadership of the Conservative party when he meets his followers the fore part of next month. On different occasions in the past it has been rumoured that Mr. Bennett was about to retire owing to ill health, but pressure was brought to bear upon him by his followers and he has carried on. His integrity and ability in parliament have never been questioned and there are thousands of Canadians, who irrespective of politics, will hope that he may continue in the service of his country.

Sufferers from poison ivy will be interested in a cure which is presented by Editor Moore of the Trenton Courier-Advocate, who claims to have had a lot of experience with it. "All we have to do," says Editor Moore, "is to get a few stalks of another poisonous weed, Touch-me-Not, and rub it into the blisters until they look as if they had been iodized. Relief in our case comes in a few hours, complete control of the poison within a day. Touch-me-not is a common weed which grows tall in damp places along creeks, rivers and lakes. It can be recognized by its yellow flower, its watery-looking stalks and later by the pods which burst when you touch them with your fingers."

Several weeks ago in these columns the News-Argus suggested that the local Band render a series of open air concerts for the benefit of the citizens during the remaining summer months. Bandmaster Bell has informed us that the Band is ready to give an open-air concert any time that a suitable location can be secured for the purpose. On a number of occasions in the past the Band has been seated in front of the theatre, but this has not been found satisfactory, and another site will have to be secured. A suggestion has been made that the Memorial Park be used for this purpose, and we can see no reason why it shouldn't be satisfactory, so long as only the members of the Band are allowed inside the park. If the crowd were allowed to assemble inside the park the chances are that the flower beds would be trampled and other damage done. This matter might well be decided by the Memorial Park Committee as soon as possible and the Band informed as to its decision, so that a series of concerts could be arranged while the weather is suitable.

What Others Say

KIND REMARKS

(Campbellford Herald)

A wife is usually a great help to her husband. She stands by him in all his troubles, most of which he wouldn't have experienced if he had not married her.

TOO GREAT A DIFFERENCE

(Pilot Gazette)

Judging by the big spread in salaries between High School teachers and Public School teachers in the Province, the work of the former is apparently considered tremendously more important of the two. Is such an idea justified? asks the St. Mary's Journal-Argus. We note that city schools are employing many university graduates and some day a degree in Arts may become a requirement for public school teachers.

ARE YOU A "MUG"?

(Bracebridge Gazette)

A motorist picked up a hitch-hiker the other day and the hitch-hiker told him he had bought a bunch of ties at Woolworth's and was going to sell them to Bracebridge Mugs. Are you a Mug? Do you buy from just such persons things you can buy just as well or better at your own store? To these peddlers you are just Mugs, rubes, easy marks. In fact, they go to you to sell you almost everything from a nail brush to an electric washer believing that you are a softy; by getting you alone in the house they think they are so much more clever than you that they can sell you, not only what you can buy at home on equally good or better terms, but that they can sell you what you have no intention of buying. To the peddler you are just another Mug.

LESSONS OF LIFE

(Carleton Place Canadian)

Every person should go to the cemetery at least twice in life. Once at the end of life, and first early in life to reflect on the brevity of life and the insufficiency of worldly goods. There is no place like a quiet churchyard or cemetery for meditation and there is room in every life for more serious thought.

The tombstones hold a moral for all living. There is inscribed the human virtues, but among the inscriptions there is no record of estates left behind, fortunes made and spent and worldly fame attained. The magnitude and sculpture of the stone or vault alone remain to remind the world of "the boast of heraldry and the pomp of power."

Why should human beings worry and struggle through life's fleet span in pursuit of wealth, fame, luxuries, vanities and all those other evanescent things we choose to call riches? The poor are distressed by too little money, the moderately wealthy by the thought that others possess more wealth than they, and the rich by too much money.

The Garden of Paradise was paradise only so long as Adam and Eve entertained no thought of worldly things. There were no pestering bank accounts, troublesome servants, expensive automobiles, or business worries and social and fashion distractions in Paradise.

Few people have learned the secret of living well. Most of us measure contentment in terms of dollars and social position. The number is negligible which views life as a golden opportunity to work and think and be joyful.

A NEW SAFETY REGULATION

(Port Hope News)

The new regulation which requires purchasers of small quantities of gasoline to keep it stored in safety cans will not meet with the approval of a great many people. There are countless thousands who use this liquid for cleaning purposes and purchase it in a quart or pint sealer or in a bottle and use it as occasion arises. There are others who buy the higher grades for use in their small gasoline stoves for picnics or while camping. The new regulation now demands that the gasoline be kept stored in safety cans which are authorized and stamped with the approval of the Provincial Fire Underwriters Association. The cost of these cans and the necessity of purchasing them will be the chief objection, of course. There is only one exception. And that is the transporting of gasoline to a motor car that has been stranded. While there may be objections raised by individuals and possibly by manufacturers of gasoline stoves, there are good and sufficient reasons why such a regulation should be strictly adhered to. We need only point to the numerous explosions that have taken place through the careless handling of gasoline, the more numerous fires which have been caused and spreading to the unsafe container has resulted in serious fire losses and even death to those involved.

Gasoline is a powerful and dangerous liquid to handle and too much care and caution cannot be exercised in its handling. The safety can is only a partial remedy and is intended to reduce the number of serious fires which occur every year.

WILL THE C.I.O. BE THE SOLE ONTARIO ELECTION ISSUE?

(Pembroke Standard-Observer)

The Globe and Mail, which now assumes the position of guardian angel of Ontario, is screeching about nothing else. It's about the only thing, according to the space devoted to it, in Ontario the electors need to be concerned about. In fact one might suppose that there will be an invading army ready to cross the Detroit River should Earl Rowe be Ontario's next Premier.

Is it all really this bad? Only once has the C.I.O. shown its claws, this time at Oshawa, where the strikers were as peaceful as at Renfrew last week, and this in spite of the fact that a small army had been got together to subdue them.

There are many other public enemies of law and order in the United States, pretty bad ones at that, so why settle entirely upon this issue if we must import one. There are the gangsters of the Dillinger type, there are the kidnapers, who by-the-way got John Labatt. Why not create an issue about one of these things? Why settle solely upon the C.I.O.?

Anyway, why should we be concerned about it when we have the Ontario Industrial Board, and the Ontario Minimum Wage Act, both of which are designed to give labour a square deal. When will this board function, when will this Minimum Wage Act become something as recognized that must be lived up to?

Just how much will rural Ontario bother about the C.I.O.? So far as the farmers are concerned it's a nightmare, and rain in June, lots of it, is something about which they are more

An Irishman was travelling in a train, accompanied by a minister, when two very stout ladies entered their compartment. They placed themselves one on each side of Pat, and he got much crushed between them. The minister, on seeing him placed, said: "Pat are you sure you are content?" To which Pat quickly replied — "Sure, your honour, I haven't much room to grumble."

"I hope that's a nice book for you to read, darling," said a conscientious mother to her young daughter.

"Oh yes, mummy, it's a lovely book, but I don't think you'd like it. It's so sad at the end."

"How is it sad, dear?"

"Well, she dies and he has to go back to his wife."

A simple Highland shepherd lad, named Donald, was an obedient son and a shy lover. "Mither," he said one evening, "can I get oot tas see ma lass?"

"Of course, Donald," replied his mother, readily. Later, on his return she asked: "Well, Donald, did ye see Jean?" "Aye, mither," he replied, "an

"You sir," said Jones. "You said yesterday it was H to O."

"Gimme a nickel's worth o' cheese," said the small boy to the clerk.

"Don't sell nothin' less'n a dime's worth," said the clerk.

"Well, lemme see it."

No sooner had the man exhibited the dime slice than the boy snatched out his Scout knife, and cut the cheese in two. Then he picked up one half, laid down his nickel and walked out remarking: "Trouble with you, my man is — you're lazy."

He put in a steady ten minutes with the dumbbells every morning, followed by another ten devoted exclusively to Indian clubs. BRIGHTON TO ORGANIZE A BAND

At the regular monthly session of the Brighton Council, held in the Council Chambers of the Town Hall, Fred Jobson, bandmaster of Belleville Municipal Band, addressed the members on the proposal to organize a boys' band in Brighton. It was agreed that the instruments already possessed by the town could be made useable, and the Council made a grant of $50 for the renovation of these instruments, and to purchase new music.

quart basket, according to their quality.

A small showing of green corn brought a ready market despite the high prices asked. Golden bantam sold for 40 cents the dozen ears while the white type sold for 25 cents the dozen ears and found a ready market as eager purchasers soon bought up the entire showing. New potatoes dropped slightly in price to sell for 30c the peck measure. Fresh beets, carrots, radishes and lettuce found a ready market at 5 cents the bunch, with green beans and string beans being offered at 5 cents the quart measure while firm new cabbage sold at 5 and 10 cents the head according to size.

New cauliflowers were featured and sold from 10 to 25 cents according to the size and firmness. New tomatoes also made their initial appearance in small lots, selling at 20 cents the small quart basket, while large cucumbers averaged three for ten cents.

Advance in Butter

Although the humidity was terrific at the inside market an increased market was seen in the City Hall building over that of last week with the sharp advance in the price of butter to 30 cents the pound featuring. Some fine showing of spring broilers brought a ready market, the broilers ranging in price anywhere from 50 cents to $1.00 the pair, according to the size and weight of the fowl. Fine young chickens sold from 60c to $1.25 each, however. A few small broilers were offered at 35 cents the pair, although they were not predominate owing to the smallness of the fowl.

A goodly showing of home cooking was seen at the inside market while a few vendors offered cut and potted flowers for sale to add to the colour and beauty of Belleville's market, renowned throughout Ontario as the finest market in the province.

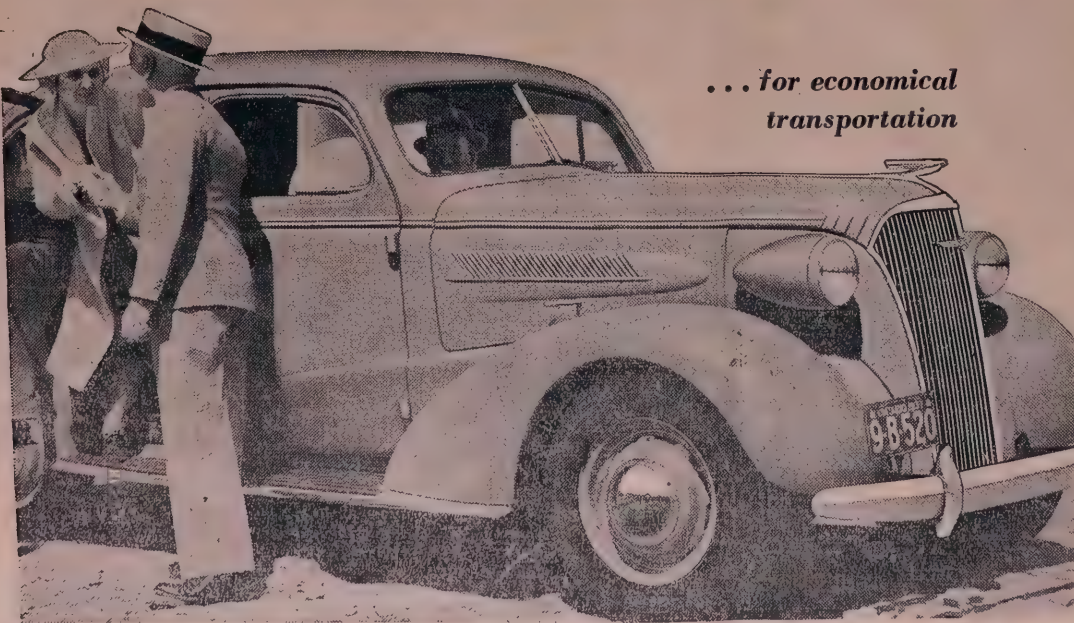

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Saturday's Belleville Market was largely attended by vendors and purchasing customers alike. No marked differences were observed in the general run of the market except in the price of butter that advanced to straight 30c per pound roll, with no discount for larger lots. Eggs remained firm at 25c the dozen for grade No. 1 eggs and ranging down to 22c for smaller and lesser grades.

The outside market presented a beautiful picture as the various collectors of newly grown vegetables and fruits blended together in an array of kaleidoscopic beauty. A general rush for fruits was seen with red and blue raspberries bringing 25c for two boxes without hesitation. Mulberries sold at 15c the single box or two boxes for 25c, while long blackberries brought 20c the box or two boxes for 35c. A scattering of strawberries sold at three boxes for 25c, with currants, all types, and gooseberries bringing 10c the quart box measure, although black currants sold as high as 25c the small box. Cherries proved more plentiful at 50 and 60c the RIVER VALLEY W. I.

The July meeting of the R.V.W.I. was held at the home of Mrs. S. McIntosh, with an attendance of 18. The meeting opened by singing the opening followed by the Lord's Prayer in the union. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved and business was discussed. A letter from Mrs. Robt. Stanley thanking the Institute for a letter of sympathy received at the time of the death of her sister, was read. The matter of holding the August meeting at the school house and the children to prepare the programme was decided upon. Each member gladly consented to give one-half dozen eggs to Gladys Conley, who has been in the hospital for some time and is in need of them. The collection was taken and amounted to ninety-five cents. All enjoyed some community singing.

The topic on "Health" was splendidly given by Mrs. P. Hubble. She read a very appropriate poem "The Scientific Child", which clearly pointed out the difference in raising children at the present time and a few years ago. Miss D. Utman gave a detailed report on the District Annual held in Stirling on June 10th. Little Jean McIntosh sang "Little Old Lady", accompanied by Mrs. P. Hubble. Miss Ethel McDonald prepared a "Grocery" contest and Mrs. D. Donohoe won the novelty prize. The meeting closed with the National Anthem. Mrs. McIntosh served a lovely lunch of sandwiches, cake, and lemonade for which she received a hearty vote of thanks.

FLASH!! HERE COMES HOOKLESS BAIT

"Hookless bait," a boon (?) to still fishermen, has been "discovered" by Wayne Robinson, of Ottawa, an Ontario game warden. No more will it be necessary to bait your hook every few nibbles; no more of that, for it is necessary to put "live bait" sellers this is really an invention; an invention destined to put "live bait" sellers out of business. In fact, the manufacturer (perhaps yourself, for it has not been put on the market yet) may even coin the slogan: "A worm a year," for that's how good it is. What? You want to know the secret? Well, listen closely. The new "hookless bait" consists of placing a live, wiggling worm inside a small glass bottle which is filled with water and capped with a metal stopper. Under the surface the worm is magnified and it wiggles in a most natural and alluring manner. Hungry fish and pickerel strike at the bottle and more often than not swallow bottle and all. Then all you have to do is remove the bottle and start fishing all over again. Some invention, what? And what is more, a patent has not been applied for. That means this is your chance.

The Ontario Fish and Game authorities are just a wee bit sceptical.

THE PENTHOUSE MURDER

By CALEB JOHNSON

Fifth Instalment

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later the telephone Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

When Flaherty and the medical examiner reach the apartment, they find that Miss Lane is still alive. She is rushed to a hospital where blood transfusions and care promise to restore her.

All circumstantial evidence points to Archie Doane as the murderer, especially when the murder gun is found carefully planted in the chimney clean-out in the basement.

"I opened that door and went out on the roof and around the elevator shaft to the door of Miss Lane's bedroom. You will find my footprints in the snow. The shades were drawn on both the windows and the glass door, but I could see there was a light inside. I tapped loudly on the glass, but received no response. Then I tried that door, and found it unlocked.

"I opened the door and saw the bodies of Miss Lane and Stephen Fitzgerald lying just where you saw them!

"You can imagine the agony of my first thoughts. I did not at once perceive that they were dead; they seemed merely asleep. I closed the door softly and backed out on to the roof. My first impulse was to steal quietly away — to hide from the shame my betrothed had brought upon me. God forgive me for the thought! It was an echo of the jealousy I had been harboring all the evening, jealousy born of fear of Fitzgerald.

For the moment I had forgotten Lydia's terrified call over the telephone. Then my mind cleared and I realized that a terrible tragedy had occurred. I re-entered the bedroom and my worst fears were verified when I saw the bullet wound in Lydia's arm, the blackened hole in Fitz's bosom.

"I reeled and felt as if I were about to faint, for a moment. Then I pulled myself together and tried to discover whether either was still alive. Both were apparently dead.

"My first conclusion was that Fitz had shot Lydia and then killed himself, rather than let her marry me. I saw no weapon, however, and the idea of suicide did not fit with Fitzgerald's character and temperament. Someone else must have come upon them and killed them both.

"I considered my own position. The case against me was clear. I had thought at first of running to the street and calling in the nearest policeman. But if I did that and anything should slip — someone else should come to the apartment, Miss Lane's maid return and find the bodies there — my departure might easily be interpreted as the beginning of a flight from the scene of my crime.

"I discarded that idea, and telephoned at once to Elmer Henderson's rooms, and reported to Inspector Flaherty. I noticed then that the telephone receiver was not on the hook, but hanging from its cord.

"Between the time when I telephoned the Inspector and the arrival of the detective with the Medical Examiner I was careful to disturb nothing in the apartment, but made as good a search as I could without touching anything, in the hope of finding the pistol. I found nothing. I understand your detective has not found a weapon?

"I had no means of telling how long Fitz had been lying there. Trying to figure it out, I came to the conclusion that he must have been shot early in the evening, and that Lydia, coming in late, had just discovered his body when she telephoned to me. She might have come first into the studio — this room — then gone into her dressing room and slipped into a kimono, and entered the bedroom to find Fitz's body on the floor. But that, of course, does not account for her own wound."

The Medical Examiner was the first to speak after Doane had finished his statement.

"It is possible that Miss Lane may have been shot several hours ago," he said, "and her statement when and if she recovers consciousness, will help us on that point. But the man had been dead not more than an hour. I should say not much more than half an hour, when I arrived. He could not possibly have lived fifteen minutes with that bullet through his heart. That negatives your suggestion, I think."

Martin Frazier had come back from the telephone while Archie Doane was making his statement. "I got Carrel out of bed and he's on the way to Roosevelt Hospital now," he said. "If anyone can pull Miss Lane through, he can."

"I called up Henderson, too," he added, and gave him a report of the situation. He seemed overjoyed to learn that Miss Lane was still alive, and asked me to give you a word of sympathy and encouragement, Archie."

"Good of him," said Doane. "Can't I be of service at the hospital? Blood transfusion, you said? I'll give every drop in my body."

"They have a number of persons available whose blood has been analyzed and tested for just that purpose," said the Medical Examiner. "It would take twenty-four hours to determine whether it would be safe to use yours, and by that time Miss Lane will either be out of danger or—"

"I hope she'll be able to talk," interrupted Inspector Flaherty. "Then we'll have something definite to go on. Meantime we must see what we have got here."

"Meantime, I'm under arrest, I suppose?" said Doane.

"Not yet, my boy," said the Inspector. "Stick around, though. There'll be plenty of questions to ask you. Lie down, if you like, on the sofa, and rest your nerves. I'll call you if I want you."

"Gentlemen," he said to the others, "I'm going to push this investigation through as fast as possible. I propose to stay here until daylight, if necessary to discover anything which the inanimate evidence can tell us. You Max and Martin, can stay or not, as you like."

"I'm going to stay," said Max Michaelis, and Frazier nodded his decision to do the same. "One or two questions I'd like to put to Archie before we do anything else," the lawyer went on.

"You say you came to the conclusion that Fitz must have been shot early in the evening. I wish you'd give us your process of reasoning that led to that conclusion."

"It was the snow that made me think of that," replied Doane. "It began to snow after eight o'clock; I know it had not begun when I got to Henderson's. If stopped snowing before eleven o'clock, for the sky was clear when I left my rooms to come up here."

"Verify the time of the snow from the Weather Bureau, Tony," interposed Inspector Flaherty. "Go on, Archie; I begin to get your drift."

"Well, look at Fitzgerald's shoes. From where I sat most of the time on the stool by the telephone stand, I could see the soles of them plainly. There are no overshoes or galoshes anywhere that I looked. A man would not come out in thin patent leather shoes without overshoes if there were snow on the ground, it isn't likely. And there isn't a sign of moisture on Fitz's shoes. Therefore, he must have come here before the snow began."

"That sounds reasonable, but it doesn't prove that he was shot before the snow began," Inspector Flaherty objected.

"I realize that my theory is all wrong," said Doane. "What the medical Examiner has told us proves that. I was merely telling how I had come to the conclusion that he had been shot some time before the snow began. If I didn't shoot him — which I didn't — Miss Lane didn't shoot him — which I don't believe — then he was shot, I figured, by some one who came into the apartment surreptitiously, the way I came — and there were no tracks in the snow."

"Look out on the rear roof garden now, and you will find my tracks, but no others."

"Someone might have been hiding in the apartment, a burglar lying in wait, for example. He might have slipped out the front door of the apartment and down the stairs or the elevator while you were making up your mind to go in the back way," said Inspector Flaherty. "It's no good theorizing, but let's get down to the facts."

"First we'll look at the front door." The door opening from the elevator or landing into the foyer of Miss Lane's apartment proved to be equipped with two locks; one of the regular Yale lock provided by the owners of the building, the other a special burglar-proof lock, which could not be fastened automatically by the closing of the door, but had to be locked with a key from the outside or by means of a knob inside.

"No sign of the lock being tampered with or the door forced," Inspector Flaherty admitted, after a careful inspection. "This door was locked, you say, Archie, when you arrived. Do you know whether both locks were on?"

"Yes, because I had to use two hands to open the door when your men arrived," replied Doane, after a moment's thought.

"Well, we'll see what other ways anybody could get in," the Inspector went on. He opened the French door at the front of the studio. The snow on the sills of the windows and the door and on the little stretch of roof garden thus disclosed was level, fluffy and unbroken. A little ridge of snow fell inward from the door sill. "Nobody has come in this way since the snow began," said the Inspector. "There isn't any way for anyone to get in from the front except by climbing the building, that I can see."

"Or over this penthouse roof above us," suggested Frazier, "and the snow on the edge of that is undisturbed too."

"Before we look over the back roof," said Max Michaelis, "let me ask Archie a question or two. I think I know the answers, but I want to get them in the record."

"Archie, do you own a pistol? Did you ever own a pistol?"

"Never," replied Doane, "I'm afraid of the things."

"You have had to handle pistols in your professional work as an actor, haven't you?"

"Yes; in fact I have to use one in the picture I am now making."

"Where is that pistol? Do you know?"

"In the property room at the High Art Studio, as far as I know."

"When did you see it last?"

"A day or two ago; Thursday, I believe, we shot the last scene in which I am supposed to use it."

"What sort of a pistol is it? A revolver or an automatic?"

"It's a revolver, nickel plated, with a pearl handle. In the picture I am supposed to shoot a burglar with it."

"Do you know the caliber — the size of the bore?"

"I think they call it a thirty-two."

"Did you ever fire that pistol?"

"Only once. That was in the studio last Thursday."

"Is this picture you are working in a sound picture?"

"Yes."

"Were any precautions taken to soften the sound of a shot?"

"Yes; there was a silencer on the weapon."

"At whom were you supposed to fire the pistol?"

"At Stephen Fitzgerald. He was directing the picture and also playing the part of the burglar."

"Did you load the pistol yourself when you fired it?"

"No; the property man loaded it, I suppose."

"If you had desired to kill Stephen Fitzgerald, could you have substituted a loaded cartridge for the blank cartridge used in the picture and so have made it appear an accident?"

one of the greatest agriculture experts in Canada, visited twenty-seven countries where she studied and wrote about agricultural and economic conditions for her newspaper.

Dr. Hind left Winnipeg in June, 1935, for Great Britain, from which point she made trips to European countries, including Russia and the Balkan States. Called back to London to write special articles following the death of King George V., she later travelled to South Africa, flying in easy stages from the Cape to Alexandria on the Mediterranean. From there she went to India by way of the Persian Gulf and finally to Australia and New Zealand, where she spent several months. From the Antipodes, Dr. Hind sailed around from the Horn to Montevideo and while in South America made a special study of the Argentine wheat and cattle country. Returning to Europe she spent some time in London during and following the Coronation returned to Winnipeg, after visiting the International Institute of Agriculture in Rome.

During her extensive travels, Dr. Hind found that other countries entertained many misconceptions regarding Canada, and with her first-hand experience in that regard, she has chosen as the title of her national network address, "As others Don't See Us."

ONTARIO SIGNAL SYSTEM

THOUGHT BEST FOR U. S.

A recent national safety survey made in the United States to determine the best method for motorists to give hand and arm signals reveals that the method recommended by the Ontario department of highways is considered the most satisfactory.

In an attempt to establish uniform legislation, W. Laurence Dickey, Editor of the Kansas City Journal-Post, recently instituted a nation-wide safety campaign in which officials in 48 states were urged to adopt as standard the code of arm and hand signals now used in Ontario. This method, his survey showed, was the simplest and most logical, and the co-operation offered by many state governors and traffic experts indicates that Ontario's system will soon be adopted as standard throughout the United States.

The Highway Traffic Act of Ontario specifies as obligatory only the "left turn" signal. Signals to indicate "stop", "slow", and "right turn" come under the heading of "courtesy", and as such are being strongly recommended by Hon. T. B. McQuesten, Minister of Highways, in connection with his department's extensive "Try Courtesy" campaign.

A recent publication of the highways department, in discussing recommended methods of giving hand and arm signals, exclaims: "The man behind can't read your mind — Signal!"

Whenever the signal is given by means of the hand and arm, the bulletin states, the driver should indicate his intention to stop or change direction by extending his hand and arm, from beyond the left side of the vehicle.

In making a left turn, the driver should signal his intention to turn by extending his left arm straight out, then draw as close to the centre line of the street or highway as possible, and turn on a point in the centre of the road which he is entering.

The right turn is properly made by signalling intention to turn and keeping close to the right hand curb line while doing so. Two methods may be used to give the signal — either by extending the left arm upwards or by waving the left hand in a clockwise motion, which simultaneously indicates a turn to the right and signals the driver behind that it is safe to pass on the left side.

"Stop" or "slow" is indicated by extending the left arm downwards, and care should be taken, when approaching an intersection to slow down several yards, rather than a few feet from the crossing.

MOTORISTS

Try Courtesy

and See How Others Will Follow

WHEN NEXT you go motoring resolve to "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way and see how much more enjoyable your trip will be and how quickly other drivers will respond to your courtesy. If I could but persuade half of the motorists to "Try Courtesy" I am confident that the other half would follow suit and then we would have established the greatest single factor for safe motoring—courteous driving.

Again I suggest that you "Try Courtesy" the next time you are driving. Try to refrain from "pocketing" your fellow-motorist when he gets into a traffic difficulty. Try to give him some warning of what you intend to do next whether it is to slow down, stop, change direction or overtake him. Try to give him his share of the road so as not to unnerv him by a "close shave." Try to remember to dip or dim your brilliant headlights when you meet him at night so that he will not be "ditched" or drive straight on when he should take a curve. Try to remember that hills, curves and other blind spots are danger spots—keep to your right side of the road when you come to them.

In these and the dozens of other ways, which will occur to you, I sincerely recommend that you "Try Courtesy" every inch of the way.

FRIENDS MOURN FRANKFORD MAN

Funeral of Roy Pollard, of Frankford, was held on Saturday under Masonic auspices. Rev. J. F. Lane conducted the services in the home, in the United Church and at the graveside in Frankford cemetery. Masonic rites were conducted by Wor. Bro. Samuel Nicolson, Ruling Master of Frankford Lodge, A.F. & A.M., assisted by Past Master Wor. Bro. Edward Nelson. Pallbearers were: Arnold Stickle, Neil Nelson, Cecil Searies, W. F. Ketcheson, Keith Bush and Emerson Hough.

Mr. Pollard, who died suddenly in his 35th year, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Pollard, and had lived in and around Frankford practically all of his life. He was one of the most popular young men of the village. He was a member of Frankford Lodge 127, A.F. & A.M., Frankford, and took an active part in the young people's activities in the United Church, being vice-president of the Young People's Union. Surviving are his parents, three sisters, Mrs. Mae Frost and Mrs. Thomas Burkitt, of Frankford, and Mrs. F. R. of Aklamasoo, Mich., also three brothers, George Pollard Jr., Madoc; Findlay Pollard and William Pollard, Frankford. Many beautiful floral tributes bore testimony to the esteem in which Mr. Pollard was held.

PLAINFIELD MERCHANT SAVES CASH FROM ROBBERS

Two masked and armed men, who fled after a storekeeper and his wife defied their guns and drove them from the kitchen of their home are being sought by Provincial Police. Mr. and Mrs. Frank Creeper, who operate a grocery store at Plainfield were richer as a result of their combined efforts in which Mrs. Creeper struggled with the bandits to keep the door open and in which Mr. Creeper resorted to an old ruse and discouraged the robbers by heartily greeting a non-existent friend whom he "saw" outside.

One shot was fired by the fleeing duo after they ran down the road in the general direction of Tweed. No trace could be found of the bullet which whined over the heads of the valiant and embattled grocer and his wife who had pursued their would-be robbers into the street. Mr. and Mrs. Creeper had just closed the store for the night and retired to the kitchen to listen to the radio for a few minutes when a knock at the door attracted Mrs. Creeper's attention. She peered through a window and saw a man step back quickly. When she called to him he said he wished to purchase gasoline. Mrs. Creeper turned the radio down so she could hear. When she opened the door, two young men, wearing blue cloth masks and waving guns, stepped in and tried to shove her aside. She clung to the door, however, despite their weapons. Mr. Creeper turned from the radio to feel a gun thrust into his side.

"The men demanded money so Mr. Creeper emptied his pockets of change and dumped it on the table," said Mrs. Creeper. "They said it wasn't enough and demanded $4. While they were arguing, I kept holding the door open despite the one fellow's efforts to shut it. Then I ran around and opened the side door from the outside." Mr. Creeper, trying to "talk them down a bit," feared that the pair would take all his money if they got to the day's receipts. While he was arguing, he glanced out the door and exclaimed, "Well, Blake, I'm certainly glad to see you." At this remark the two became panic-stricken and bolted out the back door, leaving even the small change on the table. As they ran, the Creepers followed them. One of the men turned and fired once apparently seeking to stop any pursuit.

NATIVE OF STIRLING PASSES IN ST. CATHARINES

The passing away of George Wilson Wright, a well-known resident of St. Catharines for the past eleven years occurred quietly and peacefully on Sunday afternoon at the residence of his niece, Mrs. J. W. Glass, 206 King St., with whom he had made his home, following an illness of several months. The late Mr. Wright, who was in his 84th year, was born at Stirling, Ont., being a son of the late Dr. George W. and Mrs. Wright of Kitchener. For a number of years he lived in Port Colborne, later moving to Deseronto where for many years he was accountant for the Rathbun Co.

Of a kindly manner he was a man who could truly be called a Christian gentleman and was highly esteemed by a large circle of friends throughout the district who learn of his demise with sincere regret. While in Deseronto he was a member of the High School Board for many years acting as Chairman for several terms. In religion he was a Presbyterian. He was also a member of Craig Lodge, No. 401, A.F. & A.M., of Deseronto, and was a charter member of Beacon Lodge No. 201 of Port Colborne under whose auspices the funeral will be held. Mounteray pleaded guilty and was remanded for sentence. Mrs. Mounteray who was also charged with conspiring to defraud the insurance company, pleaded not guilty to both charges.

SPOILING A COLOUR

Blue is one of the most beautiful colours in the world. The blue sky of spring, even though it looks a dull earth before the grass has started and before the leaves are out, makes everything seem fair. As we look up at the sky, our feet keep time to the singing of our hearts.

Blue is such a colour, giving such pleasure to the eye and such joy to the heart that one wonders how anybody ever has the audacity to say "I'm blue." How does anyone venture to give to a glum, ugly mood the name of one of the most beautiful of colours. Blue should be kept sacred to our brave moods, to our uplifted, happy moments, instead of being applied to that wretched state of mind in which cowardice and gloom and ingratitude are mingled in about equal proportions. Perhaps we intuitively disguise our unworthy mental attitudes by giving them attractive names. Why spoil a colour to save one's pride?

CHARGE AGAINST DRIVER OF TRUCK ENLARGED

Joseph Keating, Campbellford, appeared in Belleville Police Court on Monday charged with criminal negligence, his case being enlarged until Sept. 10th, at the request of his counsel, Charles A. Payne, K.C. Keating was arrested on a charge of criminal negligence following a motor accident north of Stirling, some time, during which time Max Preston, of Stirling, sustained severe injuries and is still confined to the hospital.

PICK RASPBERRIES FROM MAPLE TREE

Raspberries are growing on a maple tree in front of the home of D. Beck, on Munro Ave., Peterboro. A healthy bush which had five ripe berries was thriving in the fork of the tree about 12 feet from the ground, the seed apparently having found its way into the fork where a dead limb had broken off and taken root, while the dead base of the limb held sufficient moisture to permit normal growth of the plant.

HARD ON SOIL

A farmer who was always complaining about everything was showing the result of fine growing weather and superior skill in cultivation, when his visitor said to him: "Well, you ought to be satisfied with such crops as these. There is certainly nothing lacking. You have nothing to kick about this year." The old farmer stood in a meditating mood for a minute, then replied, "Well, you know, son, such crops as these are pesky hard on the soil."

"WE, WHO ARE ABOUT TO DIE"

We who are about to die salute you! That was the greeting the gladiators of old gave to the Roman Emperors before they perished in the arena. But we are not gladiators and we are not going into battle. We are not sick of life. We do not wish to die. But we will by the hundreds and by the thousands.

We are the people who are going to die in fatal accidents during the year 1937.

Most of us have not even a premonition of the fate which awaits us. We do not realize that Death lurks around the corner. We have not seen his shadow nor heard his footsteps.

But Death waits.

Waits round the bend in the next, car's faltering brakes, in the trail of some chance driver who loves alcohol and gasoline and mixes them too well. In the street and in the open highway. What matter where? Death waits and does not announce his coming.

We are marked down to die. The great god called Statistics has written our names down in his little book and by actual laws we are doomed.

We do not know it, but death is coming.

Some of us are little children. Our deaths will be more horrible, more tragic than the others. But die we will. Parents, teachers and professional life-havers with their glib warnings will avail not. We are marked down.

We are careless now. We do not take thought. Have you never been a child, do you not know what it is to be a stranger to responsibility, to depend on others for care, for shelter, for protection?

Yes, protection. That is one of the things the child is taught to expect from his elders. Something in a cruel and reckless age he does not receive.

Our deaths will be more tragic, because more cruel than all the others. You can see the headlines, "Five Children Killed in Safety Zone," "Tots Run Over on Way from School."

You will read these headlines many times over in 1937. Will you heed them?

THE HONEST MAN

Each clever man may cleverer meet, and he will on some future day, And the strong man walks to a sure defeat when a stronger comes his way;

But an honest man has this to know, that in honour there's no degree, And never a man, though high or low, more honest than he can be.

The great to the greater soon must bow; the wise to the wiser kneel; Though the skillful man may be boastful now, more skill shall the next reveal.

But an honest man has his fame secure, if square to the world he stands.

For a square is a square, be it large or small, with never a better or best. Be the four sides true they are judged by all to be square by the final test;

So an honest man, whatever his birth, has no one to fear for him, With his head erect can walk the earth just as square as a man can be.

YOUR WALK TALKS

The way a person "carries himself" is the outside picture of innermost thoughts taking form in action. It is amusing to try and read the characters of your friends. Here are a few pointers that will prove an aid:

Those who walk with shoulders up-right, placing feet down firmly, possess self-control and determination. If steps are long, the owners are generally long-headed, friendly and agreeable. If slow, they are non-progressive.

A short, quick step indicates a brisk and active, but rather contracted mind. Mincing walkers are affected and artificial. They accomplish very little.

The heavy, over-dignified, over-pompous walker is a good judge of food, is opposed to improvements and reform, never fails to look after himself first.

Cunning, foxy, secretive persons walk with a crouching, wary and watchful attitude.

Careless walkers are just what they appear. Those who roll from side to side lack directness and side-step responsibility whenever it is possible. Stoopers lack self-confidence, though are mostly thoughtful and kindly, usually unappreciated.

To walk with splay feet is to indicate egotism and a sense of humour without caution.

Quiet, dignified posture, with lack of gesture, suggests reserve force and power well in hand, and usually there is personal magnetism there.

LATE EDWARD WALT

The funeral of Edward Walt, who passed away at the family residence, at Stockdale, on Monday, July 12th, after an illness of eight weeks' duration, took place from his late residence on Wednesday, July 14th, to the Stockdale United Church, where an impressive service was conducted by the Rev. I. F. Lane, who conducted also the service at the graveside in Stockdale Cemetery. The bearers were: Messrs Harry Orr, Percy Way, William Johnson, Harvey Pitcher, Manley Maybee and Fred Cox.

The late Mr. Walt, who was in his 67th year, was born at Frankford and had resided in the district all his life. His parents were the late Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Walt. He was a member of the United Church and highly esteemed in the community. In the building of the United Church at Stockdale he was an active and valued member of the building committee.

Surviving to mourn his loss are his widow, who prior to her marriage was Miss Margaret Ella Bates; one daughter, Mrs. Morley Barlow, Bonarlaw; one son, Mr. Arthur Walt, Murray Township; two brothers, Dr. C. F.

Walt, Stirling, and Mr. A. Walt, of Orangeville.

FLOYD DOUGLAS

Floyd Douglas, 13, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Douglas, Ivanhoe, died in Belleville General Hospital early Monday after being admitted to the institution on Sunday. He was born in Thorold, Ontario, 13 years ago, and for the past twelve years has been a resident of Ivanhoe. He was most popular with his school companions and a favourite with the older people of the community and his demise will be sincerely regretted. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church and a faithful attendant both at Church services and the Sunday School. Surviving are his parents, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Douglas, and two brothers, Gerald and Donald, both at home. The funeral was held on Wednesday.

NECKTIES AND PRINTING

(Trenton Courier Advocate) Not long ago there was much ado in this town because some person was caught peddling neckties without first obtaining permission in the matter of a license.

The culprit was taken before the cad and he was ordered to pay a small fine and costs which was quite sufficient for the breach in the by-laws. But.

How many times have the police of this town ever picked up printing peddlers and taken them before the magistrate for the same serious offence (?) that brought the necktie salesman to court. It is safe to say that the printers of this town pay more taxes, more wages a week, and possibly spend more money in this town than all the sellers of neckties in this town put together and yet we have absolutely no protection, no friends at court.

What is food for the goose should be sauce for the gander in this or any other man's town. If there is a law that prevents the peddling of neckties there should be a law to prevent the peddling of printing. Further than this, the printers should have more protection because their work is done in Trenton, while we know that the purveyors of neckties could not make a necktie to save their lives.

The printers of Trenton; the printers of the whole Bay of Quinte area, north side we mean, should be permitted to do the work of their respective communities and they should be protected against city sweatshops that can undersell them because they are closer to the paper warehouses. Not that the quality of work produced hereabouts is any lower in standard than that peddled from business place to business place in this town.

by travellers who have no more license to peddle printing than have the peddlers of neckties.

Of course there may be nothing done about it. It is possible that no peddler of printing will ever stand before the magistrate in this town and plead guilty to the charge that he had no license to peddle and therefore was breaking a town bylaw. And in the meantime buyers of this peddled printing will come around to the town printing offices and ask the management to give them space for some of their affairs without even a thank you or they will go out and berate the publisher because he had the infernal fortitude to refuse them.

Not so very long ago the traveller for an envelope company came in to see us and in the course of our conversation remarked that the sale of envelopes to printers in Trenton was away below that of any other town in the country. And he wondered why. And we told him. We told him that he and other representatives of envelope manufacturing companies were taking the orders out of town while they were trying to make the Trenton printers believe they were their friends. He stoutly denied any such allegation, but the fact remains that this firm and any other firm that sells envelopes direct to the trade or who carry the prices for printing envelopes in their catalogues will never sell us an envelope again. From now on we are picking our friends in the envelope business.

But getting back to neckties and printing peddlers. Why should there be an open season on one and a closed season on the other. Should they not both be game for the police department, and why should the printers of the town be forced to act as snoopers to bring them to book?

SPRINGBROOK TAKES THIRD

Second Game Declared No Contest — Next Game Tonight

The third game of the final series of the Rawdon Softball League between Springbrook and Bethel took place on the Springbrook diamond on Monday night, and resulted in a win for Springbrook by the score of 15 to 6. The second game, which was played on the Stirling High School diamond on Saturday evening, was called and was declared no contest. Springbrook now have two wins to their credit in the best three out of five series and has been established favourites to take the championship. Bethel led the league until almost the end, but finished in a tie for first place with Springbrook, who defeated them in a sudden death game for first place. So far in the final series they have failed to show the class of ball for which they are noted and their supporters are hoping that they will yet crack out of their slump and take three straight to win the championship.

Broadworth was on the mound for Springbrook in Monday's encounter, and although he got off to rather a shaky start when the losers got three runs in the first inning, he settled away and limited them to only three runs, one of them a homer by Bill Heath, Bethel's good second baseman, in the fourth inning, during the balance of the game. His pitching all through the series has been strong and Bethel have been unable to solve his slants when hits meant runs.

The pitching duties for Bethel were looked after by E. Runnalls who pitched good enough ball to win most games, but he was unable to hold the heavy hitters of the Springbrook team in check and three home runs were scored off his offerings, Broadworth getting one in the fourth and Clayton Thompson getting two, one in the third and another in the fifth.

The lineups were as follows: Springbrook — G. Heath, 1.f.; M. Heath, 3.b.; G. Broadworth, p.; Mel Gibson, 1.b.; C. Thompson, 2.b.; G. Williams, c.; D. Sharpe, ss.; H. Bateman, cf.; C. Heath, rf.; C. Burkitt replaced Bateman in the second inning. Bethel — B. Heath, 2.b.; B. Sutherland, 1.b.; Ryckman, ss.; M. McKeown, c.; B. Morton, cf.; E. Runnalls, p.; W. Warren, 1.f.; G. Green, rf.; D. Richardson, 3.b.

Score by innings: Springbrook 241530x—15 Bethel 3111000—6

Umpires — Butler and Mason. On Saturday night on the local school diamond Springbrook defeated Bethel 8 to 7 in a six-inning game before one of the largest crowds of the season. The game was called on account of darkness and was declared "no contest" since it did not go the required seven innings.

Bethel took the lead in the first inning, when a walk to Heath and hits by Ryckman and Morton gave them one run. In the second they added another when McKeown crossed the plate on a hit by B. Heath, but were blanked in the third and fourth. The fifth produced three runs on a walk to Ryckman, an error and a two-base hit by Morton, and two more were scored in the sixth on hits by Green Richardson and Sutherland.

The winners got one in the second on a walk and an error, three in the third on hits by Burkitt, M. Heath, G. Heath and Broadworth, and four in the fourth on two errors and three hits by Burkitt, M. Heath and G. Heath.

Umpires — Butler and Hulm.

FAIR BOARD TO MEET

A meeting of the Directors of the Stirling Agricultural Society will be held in the Agricultural Rooms on Tuesday evening, at 7.30 o'clock. Important business is on the agenda and it is hoped there will be a large attendance of the members present.

TO HOLD TOURNAMENT

The Stirling Ladies' Bowling Club will stage a rinks tournament on the local greens tomorrow (Friday) afternoon and evening. This is the first tournament the ladies have had this season and it is expected that there will be a large entry from the various clubs of the district.

PASS EXAMINATIONS

Miss Margaret E. Walt, B.A. (Queens), daughter of Dr. and Mrs. C. F. Walt, of Stirling, and Miss Thelma U. Green, B.A. (U. of T.), daughter of Lieut-Col. D. Green and Mrs. Green, of Rayside, have been successful in obtaining certificates as Interim High School Assistants, following the June examinations completing the year's course of teacher training at the Ontario College of Education.

These teachers were former pupils of the Stirling Public and High Schools, the former completing Honorary Matriculation at the local school the latter at the Belleville Collegiate Institute.

While attending University they earned the right to be admitted to Honours Courses, Miss Walt choosing the courses in French and Latin, Miss Green those in chemistry and biology. Both were successful in maintaining their standing, graduating with second class honours in their respective courses.

They are receiving the congratulations of their many friends locally and elsewhere and enter upon the very important and responsible duties of teaching with the best wishes for success from the communities that have for years, been their homes and from those especially who have been connected with the maintenance of Educational Institutions in these places.

Miss Walt has received the appointment as teacher of Latin at Long Branch, while Miss Green is at present engaged at the Dominion Entomological Laboratory at Belleville.

HOLD FIELD DAY

A team representing Rawdon Township won the Girls' Softball Championship at the Junior Farmers' Picnic held on Stirling Agricultural Grounds last Thursday, and were presented with the large cup donated by Hon. Dr. J. A. Faulkner, Minister of Health in the Ontario Government.

Teams were entered from Sidney, Hungerford, Madoc, Rawdon and some close and exciting contests were witnessed. In the first game a team representing Hungerford township defeated Sidney in a very one-sided tilt to the tune of 32 to 4. The teams were as follows:

Hungerford — M. Luffman, A. Langdon, M. Tummon, A. Thompson, M. Tummon, E. Terry, C. Long, H. Jones and L. Rashotte.

Sidney — M. Hollinger, E. Whitney, O. Sine, L. Sine, B. Gay, P. Ketcheson, E. Thrasher, B. Tenney.

Officials: Rev. Hill and James Hulm.

Madoc vs. Rawdon Madoc girls held the ultimate championship Rawdon team five to seven in a game which was one of the highlights of the day with good fielding and fine pitching drawing a great hand from the large crowd. The teams were as follows:

Rawdon — Olive Stewart, Hilda Haggerty, M. McInroy, R. Stapley, Irene Tucker, Mona Wright, Lola Heath, Frances McKeown and Pearl Stapley.

Madoc — R. McKinnon, N. Fox, M. Smith, M. O'Connell, L. Kjelne, G. Bailey, A. Smith, B. Keane.

Officials: Hill and Hulm.

Final Game Tweed vs. Rawdon The final game of the girls' tournament was between Tweed and Rawdon, two evenly matched teams with odds and support about evenly balanced — heavy batting by both teams featured the early innings of the game, which was awarded at the end of the sixth to Rawdon girls because of continued bickering on the part of the Tweed coach, who was ordered from the field on two occasions for interference with the officials. The score at this point, which officially was the end of the game, was Rawdon (Continued on Page Eight)

ESCAPES INJURY

Mr. Willie Montgomery narrowly escaped being severely crushed on Tuesday morning at the Routly Construction quarry at Harold, when a large truck backed up and pinned him against a pile of stone. Mr. Montgomery was rushed to Belleville for an X-ray, and it is thought there were no fractures. Both hips and his right arm were badly bruised, with the ligaments of his hip strained. The X-ray pictures have been forwarded to Toronto for further examination.

REGULAR MEETING OF BOARD OF EDUCATION

Teacher Engaged to Fill Vacancy in Public School Staff

The regular monthly meeting of the Stirling Board of Education was held in the High School on Monday evening, with vice-chairman W. Wright occupying the chair and Dr. H. H. Aiger, Dr. C. F. Walt, J. S. Morton, C. F. Linn, Wm. Patterson, J. B. Belshaw, H. C. Martin in attendance.

Following the adoption of the minutes of the last regular and subsequent special meetings, Mr. A. E. Strickland, local druggist, addressed the Board soliciting a share of the school business. The different members of the Board expressed themselves in favour of a fair distribution of the school board business among the local merchants and the matter was referred to the purchasing committee.

Mr. J. S. Morton stated that prices had been asked on a number of window blinds for the Public School, but had not been received yet.

Speaking on behalf of the Property Committee, J. B. Belshaw reported that the fence at the east end of the public school grounds had been replaced and the roof on the public school was about half repaired. In spite of the heavy rains occurring recently, there had been no leaks in the repaired section, stated Mr. Belshaw.

Subsequent to instructions given the property committee at an earlier meeting, a number of the desks in the High School had been scrapped and planned in an endeavour to remove initials which had been cut in them by the pupils, but the members of the property committee had thought the cost too great and had stopped the work until receiving further instructions from the Board, concluded Mr. Belshaw.

In his opinion, stated Mr. C. F. Linn, the desks in the room should be finished at the present time, then after a year's trial, a decision could be made regarding the other rooms. The matter was referred to the property committee, with instructions to complete the one room.

Mr. Wm. Patterson drew the attention of the Board members to the dilapidated condition of the fence between the public school grounds and the United Church parsonage. This matter was also referred to the Property Committee to deal with as it saw fit.

Dr. C. F. Walt reported for the Teachers' Committee and narrated the steps which had been taken by the Committee to fill the vacancy in the Public School staff caused by the departure of Miss Moffatt. Some twenty applications had been received, but only a few had the necessary qualifications, and after due consideration, the committee had chosen the application of Miss Lillian Turner, of Islington, who had been well recommended.

On motion of Dr. C. F. Walt, seconded by H. C. Martin, the recommendation of the teachers' committee that Miss Turner be engaged as teacher for the third room of the public school at a salary of $800 per year, was accepted.

The following accounts were presented by C. F. Linn, Chairman of the Finance Committee, for payment: Public School — W. H. Patterson, $7.00; Fred Elgie, $10.80.

High School — Fred Elgie, $4.00; Jas. Mitchell $3.00.

INJURES HAND

Word has been received by friends that Mr. Herb Higgs, of Copper Cliff Mine, near Sudbury, had the misfortune to fracture a bone in his hand on Thursday, while playing baseball. Herb is manager of the team, and at the time of the accident there were two men on bases and Herb made a home-run and while sliding into the home port, he fell, hurting his hand. However, the game was won.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

July 26th, 1937
The Editor,—
Stirling News-Argus,
Stirling, Ontario.

Dear Sir: With reference to our recent conversation, you may perhaps consider the following matter for insertion in your paper, which we believe should prove of interest to certain farmers who this year have sufficient feed and stabling to avail themselves of young western cattle for conditioning for the market next season:

"The Federal Minister of Agriculture announces that the Government is prepared to give assistance in the movement of cattle from the drought area in Saskatchewan. Arrangements have been made under which a party from Eastern Canada, or his agent, may travel to Saskatchewan, buy cattle and bring them to Eastern Canada, the Government allowing under certain specific conditions, one-way railway fare and living expenses en route to the district in which the purchase is made, also a refund of 50 per cent. of the actual freight charges."

While this is not exactly a beef country, there are no doubt a number of farmers who could share a car of young western cattle between them and with the abundance of feed evidenced this year, should stand a very fair chance of getting a good return for feeding their hay.

Yours faithfully,
A SUBSCRIBER

EXERCISE CARE

Threshing operations have started in the surrounding district although it is not by any means general. Farmers and those in charge of threshing outfits are again reminded that the utmost care should be exercised to prevent fire. Last year there were several hundred fires caused by threshing machines, resulting in thousands of dollars of damage, and a large proportion of them were attributed to carelessness. If this tremendous loss is to be curtailed it will have to be done by those engaged in operating these machines. As they stand upon the threshold of another season, let us hope that each and every operator will resolve to exercise the utmost care in this regard.

OBSERVE THE SIGNS

On a number of occasions in the past we have drawn attention to the failure of certain motorists to observe the stop signs within the village. These signs were placed in their present position for the sole purpose of ensuring safer driving conditions, and it is up to motorists to do their part. While there are a number of these signs in the village, we refer particularly to the one on Mill St. bringing traffic to a stop before entering onto Highway No. 14. This is a dangerous corner and some day one of these careless motorists will be the means of causing perhaps a fatal accident here. People who fail to observe the regulations cannot object if the officials lay a charge against them for infractions of the traffic laws.

TO HAVE AN ELECTION?

Reports from Toronto seem to indicate that we are to have a provincial election within the next few months, but so far Premier Hepburn has made no official announcement other than that the matter of an election has not been officially discussed by the Cabinet. While the present government's term of office has still a couple of years more to run, there are those who think that the Premier has decided on the coming Fall as an ideal time to face the elections. In the event of an election the Conservatives of West Hastings have already chosen their candidate, while it is expected that Hon. Dr. Faulkner will again be the official nominee of the Liberal Party.

NO WILL — NO WAY

This slogan is true from a legal aspect and also from a moral and common-sense point of view.

It is true from a legal aspect in that a Will is your voice speaking from the tomb and giving direction as to the disposition of your estate. If you have been negligent, indolent or indifferent in this important matter beside the bit of property you leave a peck of trouble. If you have been so careless not to express your wishes how can you expect the ones that come after you to give expression to them. Some people are mind readers and can guess fairly well your desires in the partition of what you leave behind you. Your Will gives you the privilege in the choice of your Executors and your beneficiaries whilst you live, but the power to act in this particular ceases when your eyelids close in death. Some are superstitious enough to believe that to make a Will shortens your days; but what difference does it make whether you express your desires or whether you do not in the length of your days? So if there is no Will there is no satisfactory Way, so the moral is: Make Your Will.

It is true from a moral point of view. If you have no will power and are not strong enough to say "No" and mean what you say you are like a rudderless ship on a stormy sea, you are going to be a wreck before you reach your destination. Many a splendid career has met disaster because another either by ridicule or a stronger influence was able to swerve him from his purpose. So in this case where there is no will there is no way, because the path on which you discover yourself is not the way you would have chosen had you had the moral courage to stick to your own and true convictions. It is true from a common sense point of view. A wise man will admit when he is in error, a fool never. The one who has never made a mistake has never made anything else. A wise man every few years remakes his will because his circumstances change with the times and the way that seems so bright and clear today may be enveloped in a black cloud tomorrow. Some never succeed because some "sense" is so "common" that it is not fashionable to possess any and thus they meet with disaster on the pathway of life. It takes a person of good sound common sense not to jump at conclusions, but after he has looked at a matter from every angle and thoroughly weighed the "pros" and "cons" he is in a better position to judge correctly. When you have the will to plan your life a more defined way opens up, and without a will one can hardly expect to find a way.

CURRENT COMMENT

Next Monday, August 2nd, will be observed as Civic Holiday in Stirling, when places of business will be closed. Don't forget when doing your Saturday shopping to provide enough for your needs until Tuesday next.

Following the warm weather of the past two weeks the cool weather the fore part of this week has started residents thinking of the Fall and Winter months. And, after all, it won't be long now.

After reading of the hardships endured by people living in the drought-stricken areas of Western Canada, where in some cases the eighth crop failure is being experienced, we should be thankful that we are living in a section where complete crop failures are unknown.

There is quite a large excavation along the sidewalk on the street leading to the small bridge, which is a danger spot for pedestrians and should be filled in. If one were to step into this serious injuries would doubtless be the result and the village would be faced with a damage action.

Every summer there are many drownings in this district because new swimmers venture too soon into deep water. They may get cramps and cannot crawl ashore or get a headful of water and become panicky. New swimmers who are wise begin in shallow water where they can see where they are going.

A Toronto report states that there are some 7,200 teachers availing themselves of the opportunity of improving their training by taking summer courses in the various departments of school work. This is a considerable increase over last year and should result in increased efficiency in the schools throughout the province.

While it is past time when the weeds should be cut and destroyed in the village, there are still a number of lots where they are being allowed to mature. If the spread of these noxious weeds is to be controlled it is imperative that these spots be cleaned up before the weeds go to seed. Citizens are again reminded that it is an infringement of the Weed Control Act to allow weeds to mature on their property.

Sixteen persons were killed last week-end in motor accidents in Ontario, while a couple of other lives were snuffed out by drownings. In spite of all sorts of warnings the slaughter goes on. A peculiar feature of the majority of automobile accidents is that they occur when the drivers are travelling on a straight-away level road, under good driving conditions. This can only mean that lack of care and courtesy on the part of motorists is the direct cause of the large toll of human lives. Try courtesy!

When a man tells you he has something for sale that is so good that it needs no advertising — you may well view him with suspicion. The man who really has something good is so proud of it that you could not keep him from advertising it. Newspaper advertising is the great outlet for the written message sells the goods. It reaches an audience that is always looking for something better.

This week there came to our desk a copy of a special edition of the Cobourg Sentinel-Star commemorating the one hundredth birthday of that town. The edition, comprising forty-four pages, contains messages of good-will from outstanding citizens of both the Province and Dominion, and completely illustrates by story and picture the gradual growth of the town during the past hundred years. The whole edition is well arranged and printed and is a credit to those responsible for the material and workmanship involved.

The attention of the farmers of Stirling district is drawn to a letter appearing in another column on this page, wherein an explanation is given of a plan whereby a farmer or his agent may purchase cattle in the drought-stricken areas of Western Canada and have them transported to this locality at a reduced rate. This is made possible through the assistance of the Dominion Department of Agriculture and the government is to be commended for taking this action. With bountiful crops being harvested in this section of the province, the scheme will doubtless appeal to many.

Monday, October 11th has been fixed by the Dominion Government as Thanksgiving Day. This is in keeping with the change made last year when the holiday was switched from a Thursday until Monday in order that those who wished to go on a motor trip or visit would enjoy a long week-end. Just now there is a growing agitation in certain quarters to have all holidays on Mondays, and we have no doubt that the result would be if the business men were allowed an expression of opinion on the question.

From May 1st to September 30th, it is estimated that a female housefly would have 5,593,720,000,000 descendants. This sounds like a serious problem but, fortunately they don't all live. The best time to do the killing is when the flies first appear. Each fly killed then eliminates the danger of millions later. Flies are a menace to health — they carry the germs of dangerous diseases. Not a word of good can be said in their favour. Breeding places such as uncovered garbage, refuse, manure, rotting matter of any kind should be eliminated. Screens on doors and windows and coverings for all food and drink should be used. These are the only ways to keep down the menace.

What Others Say

LOOKS LIKE A RECORD

(Peterborough Examiner)
Mrs. Anna Pond of Waterford, Ont., is 97 years of age. She reads a good deal, and prefers newspapers because they come fresh each day. Mrs. Pond has no time for worrying and cannot be convinced that it ever did any good anyway. If the weather is favourable this lady of 97 goes to church on Sunday and she also likes to attend Sunday school. What's more she walks. Both ways.

All of which is interesting but not so remarkable as other facts regarding her family. Mrs. Pond is the mother of 11 children and they are all living, and she herself is the eldest of a family of four and her two sisters and a brother are also living, their ages being 89, 82, and 86.

We cannot recall having read or heard of another case like that. A woman of 97 with 11 children living, and with all her own generation still here.

BRIGHT HEADLIGHTS

(Chatham News)

It is remarkable to note the number of motorists who steadfastly refuse to dim their automobile headlights, even when approaching drivers give them the signal to do so. If these motorists would only stop to ponder what it means to them personally, their attitude would undergo a complete change.

When a motorist switches on his dimmers he definitely informs the driver coming from the other direction that the latter's lights are blinding — that they are confusing the motorist he is about to pass on the road. He virtually says: "Turn down your lights so I can see the road, and prevent a collision with you."

When any motorist refuses to respond to such a signal by dimming his own headlights, he is in effect saying to the blinded driver: "Go ahead and hit me if you want to — or take to the ditch — I don't care which you do." And a blinded driver is just as apt to hit the other car as he is to go in the ditch.

CO-OPERATING WITH COUNCIL

(Almonte Gazette)

In the last few years The Gazette like most weekly papers, has never refused to co-operate with officials of the town in suppressing news that would be detrimental to the municipality. We think the Clerk and Mayor will bear us out in this because the requests came mostly from them. There are many things that happen in elective bodies, especially Boards of Education, that are better left unpublished, especially in small towns, because their publication would do no good and might hurt the feelings of certain individuals.

Publishing a weekly newspaper is a difficult business. It is impossible to please everyone. The readers demand the news and those adversely affected by publication of the news raise the very mischief. We recall the motto posted up in the newspaper office of a small American daily: "Everything our patrons want left out of the paper is news; everything they want in the paper is advertising."

One of the sources of news that has been left to the weeklies is the council. People are interested in what the council does because it affects their interests in a most direct manner. Like newspapers, the council has to stand for a lot of criticism some of which is merited and some of which isn't deserved. When a man enters public life he must expect this kind of thing. That is the price a politician pays for the notoriety and power he achieves. It is foolish for a public body to spend too much time trying to hide what it is doing from the newspaper. After all the people have a right to know what their representatives are doing and the newspaper is the source they look to for the information.

A Difference

Mr. W. Gallacher, the M.P. for West Fife, caused laughter in the House of Commons by referring to an occasion when Mr. G. B. Shaw had to take the oath in order to testify to the qualifications for standing bail.

"The Magistrate," he stated, "aid to Mr. Shaw, 'Are you worth £200?'

Mr. Shaw cocked his head slightly to the side and said, 'Well, I won't say that, but I have got £200."

The Remedy

Prospective Buyer: "The rooms

House Agent: "But you can always use thinner wallpaper, sir."

Why of Course Not!

Mr. Bragger: "Oh, yes indeed, my wife and I do sometimes disagree."

Mrs. Bragger: "Why, Henry, we don't either."

Predicaments

Of many sad predicaments

"I want three lawn mowers," he said.

The clerk stared at him. "Three,

"Nothing of the kind," said the man

NEWS OF INTEREST FOR BUSY FARMERS

One of the distinctive features of modern agriculture in Ontario is the prominence of youth in all that pertains to the industry. This was not always so. In times gone by, owing to force of circumstances there was little inducement to youth on the farm further than a love of hard work, but, since the interest of young people has been aroused, the love of achievement in the oldest and greatest of all industries has placed the young farmer in a position of commanding importance.

This commanding position is in reality the outcome of one of the most progressive and encouraging movements of modern times, namely, farm club organization for girls and boys. Officially known as "Boys' and Girls' Farm Club Work in Canada," the movement is designed to develop interest in the farm and farm life; to provide a practical education in agriculture and home economics; to improve farm practices; to encourage the use of better livestock and seed; and to train young people for citizenship in their respective districts.

An object lesson in agricultural co-operation was afforded by the first field day of the Ottawa Valley Sheep Breeders' Association which was held recently at the farm of Donald M. Stewart, Osgoode, Ont., when more than 300 representative sheep farmers accompanied by their wives and women folk were in attendance. The meeting was also a remarkable tribute to the keenness of the sheep breeders and the farmers interested in sheep from the fact that they gathered in full force from the counties of Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec to set their official seal on the newly formed Ottawa Valley Sheep Breeders' Association by electing their first officers. Thus the first field day was the first annual general meeting of the association.

The society intends to play an important part in encouraging all phases of the industry and in developing a demand for lamb in the Cities of Ottawa and Hull, and other towns in the Ottawa Valley. The objects of the Association include help in the development of better facilities for marketing wool, lambs and purebred stock. The Ottawa Valley District is particularly well suited to the raising of sheep, including the production of good quality wool and choice commercial lambs.

Potash in Agriculture

Potash is one of the three essential elements of fertility — nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash. These elements have received this appellation not because they are any more essential to the growth of crops than the other nine or ten elements entering into the composition of plant tissues, but because they are the three which must be constantly returned to the soil if its productivity is to be maintained under our ordinary system of farming, which, as we know, entail the removal and sale of a least a portion of our crops.

Of these three elements, potash is the more widely distributed and less frequently deficient in soils than nitrogen and phosphoric acid and may be considered the least important from the standpoint of the necessity of application. Clay loams as a rule are well supplied with potash and seldom respond profitably to an application of a special potassic fertilizer. Indeed, upon heavy clays such an application may depress the yield by bringing about an unfavourable condition of tilth. It is more particularly sandy and gravelly loams, limestone soils and soils rich in vegetable matter such as mucks and peaty loams, which are poor in potash and upon which this element may be expected to give a profitable return.

Again, it is not all crops that call for potassic manuring. On our staple cereal crops, wheat and oats, potash seldom gives a remunerative return, save on the lightest and driest soils. Barley, for malling purposes, is to some extent an exception among cereals, frequently responding profitably to potassic manures and particularly so on sandy soils.

Crop Conditions

The latest crop report prepared by the Statistics Branch shows that field crops generally in Old Ontario made phenomenal growth in the month of June. An abundance of moisture and fairly cool weather provided the best growing conditions experienced in years. Fall wheat and fall rye, hay, and clover, spring grains and pastures grew very rapidly. Fall wheat is now ripening in Western Ontario and in the more southerly part harvesting will commence within a very few days. Bumper yields will be obtained on most fields, but lodging has reduced the yield somewhat on some stands. Spring grains have developed so rapidly in most of Central and South-western Ontario as to completely offset the extreme lateness of seeding.

Early oats and barley promise excellent yields. In Eastern Ontario spring grains have made good growth but are still below average. In Lake Erie counties frequent rains have interfered with haying operations and made curing difficult. As a result a considerable quantity of hay in this section will be of inferior quality. Weeds are the worst in years as late seeding and wet conditions of the soil have prevented cultivating. However crop conditions on the whole are quite promising in Old Ontario. In the major portion of Northern Ontario the weather since seeding has been too dry for satisfactory growth. The hay crop is especially poor and spring grains are backward and need rain for continued development. Grasshoppers are causing considerable damage in sections of Sudbury, Algoma and Manitoulin, and applications of poison bran have been necessary.

Controlling Plant Aphids

Aphids or plant lice are soft-bodied insects which are frequently found feeding in clusters on a wide variety of plants. They vary greatly in colour — white, green, blue, red, and black. When they are discovered they should be checked before further damage is done. They can be controlled much more easily at the beginning of an outbreak than later in the season when their numbers will have increased and the leaves on which they are feeding will have curled up in such a way as to protect the insects from sprays or dusts.

Spraying the plants with nicotine sulphate 40 per cent (Black Leaf 40) and water, to which has been added a small amount of laundry soap, is the easiest and best method of control. In small amounts, two teaspoonfuls of nicotine should be used in a gallon of soap water. For larger amounts, nicotine should be used at the rate of 3-8ths of a pint to 40 gallons of water with two to three pounds of soap added. The material should be applied on a hot, calm day, drenching both upper and lower surfaces of the leaves so as to actually hit all the insects.

In protecting field crops, at least 100 gallons of the spray should be used per acre at each application. Two or three applications at weekly intervals will be necessary for complete control. In buying nicotine sulphate in quantity, large containers should be purchased in preference to a number of small bottles or cans, because the cost is very much reduced by buying in bulk lots.

at liberty to say whatever we like (when the story's too old to be real news). However, the pleasing situation is that the Cooney Machine and Arms Co. have bought the plant and this week work began emptying the two western sections of the building in order to get new floors down at once. All the equipment belonging to the Cannery is being stored in the east section; and the new owners will give them several months in which to get it placed elsewhere.

Work will continue as rapidly as possible as the new people are anxious to lose no time getting under way. Just what name and capitalization they will be incorporated under is not yet stated; but announcement of those things will appear in the proper trade journals.

The announcement that will be of most interest to many in Brighton will be a sign out or an advertisement in the Ensign which reads "Help Wanted." — Bright Ensign.

THEY ALL HAVE 'EM

(Warkworth Journal)

Every town has a liar or two, a smart aleck, some pretty girls, more loafers than it needs, a woman who fattles, an old fogey the town would be better off without, men and sports who stand on the street corners and make remarks about people, the man who laughs an idiotic laugh every time he says anything, scores of men with the caboose of their trousers worn smooth as glass, men who can tell you just how the war question should be settled, foretell the weather and how to run other people's business.

CHEESE FACTORY AT BANCROFT BURNS

Believed to have originated in the boiler room, fire which gained considerable headway before it was discovered by nearby neighbours totally destroyed the Bancroft Cheese factory at Bancroft at 5.30 o'clock on Friday morning. The factory had been in operation for a period of just a little over two weeks. Constructed of cedar blocks, the factory fell ready prey to the flames which raged out of control before a volunteer force of firemen could cope with it. The loss will be heavy as only small insurance was carried. Twenty-seven cheese stored in the curing room were carried to safety before the building collapsed. It was owned by Mr. W. Weir.

Fire destroyed the Meaford Mirror weekly newspaper printing and publishing plant on Monday and caused loss estimated at $8,000. Volunteer fire brigade of a dozen men were praised for prompt action they rendered in saving a large brick residence which stood 25 feet away from the burning building and a garage and service station owned by W. J. Lackie barely escaped being burned. Ignited shingles dropped from the air. The Mirror was first published in 1881 and was founded by the late Charles Watson and James Patterson. HAVELOCK CHURCH DAMAGED BY FIRE Damage amounting to more than $2,000 was caused to St. John's Anglican Church by fire which broke out early Monday morning in the church basement. The blaze was discovered about five o'clock by Miss Edith Hull, who gave the alarm. The flames were concentrated around the motor of the pipe organ but the remainder of the church was filled with smoke making it almost impossible for the volunteer firemen to enter. The building and its contents are well insured. Much of the damage was done by smoke and water. Firemen too were forced to use their axes as they staggered about in the smoke-filled building. Tapestries and other cloth ornaments, considered more valuable than their intrinsic worth, were feared damaged beyond repair as a result. It is not yet determined how much damage was done to the reeds and pipes of the organ. The brigade forced entrance through a window and were successful in directing a steady stream of water on the burning machinery before actually entering the basement.

FOXBORO RESIDENTS INJURED

Two persons were injured in an accident on North Front Street, Belleville, late Saturday night when a car driven by Charles Burd, of Foxboro, overturned. Police who investigated were told by the driver that a broken front spring had thrown the car off the roadway, and had caused it to turn over. In the accident Mrs. Burd suffered a cut on the head and a daughter, Miss Doris Burd, suffered a knee injury.

MORE ARE MARRIED AND FEWER BORN IN 1937

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics last week reported births registered in sixty-seven cities and towns having populations of 10,000 and over during the six months ending June 30 totalled 40,250, a decline of 40 from the same period in 1936. Deaths numbered 28,479, an increase of 7 per cent, compared with 26,690, and marriages totalled 16,756, a gain of 6 per cent, against 15,779 in the first six months of 1936. Births registered during June numbered 7,218 an increase of 8 per cent, compared with 6,673 in June 1936, while deaths totalled 4,510, an increase of 11 per cent, against 4,059, and marriages numbered 4,541, a gain of 1 per cent, compared with 5,504.

TWO INJURED IN ACCIDENT NEAR TWEED

Bernard Wright, 12, Niagara Falls, N.Y., and Edmond Langevin, 18, of Hungerford Township, were seriously injured on Saturday night, two miles east of Tweed on the Bogart Road, and admitted to the Belleville Hospital. William Masterson, 20, of Hungerford Township, driver of another car said to be involved in the accident, were arrested by Chief Claire Hayes of Tweed, shortly afterwards on a charge of criminal negligence. He appeared before Justice of the Peace, Charles H. Kerr, and was remanded without plea for trial.

The Wright lad suffered a dislocated hip, extensive lacerations of the neck, a puncture wound in the left breast and a possible fracture of the neck and left shoulder.

TREASURER OF PRINCE EDWARD COUNTY DIED SUNDAY

Arnold Adams, V.D., recently retired Officer Commanding Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment and Treasurer of Prince Edward County for the past eight years, died on Sunday morning at his home in Picton, Ont., from heart trouble. A son of the late Colonel M. K. Adams, he was early associated with the 16th Regiment commanded by his father. He went overseas with the 39th Battalion, and in four years' active service was twice wounded. As an officer in the district regiment, he did much to make it one of the leading regiments in the Province. For six years he was a member of the executive of the Good Roads Association of Ontario, and in February, 1936, was elected President. His earlier life was spent as an insurance agent with the Standard Bank, from which he resigned to take over the management of a local store. He was head of the local regimental Badminton Club and a member of the local band. His mother died ten days ago. He is survived by his widow and two children, Barbara and Sheila, of Picton.

THE PENTHOUSE MURDER

By CALEB JOHNSON

SIXTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaels and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

When Flaherty and the demical examiner reach the apartment, they find that Miss Lane is still alive. She is rushed to a hospital where blood transfusions and care promise to restore her.

All circumstantial evidence points to Archie Doane as the murderer, especially when the murder gun is found carefully planted in the chimney clean-out in the basement.

"Why, such a thought never entered my mind. I suppose I could have done that, but it would never have occurred to me."

"I thought I knew what you would say," said Michaels. He turned to Inspector Flaherty.

"Your man has made a thorough search for a weapon here, hasn't he, Dan?"

"What about it, Tony?" asked the Inspector of Detective Martinelli.

"Find anything?"

"Not a trace, chief," replied the young detective. "I've looked into every place where a gun could be hidden and there isn't a sign of one. Either the guy that did the shooting took it away with him, or else he threw it away. The snow would hide it, you know."

"We'll keep that in mind, too," replied Inspector Flaherty as he led the way to the rear of the apartment.

Under the beams of the pocket searchlights of Detective Martinelli and the other men from Headquarters the deep rear roof garden of the penthouse apartment showed the same unbroken expanse of fluffy snow as the narrower space in front had exhibited. The white surface was broken only by the footprints of a man, which led from the janitor's roof door around the elevator shaft and the kitchen extension of the penthouse, to the French door, which gave access between Miss Lane's bedroom and the roof.

"I want a photograph of these footprints, and of the whole roof," said Inspector Flaherty to the camera man. "You've measured them?" he asked the Bertillon expert.

"Yes; and I've compared them with Mr. Doane's overshoes," was the reply. "They are his footprints, without a doubt."

"I'd like to inspect them carefully," said Max Michaels. He borrowed Martinelli's searchlight and as soon as the camera man had set off his flash and obtained his photographs, he scrutinized the tracks for several minutes. Then he stood up and threw the searchlight beams on the rungs of the iron ladder to the penthouse roof, and the coping which bordered the main roof on all sides, and upon the chimney stack which projected above it, seven or eight feet high and some twenty feet to the rear of the doorway in which they stood.

"I'd like to call your attention Dan to the footprints more particularly," he said to the Inspector. "They bear out Archie's story that he approached this door, over the roof, paused here, backed away a step or two, then returned to the door and entered. There are no tracks pointing away from the door, except those which your camera man made just now."

"I'd also like you to note that the snow ridges on the edge of the coping, on the rungs of the ladder and on the edges of the penthouse roof and on the top of the chimney are unbroken. Nobody has gone up or down the ladder, over the edge of the roof at any point, since it snowed."

"I don't know what that proves, Max, but I've noted it," responded Flaherty.

"It proves that if Archie did the shooting there are only two places where he could have hidden the gun," replied Max Michaels. "He could have stood here by the door where we are now, his feet pointing toward it, and tossed the pistol up on this penthouse roof, or he could have stood in the doorway and thrown it beyond the rear edge of the main roof into whatever courtyard there is between the high walls all round us."

"Now, I suggest that, if there is no reason for leaving the snow on the roof garden undisturbed since it has been photographed, that we go to the end of the roof and see what the snow below in the courtyard looks like."

"Why couldn't he have gone through to the front and thrown the pistol into the street?" demanded Inspector Flaherty. "I would have been harder to find there."

"Because, Dan, as you probably noticed, the front door and the windows of the studio had not been opened since the snow began until we opened that door a minute ago. You recall how the banked up snow on the doorsill tumbled inward when you opened the door?" replied Michaels.

"Did you go into the studio at all, Archie," he asked, turning to Doane. "Not until after the men from headquarters arrived and let me in there. I hardly moved from the chair at the telephone table, after I called the Inspector, until I rose to open the door for the detectives."

The searchlights revealed an enclosed courtyard at the rear of the building as the party looked over the coping and down into an L-shaped well, bounded on all sides by the walls of the buildings. It was obvious that nobody could have thrown anything over the roof of any of the adjoining buildings and there was not a mark or blemish in the unbroken surface of the snow below them, so far as could be seen from where they stood.

"Go down and get me the janitor, Tony," Inspector Flaherty ordered the detective. "Have him let you out into the yard and see if there is any spot we have overlooked."

"Wait a minute," he went on, as they turned so that they were again facing the penthouse. "First run up that ladder and see if anything has been thrown on the upper roof."

"It might have been thrown down the chimney," suggested Frazier, as Detective Martinelli hurried to obey orders.

"Hardly likely," said Michaels, throwing the searchlight he had borrowed from the Bertillon man on the chimney stack. "See. It has a stone covering over the top of the flue, with apertures at the four sides to let the smoke out. It would have taken a good marksman to toss a pistol or anything else from the doorway there with sufficient accuracy to hit a hole about eight by twelve inches, at an angle, without disturbing the snow on the edges of the bricks."

"That's right," Frazier agreed. "I hadn't noticed the covering."

They re-entered the apartment and Dan Flaherty addressed Doane.

"Did you ever play baseball, Archie?" he asked with apparent casualness.

"Yes; I used to be a pretty good pitcher. Why?"

"Oh, nothing. I just wondered," replied the Inspector.

Martinelli, scrambling down the ladder, joined them as they took off their overcoats again. "Nothing on the roof, Chief," he reported. "I'll go down and look over the yard now."

Inspector Dan Flaherty stood in the middle of the bedroom and searched every plane and angle of it with his deepest blue eyes, in silence.

"We've cleaned up outside," he said at last. "I'm going to comb this apartment again for the gun, though Tony seldom overlooks anything and if he can't find what he's looking for it usually means it isn't there. But there are a lot of other questions in my mind before I can give you a clean bill, Archie."

"First, I want to look over Fitzgerald's body with the doctor, here. What's the matter, Archie? Catch him, somebody!" he cried as Doane, white-faced, reeled and would have fallen but for Max Michaels.

The lawyer eased the actor into a chair. "It's that," he gasped, feebly, with a motion of his head toward the sheet-covered form on the floor. "I can't stand it; never could. I'm sor-

all. But it doesn't seem to be under him."

He poked about with a metal probe in the pool of rapidly clotting blood which the turning over of the body had disclosed, and upon which the Inspector now turned his searchlight.

"No bullet there," agreed Flaherty.

"Therefore, he was not shot while lying here. The next thing we've got to find is where the bullet went; then we may be able to tell where he was when he was shot. If he was shot inside of this apartment, the bullet is still here, for there isn't a crack in a pane of glass. Now, to speed things up, I wish you would all help."

Michaels and Frazier agreed willingly and the two Headquarters men took the request as an order. To each of the four the Inspector assigned one of the walls of the bedroom. "I'll take the floor and the ceiling," he said. "Go over every square inch of wall, woodwork, furniture, until we find that bullet."

SHANNONVILLE RESIDENTS HAVE ANCIENT TIMEPIECE

Messrs George and John Campbell of Shannonville are the owners of a grandfather clock which has been ticking almost continuously for over one hundred years.

The clock, a masterpiece of the clockmaker's art, in solid maple case, is highly prized by the brothers, and has been an object of admiration on the part of many collectors who have examined it.

It was purchased by the grandfather of the two brothers, James Port, one of the first settlers of the Hay Bay section and it is believed to have been built in Westminster, Massachusetts. Six feet high, of birdseye maple, the internal mechanism of the timepiece is also of wood and shows little wear in spite of the great age and constant service.

NOT SO BAD AFTER ALL

An Editor, who had his attention called to a mistake in one of his columns, didn't feel so aggrieved when he recalled that on the same day there was a letter in his post-office box that did not belong to him; he called 98 on his telephone and got 198; he called for a spool of No. 50 thread and got a spool of No. 60; he got his milk bill and there was a mistake of ten cents in the company's favour; he felt sick and the doctor told him he was eating too much meat when he hadn't tasted meat for two months; the preacher turned in his church notes with the name of the society president misspelled and the editor got the blame for it; the garage man said his car was missing because it needed a new timer; and he cleaned the spark plugs and the flywheel has run fine ever since. And no doubt you can pick out a few more that could not be blamed on the editor. — Exchange.

UNITED STATES OWNS HALF THE GOLD

Another world's record has been broken by the United States of America. On the first day of June, the total amount of monetary gold in that country passed the twelve billion dollar mark. That is three times the value of the gold in the United States three years ago. It is three times the value of all the known gold in the world at the end of 1914. Even allowing for the increase in the dollar price of gold from $20 an ounce to $35 an ounce, this tremendous accumulation of the yellow metal under American government control is really something to marvel at.

Twelve thousand thousand and thousand dollars. The human mind can hardly grasp such a tremendous sum. It is hard enough for most of us to visualize a single million, a mere thousand thousand. Multiply that by a thousand and again you have a billion. Now our neighbours across the line have twelve times that huge quantity more than half of all the available monetary gold in the whole world. The total reported last February by the 52 leading governments and central banks of the world was $22,837,000,000. Thus the United States' present holdings are 52.7 per cent of that total.

In the present unsettled state of world economics, there is much difference of opinion as to whether this huge store of gold is a blessing or a curse.

AMERICA'S CUP RACES OVER THE C.B.C. NATIONAL NETWORK

CBC informed this column this week that it would broadcast over its national network beginning Saturday, July 31, eye-witness descriptions of the international yachting races for America's Cup, to take place off Newport, Rhode Island. The Corporation will bring the event to listeners as an international exchange feature from the National Broadcasting Company, whose commentators will speak from a TWA transport airplane, the look-out at the Breton Point Coast Guard Station, a Coast Guard Cutter and a Coast Guard Patrol Boat. Continuing daily, C.B.C. informs this paper, its national network will be in operation from 3:00 to 5:30 EST until the races are over. During those daily periods listeners will hear descriptions of the progress and finish of each event in which Harold S. Vanderbilt's "Ranger", cup defender, and T. O. M. Sopwith's "Endeavour II", challenger, will participate. At the conclusion of the actual "from the scene" broadcasts, an observer will give a resume daily of the races and the results, as well as an analysis and outline of the tactics used by both contenders. He will speak from a special booth at the Breton Point Coast Guard Station.

MEN GET MARRIED TOO!

("Old Bill" in Dunnville Chronicle)
John Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jones, of Pleasant Villa, became the bridegroom of Miss Elizabeth Smith at high noon today. The ceremony took place at the home of the groom's parents and a full house was counted. Mr. Jones was attended by Mr. Brown as groomsmen. As the groom approached the altar he was the cynosure of all eyes. Blushing prettily as he replied to the questions of the clergyman in low tones, but firm. He was charmingly clad in a three-piece suit, consisting of a coat, vest and pants. The coat of dark material was draped about his shoulders and tastefully gathered under the arms. A pretty story was current among the wedding guests that his coat was the same one worn by his father and grandfather on their wedding days. Mr. Jones does not deny the truth of the sentimental touch. The vest was sleeveless and met in the front. It was gracefully fashioned with pockets and at the back held together with a strap and buckle. Conspicuous on the front of the vest was the groom's favourite piece of jewelry, a fraternity pin, and from the upper left hand pocket was suspended a large Ingersoll watch, the bride's gift to the groom, which flashed and gave the needed touch of brilliance to a costume in perfect taste and harmony.

The groom's pants were of dark worsted and were suspended from the waist, falling in a straight line almost to the floor. The severe simplicity of the garment was relieved by the right pantalette, which was caught up about four inches by a Boston garter worn underneath, revealing just the artistic glimpse of brown hole-proof above the genuine leather shoes laced with strings of the same colour. The effect was rather chic.

Beneath the vest the groom wore blue gallsies, attached fore and aft to the pants and passing in a graceful curve over each shoulder. This pretty and useful part of the costume would have passed unnoticed had not the groom muffed the ring when the groomsmen passed it to him. When he stooped to recover the errant ringlet, the cerulean blue of the gallsies was prettily revealed. His neck was encircled with a collar characterized by a delicate pearl tint of old-fashioned celluloid, and around the collar a cravat was loosely knotted exposing a collar button of bright metal. The cravat extended up and under the left ear with that studied carelessness which marks supreme artistry in dress.

Mr. Brown's costume was essentially like the groom's and as the two stood at the altar a hush of admiration enveloped the audience at the complete and wonderful harmony of the raiment. Actually you could hardly have told one from the other had it not been for a patch of court plaster worn by the groom over the nick in his chin made by a safety razor. Neither Mr. Jones nor Mr. Brown wore a hat at the ceremony. As Miss Elizabeth Smith led the groom from the nuptials, it was noted that she wore the conventional veil and orange blossoms.

PRESENTATION MADE TO DEPARTING BANDMASTER

Bandmaster Walter E. Dark of the Tweed Citizens' Band was the recipient of two living-room chairs at the final concert under his direction held at the Memorial Park on Sunday evening last. Dr. Bowley made the presentation on behalf of the merchants and citizens of Tweed. Mr. Dark, while taken by surprise at the presentation, made a suitable reply and thanked the people of this village for the support rendered the Band since its organization. Mr. Dark was presented with a mantle clock by the band boys at a concert and farewell held on Friday evening last. The presentation was made by M. R. Rose, President of the Band. — Tweed News.

INCREASE OUTPUT OF RADIUM AT PORT HOPE

Dr. Marcel Pochon, director of the Ontario Radium Refinery at Port Hope, announced recently the annual output at the refinery would be increased from one and a half ounces to four and one half (126 grams).

Dr. Pochon made the announcement following consultations with officials at the National Research Council, to which new equipment the refinery had purchased was sent for testing purposes.

The new equipment, Dr. Pochon said, would make it possible to supply some of the radium needs in the United States as well as in the British Empire which up to now has absorbed almost all the Canadian output.

NEW BELLEVILLE-KINGSTON MAP JUST ISSUED

The new Belleville-Kinston sheet, of the National Topographic series of maps, just issued by the Geographical Section of the Department of National Defence, contains a vast amount of detailed information on the physical geography of all or portions of Northumberland, Peterborough, Hastings, Prince Edward, Lennox and Addington, Frontenac, Leeds and Lanark counties. The completeness of the information furnished may be ascribed to the fact that much of the data on the network of rivers, streams and lakes, was secured from air photographs taken by the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The territory mapped is 100 miles from east to west and 82 miles from north to south, and includes such popular recreational areas as the Rideau Lakes, the Bay of Quinte, Presque Isle point, Sharbot lake, and the western portion of the Thousand Islands. The chief cities, towns and villages, shown include Belleville and Kingston, Perth Smiths Falls, Rideau Ferry, Westport, Portland, Newboro, Gananoque, Harrowsmith, Yarker, Sharbot Lake, Sydenham, Napawan, Deseronto, Picton, Tweed, Madoc, Stirling, Trenton, Brighton, Colborne, Campbellford, Marmora and Havelock.

Highways, roads, trails, railways, ferries and lighthouses are shown, thus making the map of great value to motorists, canoeists and tourists generally. The many lakes make this region very attractive to fishermen. The map is on a scale of four miles to one inch and is one of the latest additions to the more than 1,000 maps of areas throughout Canada distributed from the Hydrographic and Map service of the Department of Mines and Resources. A charge of 25 cents is made for the map, but one copy will be sent free for the use of any school within the area upon application of the principal or board of trustees. All applications should be sent to the Surveyor General, Department of Mines and Resources, Ottawa.

BELLEVILLE MARKET

Vegetables of every description and variety were offered the early morning shoppers with new fruits of the imported and homegrown varieties contributing to the general display on Belleville Market on Saturday.

New potatoes, forerunners of a bountiful crop, were plentiful and of exceptional quality and although general prices were quoted at $1.00 per bushel some potatoes were available at seventy cents. White and Yellow corn, however, held the vegetable spotlight as early shoppers rushed eagerly in an effort to purchase the delectable vegetable. Yellow bantam, firm and milky, sold at thirty-five cents per dozen although some was offered and sold at forty cents. The white variety was quoted at twenty to thirty cents the dozen.

Home grown tomatoes, fresh from the fields of the district, caught the eyes of early shoppers and although prices quoted at ten cents per berry box are normally high, vendors had little difficulty in disposing of their stocks.

Adequate supplies of other vegetables added to the general variety with plentiful supplies of beets, carrots, onions, lettuce selling in bunch lots of five cents. Fine samples of new cauliflower and cabbage brought a ready response from buyers' purses selling at from 5 cents per head upwards.

Beans Sold Well

Yellow and green string beans also sold well at five cents per box. Celery was quoted at ten cents per stalk and three for twenty-five cents. Cucumbers in all sizes and of good quality sold at from two for five cents upwards, with green peas selling at twenty-five cents per quart, shelled.

Red and blue raspberries dominated a variable fruit display and in spite of attractive prices offered by canning factories were plentiful at the market. General prices for the red variety were two boxes for twenty-five cents with case lots being offered in some cases at eleven cents. The "blues" were offered generally at a straight price of ten cents per box.

Red cherries of the Montmorency variety were fairly plentiful and sold fairly well at from 55 to 60 cents per six-quart basket. Melons in three varieties were fairly popular with watermelons selling at 49c, cantaloupe at 15 cents and the honeydew kind at 20 cents.

In spite of the reported shortage, a fairly heavy quantity of huckleberries was offered for sale. Eleven-quart lots were quoted at $2.25 with quarts quoted at 25 cents and half-quarts at 45 cents. Early apples were quoted at five and ten cents the box. Red currants demanded ten cents per berry box.

A heavy display of farm and dairy produce was offered in the inside market with eggs reaching a new high, selling in some places at 27 cents for "A" selects. Twenty-five cents the dozen was the general quotation with other qualities selling at slightly lower prices. Farmers' butter marked no change from former quotations selling at thirty cents per pound with some offered at fifty-five cents for two-pound rolls. Whipping cream remained firm at fifteen and thirty cents for the half-pint and pint respectively.

Fresh honey was fairly plentiful, selling at fifteen cents the comb, with the extracted product offered at fifteen cents per half pint jar. Whitefish and lake trout were the only fish varieties offered and were quoted at twenty and twenty-two cents per pound in the order named.

Broiler chickens were also in evidence selling at from eighty-five cents to one dollar and ten cents per pair. Spring pullets and fowls were plentiful and ranged in price from seventy-five cents to $1.25 each. A few ducks were offered at from fifty to seventy-five cents each.

NORWOOD BOWLERS

WIN IN TORONTO

Two members of the Norwood Bowling Club — H. C. Renaud and Earle Bongard — journeyed to Toronto on Saturday to participate in the Townsend-Clarke doubles competition sponsored by the Municipal Lawn Bowling Association and were among the prize winners, securing a pair of handsome satin bound reversible Woolcot blankets each. Though local teams have been entered in these competitions other years this is the first of such honours to be brought home. Messrs. Renaud and Bongard are being congratulated from all sides. — Norwood Register.

ARE YOU DIFFIDENT?

We mean about seeing your name in the local paper? Why should you be? For you are not living in Tamercon where the witch-doctor would tell you that your name is your after ego, and that your enemy might clip from the paper, consign it to flames and chuckle as he watched you shrink and shrivel, shriek and crackle and at the last collapse in smoke and ashes. So that next time you favour us with a "personal" will you not just throw caution to the winds? — Give Mrs. Tungwagger something to really was about. Toss in that extra line which will represent human interest. Then put on your Sunday-go-to-meeting-hat and come over and call on us. If your line tickles us we will match it with an ice-cream cone. And to leave you with no doubt as to our meaning we will offer an example or two which you will be able to improve upon:

1. Mr. Titewad spent — no, not his week-end — but his weekly cheque, on a trip to the city. He also spent four hours in the bald-headed row at the Roxy theatre and says that young girls weren't like that seventy years ago, that it's a shame, and somebody ought to do something about it. (After Mr. Titewad has joined his ancestors, presumably.)

2. Little Tommy Newsants spent a week in Markham with his Aunt Susy. Tommy got into the strawberry patch on his own power, but had to be carried out. Tommy has a good chance to recover, Dr. Sokem predicts.

3. Mrs. Stifnek has just terminated a six-months visit with Mr. and Mrs. Gay Ely. Mrs. Stifnek sails to Italy where she will visit the site of storied Pompeii. Is there any hope that Vesuvius will have stomach-trouble about that time?

4. Mr. I. Will Cheatum has crossed the one-way river after a long lucrative business career in this community. Mr. Cheatum left everything to his widow, including a large equity in Bad Will, Incorporated. Owing to considerable controversy as to Mr. Cheatum's forwarding address in this spirit world — many holding that his letters will require special insulation — his mail is being held pending receipt of precise information as to whether it shall go up or down.

5. Miss Ophelia Flerter and Mr. Romeo Heyebrow were married on Wednesday by the Rev. Dr. Stendement. The bride was given away in a costume of clothes and shoes. The couple left for somewhere, the bride travelling in hat, shoes and clothes. The bridegroom also wore some clothes. The bride's mother from Humptulup, Washington, was in town for the wedding, and wore a fetching ensemble of shoes, hat and clothes. The bridesmaids were very colourfully costumed in clothes, shoes and hats, and — presumably, since it was a chilly day — also some underwear. In short this was one of the most outstanding social events of the season.

Almost everyone wore clothes hats, shoes and stockings. The couple will travel for a certain length of time and will then take up residence somewhere.

6. Mr. Lukless was blessed with the arrival of quintuplets on Monday last. Pappa Lukless has thrown up his job, and intimates he will erect a hot-dog stand and live in clover for the rest of his days. — The Markham Economist and Sun.

FOUNDER OF MARQUIS WHEAT DEAD

A year to the day after his wife's death, Charles Edward Saunders, who won a knighthood for his contributions to Canadian agriculture, died at his home in Toronto on Saturday. He was 70 years old. To North American wheat growers in particular and to all agriculturists he will be best remembered for his development of Marquis wheat.

Sir Charles became the first Dominion Cerealists when the Canadian government created that post in 1903. This was, in part, in recognition of his achievement in giving the Canadian and United States wheat an early ripening wheat that established the prairies as the granary of the world. King George V. recognized the scientist's great contribution to Dominion and Empire in 1934, when they made him a knight bachelor. Sir Charles honoured the title, remaining the same kindly, modest man that had endeared him to all who knew him. After 22 years' service Sir Charles retired. He had been in ill health since the death of his wife and his illness became more serious two months ago. Agricultural science seemed destined for a time to lose the work of Charles Saunders when as a young man he turned to music. He studied in the United States and later taught at Haverhill and St. Margaret's Women's Colleges in Toronto.

But a family tradition seemed stronger attraction and in the 1890's Charles Saunders joined his father, Dr. William Saunders, then head of the Dominion Experimental Farms, and his brother, A. P. Saunders, in their experiments with wheat strains.

Marquis was first obtained from a cross between Red Fife and Red Calcutta by the brother, Dr. A. P. Saunders, but it remained for Sir Charles in 1903 to develop the strain. The process, as Sir Charles would sometimes recall, he tested the gluten qualities of the wheat by chewing little blobs of it.

Introduced in the Canadian west, Marquis for its hardhood and early ripening qualities became widely accepted and today it flows across thousands of acres of farmlands.

ANOTHER CURE FOR POISON IVY

Again we hear of poison ivy. It should be easily distinguished with its three leaves on a vine — lighter green than Virginia creeper. A sure remedy for it is wild balsam or jewel weed. This antidote for the ivy poisoning is generally found growing in the same neighbourhood (poisons and their antidotes often are). Just rub some of the crushed leaves or stems on the infected area. It will cure permanently recurrent poisoning (poisoning that returns at the same season each year without contact). This remedy has been boxed and sent through mail and effects cures with only a few applications.

DISTRICT HOG GRADING SERVICE IS IMPROVED

It is the object of the Dominion Livestock Branch to improve the Hog Grading Service in the Belleville district, so that farmers will be assured of their correct settlements.

Much effort has been spent in working out the Mechanical difficulties of the present system. The tattoo system of identification is giving excellent results. The problem of weighing each carcass was overcome by the introduction of the Electric Printomatic Scales. These scales are tested before and during every kill. An electric light burns in the scales continually, to drive out moisture and to keep the temperature of the scales as constant as possible.

Grading becomes a very empty and meaningless procedure, if the official grade is not the final basis of settlement. It may be the farmers' privilege to sell his hogs as he sees fit, but it is not reasonable to assume that he is in as good a position as the drover to judge the actual value of his hogs. The commissions paid by Packing Houses to drovers is very small in comparison to the amount of work involved, so that the drover must depend on buying the hogs in line with their true value or he will be the loser.

On many occasions farmers have complained about receiving their grade reports. There are several reasons why reports may have gone astray. The following are common causes:

1. Poor writing on the manifests.
2. Incorrect addresses, which were due to drovers guessing at post offices and rural routes.
3. Hogs being delivered to the stations by truckers who failed to ask the farmers their correct addresses.

These difficulties are overcome by the drover posting his manifest in the shipping station where the farmers may see the official grade allotted to their own hogs. These report forms will be available for several months so that farmers may collect the grade at their own convenience.

This system is being put into effect through the co-operation of the shippers, and the Dominion Livestock Branch trusts the pig producers will find it of value to them.

BRIGHTON MAN SENTENCED TO KINGSTON

George Moutenay, of Brighton Township, was sentenced to two years and six months in penitentiary when he appeared for sentence on a charge of Arson. He was convicted of setting fire to the house of Marshall Tyler on June 4.

Judge L. V. O'Connor dismissed charges of arson and conspiracy to defraud the insurance company against Mrs. George Moutenay. The Crown accordingly withdrew charges of arson and conspiracy on which Cynthia Tyler, James Thompson and Frances Thompson were to appear. A. Klein appeared for the Fire Marshal's Department, and A. J. Skeans was defense counsel for all the accused except George Moutenay. Defense witnesses declared the house was insured because of threats made by Moutenay that he would burn Tyler's house.

BAILEY REUNION

Friday, July 23rd, was a gala day for the descendants of the Bailey family when they held their tenth reunion in the form of a picnic at Searles Beach, Oak Lake.

The day was all one could wish for, and consequently a goodly number from as far west as Edmonton, Alta., Detroit, Toronto, not forgetting those from Belleville, Peterboro, Marmora, and Stirling vicinity.

Dinner had been announced for 12 o'clock and by that time a goodly number sat down to well-laden tables and enjoyed eatables so far as to say some could hardly move from the tables. It was a festive scene as various friends greeted each other across the dinner table. After all had eaten all they could, Mr. E. S. Bailey treated all to watermelon which was well enjoyed. Following this the President Mrs. W. J. Pack, of Marmora, opened the business meeting of the day with a few words of welcome to all the Baileys and their descendants to the picnic. Evelyn Bailey, Sec.-Treas., read the minutes of the last meeting, which was held at Booster Club Park, Marmora, and gave the financial report in regards to the picnic. The President then gave the report of

With the champions well in the lead and apply defending the honour gained by them last year the final play-off game was called at the end of the sixth innings because of darkness and it was not definitely known what action would be taken to settle the championship of 1937. Sidney turned in a fine day's performance and cracked under the heavy batting of the champions who scored eight runs in the fifth. When the game was called at the first of the sixth the score stood 13 to 5 for Madoc.

The teams —
Madoc — Meraw, Mumby, Woods, Wartman, Rollins, Woods, Hunter, Woods and Caniff.
Sidney — Calvert, Miller, Ray, Thrasher, Finkle, Morrison, Bristol, Woods and Short.

The day's program was brought to a conclusion by a dance held in the Oak Lake pavilion. One of the largest crowds in the history of the event was in attendance and music was supplied by the Ketcheson Orchestra, of Wallbridge, for round and square dancing. The personnel of this orchestra, which was only recently organized, is drawn from the members of the Stirling Citizens' Band and many complimentary comments were heard on the excellence of the music provided.

THE YOUNGEST GRANDPARENTS

Gananque believes it has probably the youngest grandparents in the Province of Ontario, in the persons of Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo Raymond Buell, Elm Street. Mr. Buell said that although he will not be 36 years of age until October 4th next, and his wife is practically the same age, they have a grandchild seven months old.

Their daughter, at 17 years of age, married Fred Macdonald, of Gananque, who was 21 on February 6, 1936, and their daughter, Marilyn, was born on Dec. 14, 1936. The little granddaughter now weighs 13 pounds. Mr. Macdonald is manager for the firm of Joseph Abramsky & Sons, Kingston, at their Gananque branch, and the grandfather is employed at the St. Lawrence Steel and Wire Company.

Robert Cummings, the great-grandfather, is superintendent at the plant of the St. Lawrence Steel and Wire Company. Mrs. Macdonald said: "You know, Dad and Mother were married when they were real young, and I am only following in my parents' footsteps when I married at the age of 17."

Five teams faced the barrier in the Men's Tournament representing Hungerford, Rawdon, Sidney, Madoc and Thurlow, but the final game between Madoc and Sidney failed to produce a winner, only six innings being played when the game was called on account of darkness.
